Cheer up. There's a good time coming.

Courtesy within an organization is as vital as lubrication within a motor.

Through sheer joy for the peace that has come at last, buy all the Victory Bonds you can afford.

"Former kaiser to be interned," says a newspaper heading. We move that the last word be changed to read "interred."

The world's greatest braggart is a fugitive from justice. "World power or downfall," was his battle-cry. And it has been downfall.

Personal mention:—William Hollenzollern spent the week end in Holland. Dame rumor states that he will not return to his former home.

Keep step with the boys at the front. They did their part. Let us do ours. The Victory Loan must be over-subscribed, else we at home fall far short of doing our duty.

The entrance of boys into industrial life prematurely has been a serious danger to national effectiveness. Happily, the cessation of hostilities will bring about normal conditions once more.

The insistence of the Allies that Germany must pay for all damage done to civilians and to property removes every loophole by which the enemy might hope to escape just punishment for criminal acts.

The history of the great war will be the greatest and most interesting literature ever written. Just imagine how we'll welcome the story of the airman who saw and photographed a day that German retreat through Belgium!

The Bell Telephone Company, in newspaper advertisements, thanks the people of Kingston for their indulgence during the influenza. The next thing is for the company to earn a grateful expression from the public for improved service.

To-day's peace is founded on the deathless principles enunciated by that Prince of Peace who died two thousand years ago—as many of our bravest and best have died in France and Flanders—that all the world hereafter shall be sweeter and better and happier.

Germany is to-day trying to make us believe that she is seeking peace. Perhaps she is. But perhaps she is merely talking peace with no real idea of making it. The revolution in Germany is the only one recorded in history which was accomplished without the shedding of blood. It looks almost too good to be true.

Now that the war is ended, Canada and the United States must assume the big share of replenishing the world's store of foods and manufactured goods. France, Britain, Belgium and Germany will be many years hoarding their hurts. Not for a generation will they be able to replace the workers lost during war.

Skilled, intelligent and disciplined workers will be required by Canada from now on. Those who left their studies and took advantage of the opportunities for immediate usefulness to themselves and the community, afforded by war employment at high wages, will now perform the most useful service by going back to their studies or their former occupations.

PEACE AND VICTORY BONDS.

Peace will make Victory Bonds an even better investment than before, because it will have the effect of soon sending them considerably above par.

The collapse of the Central Powers has made the Allies triumphant in a way that was hardly thought possible three months ago. Turkey and Austria-Hungary as political units have ceased to exist. As Lloyd George pointed out the other day, Germany is ruined and, financially, cannot recover for years. Then again the demoralization of Germany removes for a time from the world of industry the most formidable of competitors. As Germany loses, the Allies gain, and this means Canada. All these things will tend to put Victory Bonds above par.

A SPLENDID SERVICE.

The thanksgiving service in St. George's Cathedral, union in character, was largely attended. There was a marked spirit of reverence and of thanksgiving—an uplifting realization of God's power to rule and direct in the world's affairs. The unity evidenced when all denominations participated was inspiring; it meant much to the church in all its sweeping relations and its diversified activities, but one in acknowledging God as the helper and designer of the world's destiny. The closer the church keeps to the foundation stones of the Christian religion the mightier will be its power and influence. There may be many forms of polity and of worship, but only one central source of help and salvation. Jesus Christ, the beloved Son of God. To this conception all men cling, all stand united. Petty things keep churches apart. In the reconstruction period may all things go except the great doctrinal ideas of salvation.

HUMANITY'S APPEAL.

France—glorious, gallant France—is even more splendid in the day of victory than in the dark day of trial and seeming defeat. As becomes a chivalrous nation, she adopts a magnanimous attitude toward the fallen foe. This attitude is eloquently expressed by the grand old man of France, Premier Clemenceau, when he says: "Conditions in Germany are not normal. In this first hour we must come to her aid. We do not make war against humanity, but for humanity."

The defenceless women and children of Germany must not be allowed to die of starvation. Humanity demands that the task of saving them must be undertaken by the civilized nations. Great Britain and the United States will co-operate with France in this noble task. The Anglo-Saxon and the Franks, in the hour of their greatest suffering, have risen to heights of nobleness which the Hun can never understand or appreciate. The Hun is incapable of such generosity. He knows not charity, but only the ruthlessness of the jungle breed.

The two systems stand in direct and vivid contrast to-day, and Germany's plight furnishes the answer as to which is in the right. For four dreadful years faith and hope have abided with the Allied nations, and now they have added to these the greatest attribute of all—charity. Militarism is powerless—militarism and terrorism will forever be powerless—before a people armed with righteousness. "We do not make war against humanity, but for humanity." The words are those of the premier of France.

but the spirit is that of the British Empire. The success and the glory of the empire rest upon this foundation—service and sacrifice, not for self, but for humanity.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Human Touch. (London Daily Express) Will Crooks says that what is wanted to solve the labor problem is "the human touch." He is no doubt right, but the odd thing is that the human touch is one of the rarest things in humanity.

Unknown Heroes. (London Advertiser) The army that fought and routed Spanish influenza and saved scores of lives gets no decorations, but men and women alike, they have earned an honored place in the history of the city and province.

Revised Version. (New York Sun) The famous alliterative masterpiece of the first years of last century needs but a single change: "An Austrian army, awfully arrayed." That was the beginning in 1914. "An Austrian army, awfully afraid." That was the end, in 1918.

Children Love Candy Cascarets

Careful mothers know that Cascarets in the home mean less sickness, less trouble, less worry, less cost. When one of the kiddies has a white tongue, feverish breath, sour stomach or a cold, a Cascaret quickly and harmlessly "works" the poisons from the liver and bowels and all is well again.

TO MOTHERS! While all children detest castor oil, calomel, pills and laxatives, they really love to take Cascarets because they taste like candy. Cascarets "work" the nasty bile, sour fermentations and constipation poison from the child's tender stomach, liver and bowels without pain or griping. Cascarets never disappoint the worried mother. Each 10 cent box contains directions for children aged one year old and upwards.

Does Your Life Work Mean Anything to You?

You farmers who have worked hard—and no one works harder—to get together your property, what does it mean to you?

Your property—your farm and buildings, your crops, your stock, your farm implements and, too, your home—all these represent years and years of work that you have done.

Everything that you enjoy as the result of your work comes to you and stays with you because the heroic soldiers and sailors of Canada have stood between you and the bloodthirsty, murderous Hun.

Canada does not ask you to GIVE even a single penny. It simply asks you to LEND your money at good interest and guarantees on its word of honor—a word that has never been broken—to pay back every penny you lend.

What is your answer?

Have you bought all the Victory Bonds you possibly can?
