

GEORGE GIBBS' NEW NOVEL

The Golden Bough

By the Author of "The Yellow Dove"

George Gibbs' new novel is not a story of war, but of the secret service in Germany, with a soldier hero pitted against the craftiest Hun agents.

Golden Bough

The story of the abduction of a lovely attractive young girl, and the flight of the hero, the head of the largest and most powerful secret society in the world, with brains and courage against German cunning. PRICE, $1.50

Letters to the Editor

A Greeting From Prof. Denys.

Montreal, Oct. 3.—(To the Editor): As I sat here, Sunday-like, practicing mental concentration, the thought occurred to me, Mr. Editor, to indicate you a few lines. You will see in this a desire not to fade from memory as well as a wish to conserve the old habit of dowering mankind with rhetorical felicities.

I have read that as one advances in years he gets loquacious and prone to impart his sentiments, even to the point sometimes of puzzling the judicious editor; and that's why, I imagine, the latter always keeps at his side a happy, dainty little wicker-work receptacle wherein too effusive epistles may find repose, pending cremation. I have escaped so far, through one's extreme courtesy, but if I keep pursuing busy people with my persistent prose, I fear nothing but the gullibility may ever my case.

On the other hand, what is a body to do who is too old for service and too young to be a dead one? Cultivate the miserableness? But that is depressing; acquire perfection? but, like a lawyer on the way to heaven it takes time. I fear there is only one way out, turn philosopher, a poor enough profession, but better than none, it helping one to be content with little. When I started this missive, heaven is my witness, I meant to be interesting so as not to prove unworthy of the noble friends whose memory is ever present; but in going over the lines already traced, I find I am far from having fulfilled my purpose. A pleasant Hibernian once being asked if he was "O. K.," said, "No, I am

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE!

Hurry, Mother! Remove Poisons From Little Stomach, Liver, Bowels. Give "California Syrup of Figs" if Cross, Bilious or Feverish.

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

O'Hara. I have not his good name to fall back on, and failing to be O. K. I must close before I have even fairly begun. Let the will stand for the deed! —PAUL DENYS.

INFLUENZA DIRECTIONS

To Those Who Become Ill With the Disease.

Advice to influenza cases in the absence of a doctor:

Go to bed at once.

Have well-ventilated warm rooms. Close rooms tend to favor the development of pneumonia.

Take plenty of water and hot drinks, such as milk, soups, gruels, broths.

Keep the bowels open by the use of some good physic or laxative, such as salts and castor oil.

There is little danger in the first symptoms such as aching pain or fever, if the patient goes to bed and gets complete rest.

The danger is from lung complication, due to exposure and a weak heart, neglected and getting up too soon. If the patient must take medicine before the arrival of a doctor, take two grains of quinine every two or three hours. Dose for children, one-half to one grain every two or three hours. Gargle with salt and water.

Do not become frightened. The disease is self-limited and not dangerous, except from complications. The actual death rate is very small.

Prevention—Avoid close contact with persons having the disease. The contagion is spread by discharges from the nose and throat, dishes, towels, drinking cups, etc.

Women With Weakness Find New Strength

For all special weakness from which girls and women suffer, no surer remedy exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they maintain that brace health every woman so earnestly desires. They prevent disease and bring strength that lasts till old age.

The blood is richly nourished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Appetite increases, weakness and secret ills give way to surplus energy and reserve vigor.

No pale girl, no ailing woman can afford to miss this enormous good that comes from Dr. Hamilton's Pills; get a 25c box to-day.

GOSSIP HEARD ON THE SIDE

HOUSEWIVES SPEAK OF DAYS WHEN EGGS WERE CHEAP.

People Are Willing to Pay Tax For Their Amusements—Watertown Now No Place For the Thirsty Ones.

The Whig files of twenty-five years ago tell about eggs being plentiful on the market, and selling at twenty cents to twenty-five cents a dozen. To-day they are selling at fifty cents to fifty-two cents, my! but what a difference, and even at this high price the housewife has a very difficult task to get a supply of good eggs.

"O for the good old days," said one Kingston housewife to the Whig, on the market Saturday morning. "Butter and eggs were cheap compared to the prices to-day, and a dollar went so much farther than it does to-day. A dollar bill will not buy you two pounds of butter nowadays."

It has been announced that the Government will put an additional tax on all theatre tickets, but from the conversation heard on the street, this is not worrying the citizens. They appear to be quite willing to pay any tax so long as they can get the amusement they want. The old world is so filled with sorrow at the present time that theatrical performances tend to make one forget his troubles for the time being.

