Germany Pays For Murder. Paris, Aug. 28.—Germany has awarded to the family of Enrique Granados, the Spanish composer, who perished with his wife in the sinking of the steamer Sussex in 1916, an indemnity of 550,000 pesetas, says a Madrid despatch to the Temps. The official documents in the matter have been signed at Madrid.

There are persistent rumors from a German source that a German battalion, on being ordered to the front, unanimously refused to go, whereupon every tenth man was shot. The others then gave up their resistance. Morley Donaldson, formerly vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, died on Tuesday in Ottawa at the age of sixty-five years after an illness extending over two years.

"The Wife" By Jane Phelps

RUTH CONSIDERS TAKING A POSITION SO SHE CAN HAVE A SERVANT.

CHAPTER XVI.
For days, Ruth went round in a sort of dream. She continually thought of her project; yet lacked determination to carry it out—to put it, herself, to the test. Her bringing up had something to do with her attitude. Her aunt thought it all right for Ruth to exercise her talent at home, with her; but she would have been inexpressibly shocked had she known a niece of hers contemplated anything so strong-minded, so unwomanly, as going to work for others, or in business for herself.

Brian noticed her preoccupation and raged her about it. "Not planning to leave me again, are you? Going South for good?" "You know I am not going south again," Ruth replied, not telling him, however, that he was "getting warm" as she used to say when playing hide-and-go-seek as a child. "You better not! I'll divorce you if you do."

"You don't dare!" she laughed, kissing him. "You'd die of grief in a week." "That's right, I guess I would." Then, seriously, "I don't know how I ever stood it, that long month, coming home to find you away. It was awful, Ruth."

"I'll never dare propose it, never!" she thought when he talked like that. But as the days and weeks passed, Ruth grew desperate. She had told Brian of her check, a present from her aunt, she called it; and had proposed they have a young girl come in and clean up mornings. But Brian had confessed to some debts. Clients had been slow, he had been obliged to borrow. He wouldn't have told her, if she had kept still about her check. But it didn't seem right not to pay when they had the money. So Ruth, who knew nothing of debt save that she viewed it with horror, gave him her precious check. To her surprise, he used it nearly all, giving her back a few dollars, and buying theatre tickets as a treat.

"Did you have to have it ALL?" she asked when he came home. "I told you I had borrowed money."

"Yes—but Brian—how did you expect to pay it? Aunt didn't give me that check, although I allowed you to think she did. She paid me for decorating her living room. Paid me the same as she would have had to pay a professional decorator."

Then: "We can't expect any more from her—what will you do if you borrow again?" "Oh, I don't know! The Lord looks after children and fools, you know."

"Don't joke, tell me, Brian. What are we going to do about such things? It seems dreadful to me."

"We're paying too much rent, Ruth, for one thing!" he blustered, knowing how mean and small the flat seemed to her, yet not quite realizing either. "You mean—?" "Yes. I mean that we can't afford to pay thirty-five dollars a month rent out of what I earn, and have enough to live on left, in these times when everything costs so much."

It is not strange if I thought that a woman so wealthy as your aunt would do something for you, seeing you are the only relative she cares for and that you made your home with her."

"Oh—Brian! I never thought that you—Aunt Laura gave me a wonderful trousseau, never stopped to even ask the cost of anything. And—"

"It would have been more sensible if she hadn't given you so many fad-dolls, and had given you the money instead," Brian again interrupted. "I always supposed a man took care of his wife after he married her," Ruth said slowly, "that he did not ask her to marry him until he could."

"I can take care of you, all right! You needn't think just because I needed that check to pay back the money I borrowed, that I can't. But we'll have to cut our cloth according to our pattern. Sunday, we'll go hunting. We should find something, that would do until I get more business, for about twenty-five dollars. That would give us ten dollars a month for other things."

"You really mean that we must live in a still poorer place than this?" "Yes. And what difference does it make? You haven't any women friends to be troubling in and out; and we will be together, just the same. I'm sorry I'm not a millionaire. I shall be some day—perhaps not a millionaire; but a fellow who is bright always gets along."

Ruth said no more; but that night, when Brian slept, her thoughts took on a practical shape. One that would have shocked and surprised him. To-morrow—Ruth Rebels Against Brian's Plan of Seeking Cheaper Quarters.

TALKING IT OVER With Lorna Moon

"Unto the Third and Fourth Generation." They were sitting on the shady side of the veranda. Eight Years with a saucy pug nose, was pouring cocoa from a small pot into diminutive cups. Six and a Half with a shower of freckles watched the operation, critically stifling her mouth with bread and jam the while. Billy Black Eyes took advantage of their preoccupation to steal sugar with a wet finger.

A debate was in progress as to whether Robin Hood and John Little were at the front. Billy Black Eyes knew that they were. But Eight Years winked her pug nose contemptuously and asserted that Robin Hood wasn't real, he was only in a book.

Then the conversation suddenly jumped from Robin Hood to Methuselah. Billy Black Eyes didn't believe that Methuselah was as old as the teacher had said. Six and a Half swallowed her bread hurriedly and protested "Teachers don't tell lies."

per, "military necessity!" No, these phrases will not readily die. And history must be written—what will they think, our children's children of the "military attack on Belgium, the sinking of babies on the high seas, and the taking of helpless women into slavery?"

They will pay a fearful price—the German people for this blot they have put upon civilization. Some day it may be washed out and the world may forget, but it will be washed out in the tears of their children, and their children's children "unto the third and fourth generation."

