TWO REPAIR MEN PARTOOK
TOO FREELY OF HOSPITALITY

Leon Morrison Took Too Long To Be Shaved, and the Eagle Eye of a Watchful Constable Found His Car Loafing—A. W. Benjamin Passed a Standing Street Car.

Imperial whiskey flowed freely by the wayside Tuesday afternoon when a generous motorist travelling from Montreal to Toronto brought some of the Lower Canada booze with him. On the Napanee road near the Five Mile House he broke the front spring of his car, and a hurried call was sent to one of the local garages for repair men. They drove to the spot, and while one was jacking up the car the other imbibed freely of the delicious liquid. Five drinks he claimed to have taken before he passed the fire water to his companion. Between them they drank the bottle dry, and as the story of the hour's delight was told to the crowded police court on Wednesday morning many heads were seen to wag and a sort of far-away look came into yearning eyes.

The motorist knew what he was doing, for he paid no money for the work, and one of the typists made the startling statement that he did not consider that a bottle of whiskey was worth a new spring.

For their little escapade Walter Mc-Bundle and Gordon Macdonald contributed $10 and costs apiece, and the former paid an additional $10, the costs for reckless driving the car back to the city, so hilarious did the forbidden tastes make him.

An elaborate defence was presented to Magistrate Farrell by the local branch of the G. A. S. C., which was charged with cutting a corner at the corner of Montreal and Princess streets. The driver, Pte. Edson Murray, claimed that there was a motor car in front of him and a street car behind him, and that all he could do was to make a diagonal crossing. His evidence was corroborated by Capt. Van Blacksee, and in a plea for a minimum fine of found guilty. Lieut. Askwith stated that instructions had been issued to all the drivers that no distinction could be made in the case of Government drivers, and that therefore they must obey the traffic regulations. In dismissing the case, the Police Magistrate stated that he was pleased at the action of the authorities, and appreciated their interest in maintaining careful driving on the city streets.

Although Leon Morrison, appearing for O. J. Robinson, stated that his car could not have been on Princess street longer than seven minutes, P. C. Leslie Armstrong said that the car stood in front of a local barber shop for twenty-five minutes. Morrison said that it would be a poor barber that would have to take twenty-five minutes to shave him, and that to show how easy it could be done he had Ross Hartman, his barber, called into the witness stand. Witness said that Morrison was in the shop between five and seven minutes, and that a quick job was made because the constable informed them that he had his eye on the car. Their efforts proved unavailing, and a fine of $5 and costs was meted out.

After being adjourned on several occasions, the case against A. W. Benjamin, Yarker, which was preferred by the Street Railway Company, of driving past a standing street car, came up once more. Mr. Benjamin was in fighting mood, but the evidence of Inspector Damon Marchand, Motorman Albert Perry and Conduccorette Mabel Brewster showed that he had passed the car, and $5 and costs had to be put into the city coffers.

Two other motorists, W. C. Ashton and the driver for Milford & Co., did not appear in court, but paid $5 and costs to the acting chief of police.