Now that Watertown has gone "dry," there will be no use for members of the "dry" crowd hereabouts going over to Watertown with the intention of getting a "tank." A Kingston young lady celebrated the closing of the bars, in Watertown the other night, brought some three bottles, so it is alleged, was held up by a customs officer, and although no official report has been given to the press, as matters of this kind are always kept a deep secret, it is understood that the fair one was fined $200 and costs.

Pretty stiff fine, but, as the fellow said, "It comes high, but we have to have it."

Only second to that of the drive on the western front, was the drive in one of the local stores on Thursday and Friday morning, when a big sale was on. The store had big bargains, but it was worth something to get in the jam that crowded into the store.

In the rush, which would have taken honors on any football field, the crowd, made up almost entirely of women, jammed against a counter and came within an ace of crushing it in. Some glassware on a table was smashed.

When is a man drunk? This question was raised again this week in a Police Court case. Two policemen were called, who swore that a man was drunk, but the accused claimed he could get along all right. However, the man could not have reached the police station if he had not been escorted by a bluecoat, so the magistrate was quite right in taking the evidence of the two officers of the law that the man was under the influence.

LITTLE CHILDREN SUFFERING MOST

Germany Aims at Extermination of Next Generation of Belgians.

Above all, it is the children of Belgium who suffer. Already the brutal invader of the little kingdom has exacted an awful price from the little ones. Long ago, but for the untiring energy of the many charities devoted to saving these little ones from starvation and death, and dependent upon the Belgian Relief Commission for the financial support necessary to continue their wonderful work, Germany would have succeeded in what gives every evidence of being her aim, the extermination of the next generation of Belgians. These organizations have snatched hundreds of thousands of children from the very jaws of death. It has been a wonderful and glorious fight, an unending struggle against overwhelming odds and, to date, a successful struggle. Victory rests with the charitable workers to-day, but the mailed fist still strives to snatch it from them. Militarism allied with starvation and disease, menaces to-day, and just as certainly as it ever has menaced, the child population of the unhappy country. It is a fact that were these charitable organizations to rest upon their laurels at this time, the younger generation in Belgium would be practically wiped out within a month. Not thousands, but more than a million infants and children, would succumb to starvation and disease. The streets and shattered homes of the invaded districts would be littered with the emaciated corpses of children. These charitable organizations, these lifesaving institutions, will not rest while they have it within their power to continue the work of salvation, but they are to-day facing a crisis in their affairs. Funds are low. They look to the Belgian Relief Commission for continued and increased support. The commission is their accredited agency for the raising of the necessary funds, the commission is the intermediary between these organizations and the public of Canada, who will not fall the sons and daughters of men who gave up their lives that the German hordes might not pass, that Christianity and civilization might not be exterminated by unholy might. It is on behalf of these children, for the lives of these children, that the commission to-day appeals for contributions. Donations should be sent to the local branch of the Belgian Relief Fund or to Canadian headquarters at 59 St. Peter street, Montreal.

David Herbert Keeley, Dr. Keeley is general superintendent of the Government telephone service. He was born at Kingston and educated here. In 1872 he started telegraphy with the Dominion Telegraph Company, and in six years had become its chief operator at Ottawa. At Ottawa he was identified with the introduction of the telephone, and was placed in charge of the original central office. He was appointed assistant superintendent of the Government telegraph lines in 1882, and ten years later became superintendent, a position he still holds. He is a member of a number of electrical societies, and has won the Government medal for a paper on electrical matters.

Victoria Order Of Nurses. The monthly meeting of the Victoria Order of Nurses committee was held on Thursday with a good attendance of members. The nurse's report for September is as follows: Total number of visits during month, 180; religious denominations of patients, Anglican 10, Methodist 6, Roman Catholic 4, Presbyterian 3, Plymouth Brethren 2. A donation was received from Mrs. Gimblett for the child welfare station.

Mrs. Frances Robinson, who is in charge of the child welfare work, reported that during September forty-four babies had been brought to the station and that the work was progressing satisfactorily in every way.

Kingston Events 25 Years Ago. Thirty-five persons went forward to the penitentiary in the Salvation Army in the last few days. Hugh Kania will resign as reeve of Kingston township this year. The city and district is being combed by horse buyers.

Pure Blood Makes Healthy People. Hood's Sarsaparilla surely and effectively removes scrofula, boils and other blood diseases because it drives out of the blood all the humors that cause these diseases. They cannot be successfully treated in any other way. External applications for their removal have proven almost useless, because they cannot drive out the impurities that are in the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure rich blood, perfects the digestion, and builds up the whole system. The skin becomes smooth, clean and healthy. This great blood remedy has stood the test of forty years. Insist on having Hood's, for nothing else acts like it. There is no real substitute. Get it today. Sold by all druggists.