In Old Age

Health and comfort in old age depends largely on keeping the liver and kidneys in healthful action. Pains and aches, stiffness of the joints, lumbago and rheumatism tell of poisons left in the blood by sluggishness of the liver and kidneys. People in advanced years hold Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in high esteem because of the promptness and certainty with which they awaken the action of kidneys, liver and bowels.

BETTER THAN EXPECTED.

Manitoba's Wheat Yield Above Earlier Estimates. Winnipeg, Aug. 29.—Wheat cutting in Manitoba is in full swing and the crop in the central part of the province gives promise of a considerably greater yield than has been expected," said J. D. McGregor, of the Canada Food Board, in an interview. He has just returned from a trip through the western part of the province.

"The rains during the filling season not only increased the yield of wheat," continued Mr. McGregor, "but improved the quality of the grain as well." From township 12 north the crop is good, and from there south through the central part of the province it is even better. "There has been sufficient labor so far but more men will be needed from now on."

CROP SITUATION BETTER.

Saskatchewan Estimates Will Probably Have to be Increased. Regina, Aug. 29.—The crop situation in Saskatchewan during the past two weeks, due to ideal weather conditions, has greatly improved, and the former estimates of the total yield will probably have to be increased, it was stated by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture. The improved conditions are responsible for a serious shortage of labor and the local government employment offices are now swamped with thousands of applications from farmers for men to assist them in harvesting their grain for wages of $4.50 per day.

Best Shock Troops.

London, Aug. 29.—The Daily Express editorially discussing what it describes as the embargo on non-professional soldiers in the Imperial army, says: "The Canadians and the Australians are among the best shock troops in the British forces. Their corps commanders, Currie and Monash, were civilians when the war began. There must be at least one Currie and one Monash in our army and a dozen others capable of commanding divisions."

M.C. For Kermit Roosevelt.

London, Aug. 29.—The award to "temporary and honorary" Capt. Kermit Roosevelt, son of Mr. Roosevelt, of the Military Cross for services in Mesopotamia, is announced in the Official Gazette. Until he joined the American forces in France Capt. Roosevelt was attached to the British army in Mesopotamia on special duty.

MUST INVADE GERMANY TO SHATTER ILLUSION

Peace Must Be Signed Only At Potsdam Where War Plot Hatched.

London, Aug. 28.—Sir Conan Doyle contributes an article to the Evening Standard entitled "Peace Must Be Signed at Potsdam—Germany's Coming Crisis—Prospects of a Debacle and Revolution." He says: "The war will change very suddenly from the appearance of a close-drawn struggle to an absolute German surrender. . . . There are three absolute essential conditions to a satisfactory peace."

"The first is that Germany shall be invaded. Too long has she been led to suppose that she is inviolate. This delusion must be shattered. The second is the occupation of Berlin and the signing of peace at Potsdam, in the very hall in which the plot was hatched."

"The third and most important of all is that Germany must pay to the last penny the expenses her outrageous conduct has cost the Allies. This is both policy and justice. She can prepare no other war while she has such a debt, and she will need no army or navy. In 1915 she planned to exact four thousand millions from France alone."

Revolution, concludes Sir Conan Doyle, could only bring the Social Democrats to the top. "These people have, with a small minority, in the main, sustained the German attack upon her neighbors. We owe them no consideration. Whoever rules Germany inherits the fruits of her criminal conspiracy against the world."

THE WORLD'S TIDINGS IN BRIEF FORM

Tidings From All Over Told in a Pointed and Pithy Way.
Hard coal is selling in Hamilton at $10.50 a ton. Sir John Eaton, Toronto, has given $50,000 to the Sallors' Fund. Immigration to the United States during the past year was less than during any year since the civil war. An official statement issued in Tokio attributes the rice riots to anger of the people at the extravagance of the rich. John McKishnie, father of Mrs. Jean Blewett and of Archie P. McKishnie, died at Chatham within a few weeks of ninety years of age. George Macbeth, auditor for the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, died following injuries received last Friday night when he was struck by a motorcycle. Lieut.-Col. John White, Woodstock, died suddenly on Tuesday while on his way down town. He was one of the best known business men of Western Ontario. The Fuel Administration in the United States has called upon the public east of the Mississippi to stop using gasoline for passenger automobiles, motorcycles and motorboats on Sundays until further notice. Walter Hines Page, of Garden City, N.Y., ambassador of the United States to Great Britain since April, 1913, because of ill-health has submitted his resignation to President Wilson, who has accepted it.

ASKED FOR ACCOUNTING.

Must Tell Expenses and Sales, as Basis of Tax. Ottawa, Aug. 29.—Farmers throughout the country are being asked by the Finance Department to fill in forms which will give an accounting of their operations in 1917 for the purposes of the Income War Tax Act. The farmers are requested to state the quantity of their products in that year, the price at which those products were sold, the quantity consumed at home or exchanged for goods at shops, income from other sources, the cost of feed, labor, machinery and an estimate of depreciation. Farmers are liable to taxation under the Income War Tax Act. Inasmuch, however, as many do not keep books, it has been difficult to ascertain the amount of their incomes. From the information disclosed by the forms now being sent out the Finance Department will determine what individuals are liable to taxation and the amount of their taxes.

Tea in the Garden of Eden

A Tommy wrote to his mother from Mesopotamia: "This may be the Garden of Eden, but the only thing that makes it endurable is our daily ration of Lipton's. In fact, Lipton's is the only thing hereabouts that I'm not 'fed up' on." There is a universality about Lipton's that strikes home to English-speaking people wherever they may be. To thoroughly enjoy Tea you must get Lipton's, and make it according to the directions on each package. Don't be put off with substitutes. Demand—
