A PROFESSOR FROM JAPAN A COAL SCOW OVERTURNED

TELLS OF THE WORK IN KOBE UNION METHODIST COLLEGE.

School Conducted Along Non-Sectarian Lines, But Pupils or the Students Eventually Become Christians.

Prof. H. T. Wordsworth, of Kobe Union Methodist College, Japan, gave a very interesting account of his work in Sydenham Street Methodist church on Sunday morning. He gave a brief account of the awakening of Japan to a consciousness of her place among the nations of the world. Her present day position, politically and commercially, affords a striking parallel to the Elizabethan period in English history. To-day is a time of romance to her people for they have discovered that a great world lies beyond the mists of the great Pacific, and new enterprises undreamed of before have been opened up. As old England and Spain met on the seas of the old world, Japan and Russia had met in the east. The question of religion, too, is present in the east and Japan is called upon to choose between Buddhism and Shintoism. The people are plastic and susceptible to influence—it is an age of receptivity. The nation's rise is not due to accident but to a quality of innate greatness. She is now mistress of the Pacific ocean.

Prof. Wordsworth told of Japan's commercial progress and political influence. She has a great soul which is hungry and longing to be fed. The religion of ancestor worship is not satisfying. There is a craving for a purer religion.

The Methodist Mission College is located in the port of Kobe the greatest port on the Pacific. The population consists of 500,000 people. The college was opened eight years ago and has now 800 high school pupils and 600 college students. Last year there were 600 applications for admission, but owing to limited accommodation they could not be accepted. The school is conducted along non-sectarian lines for the students are for the most part non-Christian, but before graduation fully two-thirds become converted. Japan offers a great missionary opportunity and we ought to give her a helping hand.

280 GROSS TONS OF COAL THROWN INTO THE LAKE.

The Loss Will Be About $2,500, Which Is Believed to Be Insured—Movements of Vessels In and About Kingston Harbor.

A scow bound from Oswego to Belleville, bearing 280 gross tons of coal, and towed by the tug Argyle, of which Capt. Oscar Kennedy is master, was overturned and the coal dumped out at Simcoe Light, near Nias Mile Point, early on Sunday morning. The tug was several hours out from Oswego at the time of the accident and it happened so suddenly that nothing could be done to avert it. About seven o'clock C. H. Patterson, of Belleville, to whom the coal was consigned, inspected the scow and everything appeared to be in good shape. The lake was very choppy with a heavy north-east wind blowing up and one of the hatches worked itself loose. This was repaired and when all looked seaworthy Mr. Kennedy returned to the tug.

About half past nine the scow could be seen to list to one side and in a few seconds lurched heavily and the cargo of coal was thrown into the lake. The scow remained afloat after the cargo had disappeared into the great depth of water, and orders were immediately given to make for Kingston. The tug reached the clearing during the forenoon and the scow was moored in Portsmouth Bay.

Speaking with the Whig, Mr. Patterson stated that the loss would amount to about $2,500, which, he believed, was fully covered by insurance.

At St. Andrew's Church.

At St. Andrew's church on Sunday-morning Rev. R. Bruce Taylor, D.D., discoursed eloquently on prayer and its effect at the present time when the world is torn with the anguish of war. Not the prayer that seeks for personal gratification nor the prayer that invokes the aid of the Almighty when events cast a fearful shadow in thoughtless lives are needed now, but the pensive reflection on the mercy of God and of his wonderful gifts to his children is necessary to sustain a happy mankind. The inhabitants of the earth must bow at the footstool of the Omnipotent in a spirit of humility, even as did David when in great distress he cried out with unflinching faith, "O God, I cry in the daytime, but thou hearest not; and in the night season, and am not silent. But thou art holy." Such an invocation from a faithful and believing soul must be typical of the prayers of the multitude if the world is to receive the fruits of salvation.

GIVEN A FAREWELL.

Conductor Funnell Has Been Promoted and Translated.

Renfrew Mercury.

Thomas Funnell, who for a generation or so has been a conductor on that division of the C.P.R. commonly known as the K. & P. R'y., is now to be given a new run on the line, it is to be between Kingston and Sharbot Lake and to be promotion from his present office. Thus he will no more be making tri-weekly runs into Renfrew from the Limestone City. Connected with the four different branches of Oddfellowship, he in Renfrew was associated with the two branches here—Subordinate and Rebekah—and members of these lodges joined on Wednesday evening in tendering him a farewell.

The event was organized by Harriet Rebekah Lodge No. 14, whose degree master Mr. Funnell had been for a period of seven years. On behalf of the lodge an address was read by Mrs. Robert McEwen, and in Mr. Funnell's hands was placed an umbrella by Miss Annie Morrow, principal officer of the lodge, after which the recipient had been escorted to the chair by Miss Maggie Dempsey, the V.G. Under the chairmanship of J. H. Walford a short musical and literary programme was presented, after which refreshments were served and a social hour spent. Mr. Funnell returned hearty thanks for the honor done him.

The Mercury understands that Conductor John Craig will get the position vacated by Mr. Funnell, and that some other member of the staff will succeed Mr. Craig.

ST. PAUL'S FINE NEW ORGAN

WAS USED FOR THE FIRST TIME ON SUNDAY.

Prof. Charles Millner Gave a Recital at the Evening Service—There Was a Large Congregation Present.

At the Sunday evening service in St. Paul's church an organ recital was given by Prof. Charles Millner, A.R.C.O., after the sermon. The rector, Canon W. F. FitzGerald, stated that the installation of the new organ was made possible by a legacy in the will of the late Miss A. J. Kelly and by the noble response of the members of the congregation, who made up the balance of the purchase price. He expressed feelingly his own gratitude and that of the parish to those who had contributed to discharge the indebtedness of the church, and he announced that there was already the nucleus of a coal fund and repair fund. The dedication of the new organ will take place on the last Sunday in September. Bishop Bidwell will be the preacher at the morning service, and Bishop Farthing, of Montreal, will preach in the evening. The service on that occasion will be the annual thanksgiving.

The programme adopted by Prof. Millner was well calculated to bring out all that the organ was capable of, and yet he suffered no departure from what was most fitting in ecclesiastical music. The selections were: First sonata by Gullonnet; Allegro in E-flat Leumann; Tocata, Dubois; Andante, Wely; Marche Sillas; Ave Maria, Henselt; Festive March, Smart; Grand Choeur, Guilmant. Mr. and Mrs. Hill took the solos in the anthem, "Songs of Praise the Angels Sing."

The organ, which was installed under Prof. Millner's supervision, was built by Casavant Freres, St. Hyacinthe, Que. It is a beautifully toned instrument and of ample size for the church. The mechanical section is scarcely audible even in the softest passages. Nothing can describe the light and shade and subtle change of movement to which this instrument is adapted, while in climax nothing more can be wished for.

There was a very large congregation present, and at the conclusion of the recital expressions of the keenest appreciation were heard. St. Paul's is to be congratulated on possessing one of the most beautiful organs in the city.
