temperature of the Hawaiian Islands. The story of the plot concerns itself with the subject of intermarriage of the race. For a time it was the question of the mixture of black and white, with Dion Boucicault's favorite drama, "The Octoroon," as a brilliant example. Then, not so very long ago, there followed a series of plays in which the Indian and white man figured—"The Squawman," "Strongheart," and a few others being the notable examples. Then came Mr. Tully with the problem of intermarriage of a Canadian and a Malay—and all the potter was again revived.

"The Bird of Paradise" does not depend on its plot alone for success. It has a more important feature—that of novel and original atmosphere, which gives it distinction and which marks it with a flavor of its own.

"THE MARRIAGE QUESTION." A Delightful Play Presented at Grand on Monday Night.

"The Marriage Question," presented at the Grand on Monday night, proved a most delightful play. There was a large audience and the presentation was much enjoyed. It is a new play by Kittering and Lorin Howard, authors of "A Daughter of the Sun," which was given at the Grand recently, and its object is to reveal the mistakes made by many who embark on the matrimonial sea.

The whole question of marriage is dealt with in a very frank manner. There is a most interesting love story, and mingled with it there is an abundance of comedy. Taken altogether, it was one of the best plays of its kind ever presented at the Grand. Miss Wanda Ludlow takes the leading role as "Billie," and her portrayal of the role was what the playgoer desired. She was charming at times. Maurice Clark, as "Teddy Sommers," "Billie's" secretary, held down the comedy part in an able manner, while L. E. Streeter, the butler for "Billie's" husband, showed himself to be a most amusing actor. The balance of the company gave good support.

The story takes a most interesting turn when "Billie" leaves her husband and starts an ideal dairy, and is given some trouble when the milk trust endeavors to put her out of business. But, like all good plays, there is a happy ending. The husband searches for "Billie" and finds her, while another interesting feature is that the couple are reconciled by the arrival of a baby.

Matter of Damages. Mr. Tilley said that if the damages were attacked merely on the grounds of magnitude, it would be necessary to go over the events of the night in question. "I don't understand they are attacked on that ground unless it appears from the proceedings of the trial that the plaintiff or the judge permitted something to go before the jury which was not properly before them," said counsel.

Justice Magee—"You still claim they were entitled to increase the damages on account of the plaintiff being put in such a position through the assault that she could not continue longer in the society?"

Mr. Tilley—"I would not put it in that way. I say they are entitled to take into consideration the nature and character of the act, and perhaps of the nature and character of the assault that she could not continue longer in the society?"

The letter from the Papal Delegate, which in part read, "It is for Sister Regis to take up the matter after consulting you," incriminated the Archbishop, said counsel.

The Archbishop could not, Mr. Tilley argued, considering his position, escape liability by saying it was not done in his official capacity.

Justice Hodgins—Then you think property held for the Archbishopric could be absorbed to meet slanders or assaults.

Mr. Tilley—"If I have a right to judgment against this corporation I have the right to hold it. People vested with property to manage have no right in the exercise of their power to do a wrongful thing. I don't see why there should not be liability in case of this kind. There is no distinction between it and a ladies' college or a Methodist church, but the question of meeting the judgment is not one for the present."

Justice Hodgins: This is not the Archbishop's property. It is trust property.

Mr. Tilley—"It is simply vested in him for the church. The canon law says the Archbishop is the person who controls everything in his diocese. If we get judgment against this corporation an argument that the properties are in trust for certain churches or objects may be a perfectly good answer, but I could not prevent me getting judgment for acts done in an official capacity under an official name. Trustees might render their trusts liable to attachment by a third party by reason of their conduct."

Mr. McCarthy's Charge. (Canadian Press Despatch) Toronto, Oct. 11.—That Father Mea was trying to "fix" Archbishop Spratt, and was using his influence over Sister Mary Basil to accomplish this, was the statement made by D. L. McCarthy, K.C., counsel for the Archbishop and others, in the course of his argument to-day. Prior to Father Mea assuming an influence over the sister, said Mr. McCarthy, the Archbishop had always been able to "fix up her troubles."

