Prescription Service

At Best's stores is second to none. That it is appreciated is amply proven by the number of doctors who send their prescriptions here and by the hundreds of satisfied customers.

Both at the main store and at the Branch a qualified druggist is always on the job, waiting to compound medicine which may mean life or death. This service means long, weary hours and careful, trying watchfulness, and it is really up to you to take advantage of it and take all your doctors' orders to "Best's."

May Try Schemes in Austria. Paris, July 3.—According to unofficial advices reaching Paris, Leon Trotsky, Foreign Minister of the Bolshevik Government in Russia, is in Vienna, travelling incognito. The object of his visit is not known, although it is surmised that he may be taking a hand in the general political situation in Austria, where conditions are reported ready for a revolt.

Women Among Pirates. Tokio, July 3.—Six women are among a band of inland sea pirates recently arrested by gendarmes. It is expected that the entire number of the group of fifty pirates will be taken into custody soon.

THE UNDYING BRAVERY HAD SUFFERED FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS

OF THE 8TH ENGLISH DIVISION ON THE AISNE.

Heroic Resistance in Keeping Back German Forces Until All the Bridges Were Blown Up.

With the British Armies in the Field July 2.—During the German advance on the Aisne, May 27th, four British divisions were engaged in hard and constant fighting, and the full story of their effort to check the enemy has not yet been told. I have heard some details of the part played by the 8th Division, composed of English regiments, which held the front from Craumont to Berry-au-Bac, west of Rheims. They were forced back by superior numbers from the trenches north of the Aisne drenched with gas, assailed with tanks and attacked constantly by greatly superior forces of infantry, yet they succeeded in delaying the German assault at several places and the record of their ordeal reveals many splendid incidents of heroism and sacrifice. Mere handfuls of men fought until they were killed or surrounded, and those who came back only gave ground when the Germans penetrated far toward the rear and tore away their flanks beyond repair.

34 Bridges Over Aisne.

There were 34 bridges over the Aisne and its tributary, the Miette, which crossed the 8th division front at right angles just west of Berry-au-Bac. All of them were of wood save the principal crossing at the latter village on the north bank, which was a stout structure. It was impossible to destroy all these bridges, and the Germans were able to throw large forces across those which remained intact, including one at Berry-au-Bac. There was the usual dense fog early in the morning of May 27th when the battle began, and it was intensified by smoke of the preparatory bombardment, which began soon after midnight. The 8th division was notified by a formidable concentration of trench mortars and alternately gases, covered by high explosives. When the German infantry attacked at four o'clock it was impossible to see more than 50 yards, and 20 minutes later the right brigade division was forced to fall back.

All the troops resisted with the greatest stubbornness, but they were charged by tanks that came upon them suddenly through the fog, and the enemy kept pouring through little gaps in the line working around in the usual fashion, which gave no option but to come back. By half-past six the remnants of the troops around Berry-au-Bac were trying to reach the bridge and establish a blow up the bridges and establish a new line.

Has Never Found Anything in Canada or England to Equal Tanlac.

"I have taken all kinds of medicines, both in this country and in England, and I just want to say right here and now that I have never found anything to equal Tanlac," said William Trivette, who resides at 9 Cameron Place, Toronto.

"I have had stomach trouble of the worst sort for eighteen years," he continued, "and during that time I was a constant sufferer. Before I came to Canada, eleven years ago, I was treated in some of the best hospitals in England, and have tried everything I ever heard of. And ever since I have been over here I have been trying to get rid of my trouble, but it seemed like the more I tried the worse I got. My stomach was in such a bad condition that in the month of February alone I was off from my work more than two weeks, and I can verify this by my time book. My appetite was all gone, and I had almost forgotten what it was to sit down and enjoy a good hearty meal; and suffer! no one except those who have gone through the same ordeal knows. I couldn't eat a bite of breakfast, and I can imagine how I felt. One morning I reported for work, but found it was just so weak and 'all in' that it was impossible for me to do anything and it was two weeks before I was able to go back to work. At lunch time I would eat a few mouthfuls, but everything would turn acid, and I suffered agony from gas, bloating and pain. I couldn't sleep on account of my misery and would get up in the mornings feeling half dead.

"Now this is only a partial description of the way I suffered during those eighteen years. I would take too long to tell it all. My color was sallow and unhealthy looking, I lost nearly thirty pounds in weight and had no life or energy about me. I had taken medicine until I was sick and tired of it, but one night while down in bed, I happened to see some Tanlac in the drug store window, so I went in and bought a bottle, and told the clerk if it didn't help me he would surely hear from me. Well, sir, before I finished that first bottle I could tell it was doing me good. I have taken four bottles now, and, to make a long story short, I'm simply feeling like a new man. I have enjoyed a day's work since I began taking it and I am getting stronger and better all the time. I have a fine appetite, eat just anything I want and never have a touch of indigestion, and breakfast is now one of my heartiest meals. My skin is clearing up, my weight is coming back all the time, and the boys all tell me I'm looking like a different person. I can hardly find words to express my gratitude for what it has done for me and I wouldn't begrudge paying ten dollars a bottle for it. If anyone would like to talk with me personally I will be only too glad to tell them about the wonderful results I have gotten from Tanlac."

THE TENDERS AWARDED

BUT THE MEMBERS NOT PLEASED AT MODE OF OPERATION

Of the Property Committee—Recommendations Were Voted and Later Endorsed as No More Money Was in Sight.

The Board of Education at its meeting on Tuesday afternoon awarded tenders for school improvements to the value of $11,000, but not before there was much discussion over the way the property committee had handled the details. The report of the committee read:

1.—That the tender of McKeivry & Birch for the plumbing, carpentering, tin-smithing, painting and mason work in connection with the improvement of the lavatories in Victoria, Sydenham, Louise and Central schools be accepted at $5,067.

2.—That the tender of Elliott Bros. for the plumbing in connection with the change of the Collegiate Institute lavatory system be accepted at $4,385.

3.—That the tender of Simmons Bros. for putting additional black-board accommodation in six public schools and supplying all material be accepted at $1,500.

The members by a vote of 8 to 4 refused to accept the first and third clauses, as the committee, after one tenderer had rejected accepting a contract as there was a mistake in his figures, did not follow the general procedure of giving the contract to the next lowest tenderer, but called for new tenders, not by advertisement as in the original notification, but by asking contractors to submit figures. The majority felt that that procedure was unfair. But after the clauses were rejected the dilemma arose what to do? The council had granted $13,000 for certain works, the deputation waiting on it relying on the figures given by the property committee as requisite. If the tenders under the amount were accepted the amount needed would be about $15,000, and the chairman was of opinion the council would not be willing to give the additional amount. He regretted the position the board found itself in. The members having protested against the way the committee had done its work might now be thought to accept the recommendations made in its report and the work could be done within the limits of the grant. After some waiting and debating the report was reconsidered and adopted with two members in opposition.

The marriage took place in Montreal of Miss Adeline Marguerite Jackson, youngest daughter of William E. Jackson, to Frederick Eugene Lewis, Ottawa, son of the late William J. Lewis and Mrs. Lewis, Morrisburg.
