Military Matters

The pay of the military police is to be reduced. The authorities are considering cutting $1 a day from the men's pay. At present the men earn $3 a day which averages $85 for single men and $112 a month for married men, which includes separation and patriotic allowances.

The office staff and the pay staff of the Depot Field Battery will parade for physical drill daily at nine o'clock. The messroom staff will parade for drill at the afternoon parade.

Gunner J. A. Sowards, Depot Field Battery, has been admitted to Queen's Military Hospital.

Gunner George Lester Caswell, Depot Field Battery, has been discharged from the strength of that unit to enable re-enlistment in the Royal Air Force.

G.M.S. Herbert Clute Gibson, Depot Field Battery, has been discharged from that unit to civil life.

Now orders have been issued regarding the transfer of last past certificates of men being transferred from one unit to another, which will be greatly to the advantage of the men. If the new orders are strictly carried out, it will enable an officer or man to be put on the pay strength immediately on arrival at his new station, and thus prevent any delay in making adjustment of pay and allowances.

The following appointments have been made at the R.C.E.A. depot: Gunner A. Duffy, to be servant to Lieut. Light; Gunner W. Kelly, to be staff transport driver, and Gunner Cuthbertson, to be limber gunner.

PARCELS FOR SOLDIERS.

Pending the conclusion of peace negotiations no definite statement is possible with regard to the demobilization of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, but it is not likely that many of the boys "over there" will be home for Christmas. Hence most of them should receive their Christmas presents. Those sending parcels may, by writing the request on the wrapper, have them returned in case of non-delivery, or they may put on the package the address of several soldiers, so that in case the one for whom the gifts were intended in the first place is on the way home, the sender will have the satisfaction of knowing that another friend has received them. Neither of these courses is followed, the military authorities will distribute the contents of the packages to the soldiers in whatever manner they deem just.

All men who are on harvest leave have been notified that their leave has been extended to Dec. 1st. Steps have been taken to notify every man, so that unnecessary expense and travelling may be avoided.

Pte. D. McNab, C.A.S.C., has been appointed acting corporal while employed as baker at Deseronto.

A splendid concert was held in the Military "Y" rooms on Thursday evening, when the rooms were crowded. The concert was under the direction of Mrs. Beacroft, who also sang, and accompanied. The artists were Miss Foster, Miss Polite, Miss Gillespie, Capt. Armstrong and two returned soldiers, who rendered impromptu solos.

There will be a motion picture entertainment at the Military "Y" this evening.

Brig-Gen. T. D. R. Hemming, C.M.C., G.O.C. No. 3, accompanied by Major McManan, instructional cadre, proceeded to Belleville on inspection duty to-day.

Troops of the Kingston garrison will parade to divine service on Sunday morning as well as in the afternoon.

of an educated native ivory trader, offers Mr. Hayakomo many opportunities for the display of his versatile talents, which have been successfully tested in many photoplays now recognized as classics. Be sure to see this programme, which also includes a special Victory bond feature, and also a Charlie Chaplin and "Fatty" Arbuckle in a Mack Sennett comedy.

At the Strand. Two of the most interesting photoplays that have been presented here in some time were witnessed by the crowds at the Strand last evening.

Mae Marsh, in "The Glorious Adventure," kept the audience full of meriment all through the play. The role she has to play is comical, yet much different. With one silver dollar she ventures forth and obtains love, happiness, adventure and romance. "A Japanese Nightingale," starring Fanny Ward, is certainly the most beautiful and interesting photoplay seen here in some time. The plot is laid in Japan, and the producers have given us something very unusual in this five-act drama. Miss McAllister again thrilled her audience with some very high class selections that were received with very much enthusiasm by all.

PREPARE FOR 1919. It is well for the citizens to reflect that the year 1919 will be probably the most important in Kingston's history. It will be reconstruction year, when the troops will be coming home and when large problems will have to be handled.

A council composed of men of initiative and energy will be the city's need. Things have been "standing still" civically during the past three years, owing to the action of the authorities in deciding to permit no civic construction work that was not actually needed. Mayor Hughes himself has borne the brunt of the civic government during his two years of office. Upon his shoulders rested the bulk of the burden, largely in connection with military matters, and he stands forth as one of the most efficient chief magistrates Kingston has ever had. No other mayor has had so much to do. He now seeks a rest and desires to commit to other hands the large burdens he has borne. The man who would succeed him at this time will have a hard year to face. He should therefore possess special qualifications and be thoroughly trained in civic affairs. It would be well for the citizens to see that the whole council they choose be men who will be able to tackle large problems, and while safeguarding the city to also put on enough steam to make Kingston go forward.

The General Misunderstood. Brigadier-General Hemming says he has been misunderstood, that any thought he had in regard to his retirement was based on the decision of the Militia Department. If it thinks he can be of value during the coming days he is at its service. Whatever action is taken it would not occur until after next July. The general feels that the heavy strain under which he has worked will be relieved to an appreciable extent, and with a little relaxation his health, which hitherto has been fairly rugged, will be restored.

Entertained Soldiers. W. P. Cryderman, of the House of Hoberlin, Toronto, entertained about sixty returned soldiers at the Hotel Randolph, Thursday evening, and engaged the Salvation Army band to entertain the party. Lieut. W. G. Bayle was selected toast master. Speeches, recitations and songs were features, for the company possessed all the talents.
