MADE A SALE AFTER HOURS INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

PROPRIETOR OF CLOTHING STORE FINED $10 AND COSTS.

Visited By-law Which Calls Upon Stores of This Kind to Close Door at 6.30 p.m.

Magistrate Farrell found the proprietor of a local clothing store guilty of violating a city by-law in having his store open after 6.30 p.m., and imposed a fine of $10 and costs or one month in jail. The fine was paid under protest.

Constable Downey told of seeing a youth in the clothing store about 7.45 o'clock on Monday night trying on an overcoat. The youth came out of the side entrance to the store, wearing a new coat, and witness asked him if that was the coat he had purchased. The young fellow said the coat in question had been bargained for in the afternoon.

The boy, decked out with his new coat, took the box. He told where he got the coat, and when he got it, and the magistrate afterwards imposed the fine. The proprietor of the store said he would pay under protest. He said he had not been paid for the coat, and would not get the pay till the 15th of the month. "It does not matter," remarked the magistrate, "your store was open, and that was in violation of the city by-laws. As long as you have a customer in your store you are open."

NO JUSTIFICATION.

For the Increase of Milk Price, a Dealer Says.

Citizens are complaining strongly about the price of milk. One dealer states that there was a good profit when the price was twelve cents, and that there was really no justification for raising the price to fourteen cents. He attributed the action of the dealers in raising the price to the military authorities, who gave contracts to two local dealers at a considerable advance in the price. He stated that he made a strong protest to the Canada Food Board against the increase in the price of milk by the Government, but has received no assurances that there will not be a further increase in the near future.

A New Service Station.

I. Lessee, battery and electrical expert of the local Willard Storage Battery Service, has taken over the garage formerly occupied by E. Parrad, 19 Brock street, and has installed a well-equipped electric service station, where every kind of electric and battery trouble will receive attention by experts. An exclusive station of this kind fills a long-felt want in Kingston, where it will be the only one of that nature. Mr. Lessee says the station will be capable of handling about 1,000 batteries of all kinds for dry storage this winter, which number he expects to receive from this district. He states that the new threaded type of Willard battery is proving one of the greatest boons to car owners, as its threaded rubber insulators, containing 196,000 threads along with other improvements, eliminates a greater part of storage battery troubles of all makes in the past. Mr. Lessee is an old Kingston boy, and from what is known of him should do well at the new home of the Willard.

School Cadet Training Valuable.

The public school cadets who have served in the C. E. F. have been very grateful for the training they received while in the Cadet Corps. Writing from France, one lad says he had very little to learn as far as drill was concerned. Another who is a member of the Royal Air Force said that much of his success was due to the spirit he caught while at school. The discipline he there learned proved of very great value to him when he became a member of the Imperial force, making it possible for him to carry on under circumstances to which he might have succumbed.

Used Coal for Hospital.

The executive of the Great War Veterans' Association are a little concerned about their supply of coal for the winter. They received their supply, but owing to the hall being used as a hospital, the fires had to be set going, and so the veterans had to use thirteen tons of their winter's coal which would not otherwise have been used. They feel, and rightly so, that they should be allowed to procure a further supply to replace this, and are making enquiries with the fuel controller to ascertain if this can be done.

M. F. Fairlie's Appointment.

M. F. Fairlie, M.E., has been appointed mine manager of Mining Corporation of Canada, succeeding the late Charles Watson, who lost his life while returning from the Yukon on the Princess Sophie. Mr. Fairlie graduated in a mining engineering from Queen's University, and after spending a year or two in American mining centres has been for the past ten years manager of the Cobalt Reduction Company of Cobalt.

Judgment For Plaintiff.

Judge Lavell gave judgment on Thursday afternoon in the action brought by Vincent Doyle against J. E. Rousseau for damage done to his automobile in an accident. The judge decided that the accident was due to negligence on the part of the defendant and awarded the plaintiff the full amount claimed, $101.95 and costs of the action. The counter-claim lodged by the defendant was dismissed.

Certainly a Rapid Advance.

Writing to friends in Kingston, a Canadian officer at the front tells of the great rapidity of the advance made by the Canadians. After returning from a short leave in England, he found that his battalion headquarters had moved forward thirty miles, and that he had to hunt for them.
