MOST VITAL PART MISSING

DEFECT IN ONE-TIME MARVELLOUS MACHINE.

Morale Has Disappeared — Troops Prefer to Remain in Dugouts When Ordered Up To Fight.

On the British front, Sept. 14.—At no time in this war has more conclusive proof been obtained than lately that the whole German army is being put under the stethoscope by its military chiefs in an effort to find out why this one-time marvellous war machine does not work as it once did. And at no time have the German soldiers so conclusively shown that some of its most vital parts are missing—the most vital of all, morale.

Hindenburg and Ludendorff are confronted with the perplexing problem of making brave and happy Germans who can withstand the allied work, allied artillery and allied propaganda.

I have given in despatches during the last month extracts from many German documents, confirmed by reliable prisoners, showing how the so-called "defensive fight for the Fatherland" is an internal as well as an external job.

In one of the latest orders to his troops, Gen. Otto von Below says there have been serious complaints against the rations, and he asserts that good cooking is the secret of making German rations satisfactory. In some of the divisions from which so much kicking has emanated, he points out, there have been units who have praised their rations—because they had good kitchen personnel.

"Dissatisfaction with food always has an effect on the morale of the troops," Gen. von Below adds, "and they must, especially in a war of position, be kept in good spirits by all possible means."

"Biting on gravel," was Hindenburg's only dietary prescription for the allies some months ago, but German prisoners' confessions indicate it is now included in their rations.

But this searching for their weak parts is also divulging to the enemy high command that some of the most revered German war methods are themselves responsible for the weakening of the troops. Thus orders were issued recently and again since the victorious British drive, that no deep dugouts be made. Ostensibly it is because they have been death traps during bombardments, but it is also known that the marvellous German tunnels and rabbit-warren defences have played havoc with the morale of the troops, many of the Germans preferring to remain in the dugouts when ordered up to fight.

Remember the Catholic Army Hut Appeal, Sept. 15th to Sept. 23rd.

The eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli White, Perth, was drowned in the Tay river at Matheson's bridge. He had taken his cow back to the pasture, and, crossing the bridge toward home, fell into the river.

Old Ideas Die Hard

But when you tire of treating eczema internally as a blood disease and apply Dr. Chase's Ointment you will soon be convinced which form of treatment is most effective.

Naturally and gradually the skin is healed as you apply this soothing, anti-septic ointment. The new skin is soft and smooth, and you only wonder that you did not try this treatment sooner.

Your Classified Advt

Will get the interested attention of those people who have decided that they must solve the home-problem through buying property. Sometime in their lives nearly everybody reaches that decision. It is not always acted upon. Sometimes there is a failure to find the place that's wanted—or the terms of payment are too difficult, and the prospective home-owner goes on renting. If you have an offer to make to such people, now is a good time to make it.
