DRUGGISTS HOLD MEETING

TO DISCUSS QUESTIONS AFFECTING THEIR INTERESTS.

They Will Have to Secure Female Apprentices—The Druggists Entertained by N. C. Polson & Co.

The annual meeting of the druggists of Ontario, held in the City Council Chamber Thursday afternoon. Edward W. Case, Picton, district representative, occupied the chair. Frank J. Hoag, of this city, was appointed secretary-treasurer of the district on account of the retirement of W. W. Gibson.

The chairman gave a short report of his work as district representative for the past year, pointing out to the members the necessity of being continually on the alert with regard to the interests of pharmacists of the province, intimating the necessity of the druggists looking to their own interests with regard to legislation, which from time to time was coming before the Ontario Legislature.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, E. W. Case, Picton; vice-president, W. J. Malloy, Deseronto; secretary-treasurer, Frank J. Hoag, Kingston; executive committee, John McEwen, J. B. McLeod, L. T. Best, Adam Fullerton, T. B. Wallace, S. C. Lamb, E. L. Fraser.

The above committee is to act as representatives to the annual meeting at Toronto on Aug. 27th.

W. H. Graham, of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, Toronto, gave an interesting address on matters affecting the general welfare of the college both from an educational and legislative standpoint, pointing out many matters which the druggists had not up to the present time known, just in what manner they were handled by the college authorities. The scarcity of drug assistants and apprentices were also touched upon by Mr. Graham, he being of the opinion that in the very near future druggists of the province would find it to their advantage to engage the services of young ladies as apprentices. He also pointed out several instances where young ladies had attended the College of Pharmacy and had graduated with credit to them in some instances they are occupying positions as dispensers in hospitals throughout the province.

N. C. Polson, Sr., of the firm of N. C. Polson & Co., of this city, was asked by the chairman to address the delegates, which he did in a very illuminating manner, tracing the retail drug business in the province back for the past forty years. The delegates found Mr. Polson's address very interesting and instructive. Among other things which Mr. Polson alluded upon was his connection as district representative of No. 2 district for some thirteen years during the formative period of the Ontario College of Pharmacy. He was the mover of the resolution which brought about the present commodious college building situated on Gerrard street east, Toronto.

A vote of thanks was tendered to W. B. Graham for his very interesting and instructive address, and to the chairman, E. W. Case.

After the business session the delegates were tendered a complimentary dinner at the Frontenac Club by the firm of N. C. Polson & Co., which it is unnecessary to say, was enjoyed to the fullest possible extent.

The chairman, on behalf of the delegates present, tendered Mr. Polson a vote of thanks for his thoughtfulness and hospitality. The pleasant gathering broke up after singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and the National Anthem.

The girls are anxiously awaiting the result of the draw. About seventy-five girls are on the waiting list to be taken on as conductorettes.

Bellefleur will be a military demobilization centre with headquarters where returned soldiers will have living accommodation and receive medical boards. The armoured cars have been fitted up for this purpose and over three hundred soldiers can be cared for there. It is the intention to send to Bellefleur returned soldiers who are not hospital cases, walking wounded, who will be cared for and ultimately receive their discharge. It is planned to make discharge depots in various centres.

At the Theatres

"My Irish Cinderella."

Few plays have ever told a prettier story of love in a more simple or unaffected way than does "My Irish Cinderella." Love and adventure form the chief fundamentals of the piece, and in its composition will be found every ingredient that appeals to the lover of the drama.

The characters are for the most part very lovable, and where they do not possess that attribute, they are at least strikingly real. "My Irish Cinderella" comes to the Grand Opera House, Saturday, Aug. 24th, matinee and night. The play contains plenty of action. Peggy McNeil is an entrancing character, and she is surrounded by a whole lot of real flesh and blood people who move and have their being in situations which, rather than being stagey are typical of real life.

"At the Grand." A story telling of the loves and kind heart of Peg Woffington, who was the most famous actress of her day on the London stage, is "Masks and Faces," the five-reel Brady-made World Picture which was shown at the Grand last evening.

The character of Peg Woffington was delightfully portrayed by Irene Vanbrugh and Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, one of the most distinguished actors in the world at the present date, was starred in the fascinating role of Triplet. Never has there such a remarkable cast gathered together for the making of a motion picture, and "Masks and Faces" is certainly the photoplay of the day. Don't miss it when it will be shown at the Grand for the last time to-night. Other good films on the bill were the "Fathe News," a Lonesome Luke comedy and an O'Henry story, while an act of the very best vaudeville makes a programme well worth seeing.

"At Griffin's." Appearing in what may safely be said to be the finest photoplay shown here in many months, William S. Hart, the Thomas H. Ince art-craft star, was a prime attraction in his newest photoplay, "Shark Monroe," at this theatre yesterday.

In this picture Mr. Hart portrays the role of Shark Monroe, the savage master of a sealing schooner, "The Gull," which sailed along the north-west coast. It was a new character as far as Mr. Hart was concerned, but he developed its various phases with splendid artistry, and the play achieved an instantaneous triumph. Charming Enid Bennett appeared in her newest paramount picture, "The Biggest Show on Earth," which delighted the audience. The unusual character and superb photography made a deep impression upon the audience, and tended to enhance Miss Bennett's popularity among her admirers in this city.

A visit to Griffin's to-night or to-morrow ensures you an evening of the finest entertainment the motion picture world has to offer.

"Social Quicksteps" is attracting much attention at the Strand Theatre for the last of this week. It gives Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne excellent opportunities to put forth their best efforts. It is a story of woods and witchery, a romance strong in action and with an interest which catches and holds the heart.

Both players have scored successes before, but in this remarkable production they seem to have brought forth something new and bewitching. In addition to the strong attraction there is a wealth of comedy, and the topical reels show something real, new and appetizing. To-night and to-morrow afternoon and evening will be the last chances to see this excellent offering. Next week an equally strong and timely bill will be put on.

Bowling Schedule Completed. The schedule of the Queen's Lawn Bowling Club has been completed for the summer. There are about a score of games yet to be played which were postponed on the scheduled nights, and when they are completed the winners of the trophies will be known. The doubles and singles games will be continued until the end of the month.
