THOUSANDS IN ATTENDANCE
 fair along, and he was sure that it was going to meet the success that it richly deserved.
 Mr. Bushell was showered with praise on all sides for his good work.
Mayor Hughes' Address.
 "We are assembled here to-day to mark the occasion of another year of the Kingston Industrial Fair," said Mayor Hughes, in opening his address. He added that the province of Ontario had enjoyed a banner year as regards crops, which were unusually heavy.
 "Our Heavenly Father has been most gracious to the people of Canada," added the Mayor, "in the way of providing the necessary foodstuffs not only for ourselves but for our boys across the seas, who are fighting our battle."
 Mayor Hughes took occasion to pay a warm tribute to Mr. Bushell for the hard work he had put in to make the fair a success.
 "I trust that you will be well pleased with his efforts," added the Mayor, "and that you will all carry away with you many happy recollections of the city of Kingston, and that you will be very much benefited as a result of what you have seen and heard at the fair."
 On behalf of the management and the Board of Directors, he now declared the fair officially opened for the year 1918.
 Following the address of Mayor Hughes, the president of the Fair Association, Colin Rogers, was called upon. He spoke of the work undertaken to give the city and county a fair worth while, and he felt that the efforts put forth had met with great success. He looked for a record crowd this year.

Cattle and Agriculture.
 The exhibits of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs attracted particular attention. Walter Hurdman, of Ottawa, is the judge of horses, and he stated to a Whig representative that the specimens of the different classes entered were very good. Among the interested visitors was Col. G. Hunter Ogilvie, the well-known horseman. He expressed his keen appreciation of some of the horses shown. Saddle horses will be judged on Thursday.
 There is a very large exhibit of pure-bred Holsteins, Jerseys, Ayrshires and Durhams. N. Henderson, a farmer on the Front Road, is showing twenty-one head. There are Tamworth hogs and Shropshire sheep.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has a very ingenious display of model farm buildings properly grouped. The local representative, A. W. Sirett, occupies a booth in the main building. The splendid success of the agricultural exhibits is, in a large measure, due to his indefatigable work of preparation conducted throughout the season. He conducted the rural school fairs and the field crop competition, and the enthusiasm aroused has contributed to the success of the Kingston fair.
 The agricultural exhibit, both in quality and quantity surpasses anything shown at Kingston for a great many years. All possible information, too, is obtainable regarding the different kinds of seeds. Two tractors are included in the farming machinery and demonstrations will be given with them.
 The city and rural poultry associations have put on a beautiful show of utility and fancy breeds, and the list is a very complete one.

Vanliven Bros' Auto Display.
 The well-known firm of Vanliven Bros., 34-38 Princess street, have an exhibit of Ford cars that is worthy of special mention. There is a Ford one-ton truck, a Ford tractor and a five-passenger touring car, and a runabout.
 This firm is one that is making rapid strides in the business. "Service" is their motto, and it always brings success. At their garage on Princess street there is to be found everything to fill the wants of car owners. Goodspare tires are also handled by this firm. There is also a gasoline tank and all the necessities. Special mention should also be made of the trailers.
 The firm has an important announcement to make in that a number of new mechanics will arrive to take their place in the workshop next week, and as a result the firm will be able to do their repairing with business and despatch.
 Everyone contemplating buying a car should not fail to see Vanliven Bros. The firm has a good line of goods, and it is a pleasure for the representatives to give all the necessary information and to explain everything. The firm's garage is situated on Princess street, between King and Ontario street, and is one of the best equipped in the city.
 The Fordson tractors sold by this firm are attracting much attention. The cars are being sold now at very reasonable prices, and those who intend making a purchase should not lose any time in making an inspection of what Vanliven Bros. have to offer.

Chamberlain Weather Strips.
 Charles Hermitson, manufacturer's agent, has an exhibit in the main building, and he has something that is in great demand now that the cold weather is approaching. It is that of Chamberlain weather strips for doors and windows. He is also exhibiting the Viking cream separator.
 Mr. Hermitson has his exhibit just to the left as you enter the main building from the main gate entrance. Winter will soon be here, so all the visitors to the fair should see Mr. Hermitson and get a line on his goods, which are first class in every way.

T. F. Harrison Company.
 The T. F. Harrison Company has a fine display of furniture. The exhibit is arranged in a very neat manner, and has brought forth many words of commendation for this well-known firm. The firm is also showing Victorias and Victor records.
 The company has a large stock of well-selected goods on hand, and fair visitors would do well to consult the company regarding their prices.

R. J. Rodger's Display.
 R. J. Rodger is featuring Nordheimer Bros' pianos and the Behr Bros. & Company, makers of the smallest parlor pianos, in a very neat exhibit. Representatives are in charge who will be able to talk the matter over with you and give you the price list and all the necessary information. These two firms manufacturing pianos hold records that are a guarantee that the purchaser is getting the very best value for his money. With the approach of the long winter nights the time to buy a piano is now.
 A cordial invitation is extended to everyone visiting the fair to see this display.
 "There is an old saying, 'Music hath charms.' And what is home without a piano? There must be music in the home, and the piano takes first place. It takes its place in the parlor just like the furniture—in fact no parlor is completely furnished until it has a piano."
J. M. Greene Music Co.
 J. Johnston, the genial district manager of this well known concern, was in charge of the exhibit of this establishment and had on display a number of Edison's latest phonographs—the phonograph with a soul, and without doubt the last word in reproduction of vocal and instrumental music—and also several models of the celebrated Williams new piano, all of which attracted the attention and admiration of the crowds. The machines were demonstrated on request and from the throngs which crowded the booth made a favorable impression.

Opening Day Notes.
 President Colin Rogers was on hand when the gates swung open on Tuesday afternoon, and with Manager Bushell extended a warm greeting to those who were visiting the exhibition.
 Chiefly responsible for supervising the safety first operations and in seeing that all wiring is done safely and well. A number of firemen from No. 2 station were on the grounds to answer any call.
 William Murray, the well-known auctioneer, is handling the bell at the races. He is not letting the horsemen get away with anything.
 Police Sergeant William Bateson and Police Constable Downey were at the grounds to see that no infractions of the law were permitted. One man who was operating a wheel of fortune was forced to close down business.
 A number of ladies from the Mothers' Council of the Y. M. C. A. are selling programmes at the gates to raise money for their worthy activities.
 Several returned soldiers are operating booths on the midway. They are receiving generous patronage.
 No automobiles are being allowed to enter the grounds at the main gate. Cars are being admitted at the Stanley street gate, thus obviating the danger of accidents.
 Thomas Smeaton, veteran collector of tickets, is scrutinizing the pass tickets, which have been issued by Manager Bushell in large numbers.
 Prof. M. B. Baker, district vocational officer, was at the grounds on Tuesday and viewed the fancy work of the returned soldiers. He was very pleased with the exhibition.
 Several ladies' organizations are represented at refreshment booths both inside the Crystal Palace and on the grounds. Brock street Methodist Church Ladies' Aid have a booth as well as several of the local chapters of the Daughters of the Empire.
 A number of young ladies attired in patriotic costume raised a goodly sum of money when the sun was shining on Tuesday afternoon by selling ice cream cones.
 A searchlight has been installed above the grand stand and will be used during manoeuvres in the nighttime.
 The Citizens' Band of Gananoque discoursed sweet music in the grand stand during the afternoon. (See also Page 5.)