Containing his argument in the case with regard to the liability of Dr. Phelan, Mr. Tilley, counsel for the sister, pointed out that being a professional man, the doctor should have said to these women who wanted to remove Sister Basil that they had better get a divorce. "Instead he took part in it, and they went into the witness box and could not remember what took place." For this reason the counsel argued that Dr. Phelan should have been assessed costs.

The Archbishop may have been a weak and vacillating man, and may have been under the thumb of the mother superior, but Dr. Phelan, being a man out in the world, should have had more sense. Phelan should have said to these women, an accompanied Nayton part of the sister, when going to get this woman and was really in charge in that he went to the police for the mother superior."

With regard to the procedure as to the removal of Sister Basil, Mr. Tilley pointed out that the proper course was for a doctor to have charge of taking a crazy woman to an asylum, accompanied by a policeman.

"I submit the judgment is right, except that the costs should have been allowed against Dr. Phelan."

CANADA S. S. BUSINESS

Reported Excellent During September—Season Satisfactory. Both passenger and freight departments of the Canada Steamship Lines report satisfactory business for the month of September, as well as for the operation of the company's lake package freight business has been restricted owing to the number of vessels used for ocean traffic, returns from this source are quite satisfactory.

The bulk freighters have had a very satisfactory season, and though the passenger business has been restricted owing to the number of vessels used for ocean traffic, returns from this source are quite satisfactory.

Passenger business has been particularly gratifying. With a reduced number of boats in operation a greater number of passengers have been carried than last year, with a resultant increase in earnings. The season has yet several weeks to run, when further increases are expected from all lines still operating.

REGISTRATION AT QUEEN'S.

Lectures Begin at the University on Wednesday. Registration in the faculty of medicine at Queen's University has been going on for the past two days, and it is believed that it has been very satisfactory. Lectures are scheduled to begin in the first four years on Wednesday morning, and an attendance equal to that of last year, if not above, is anticipated. The demand for professional-medical men for military service continues unabated, and every possible means are being taken to have the medical colleges filled.

Registration and lectures in the faculties of arts and applied science begin on Wednesday morning. It is believed that the male registration in each of the faculties will come near that of last year, and a larger number of female students is expected.

He Smuggled Whiskey.

A fine of $100 was paid the other day at Bangor, Me., by a man who kicked a barrel of whiskey so that it rolled from one side of a room to the other, says the Utica Press. The man was not a prohibitionist fighting the demon rum, but a friend of said demon. The barrel is in Arrostook county, Me., and is exactly astride the international boundary line between the state of Maine and the province of New Brunswick. The barrel of whiskey was on the Canadian side of the room, and when a friend of the owner of the whiskey heard Canadian officers were about to raid the place he aimed a kick at the barrel which sent it to the Maine side of the room. For that kick he was arrested for smuggling whiskey across the border and fined $100.

French Pushing Ahead.

Paris, Oct. 1.—French troops this morning were pushing ahead again on the front between the Aisne and the Vesle rivers. French attacks in the Champagne are continuing with an important advance scored in the Aisne valley. Bynarville and Conde-Lez-Audry have been captured.

The French have taken more than 12,000 prisoners on the front between the Somme and Argonne since Sept. 26th and have captured more than 300 guns in the same period. A number of the guns were of heavy calibre.

Austria also possesses an excuse for capitulation which previously it wanted.

NEW CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES

Owing to the greatly increased cost of newspaper ink, labor, etc., the British Whig has been obliged to advance its advertising rates somewhat. A sincere effort has been made to minimize the advance as much as possible. The increase now announced applies only to classified advertising, and then only when it is charged. When cash accompanies the copy, the following old rates will prevail.

One insertion (25 words or less)	25
Three insertions (25 words or less)	50
Six insertions (25 words or less)	75
One month (25 words or less)	$1.00
Over 25 words, 1st word first insertion, and 1/2¢ a word for each subsequent, consecutive insertion.	$3.00

If ads. are to be charged, the rates will be double those above quoted.

The cost of sending out a man to collect small accounts today amounts to more than the total revenue derived from such advertising. Hence the increase.
