A CONFERENCE IS CALLED

BY BRIG. GEN. HEMMING REGARDING DEMOBILIZATION

The Greatest Possible Reduction in the Forces With the Least Possible Delay Will Be Aimed At.

The order calling the demobilization of all troops in M. D. No. 3 has been received at local headquarters and Brig.-General Hemming, C.M.G., has called a conference of the heads of all establishments for 7.00 o'clock this evening with a view to the immediate compliance with the order from Ottawa.

The greatest possible reduction will be aimed at with the least possible delay, but it is recognized that some of the service units will have to be retained and their strength will depend upon the demands likely to be made upon their service. For instance the Army Service Corps, Army Medical Corps, Army Dental Corps, Veterinary Corps and Engineers will be required for a very considerable time—just how long will depend upon the rapidity with which the troops return to Canada and the number assigned to this district for disposal.

The conference will determine what establishments can be absolutely dispensed with. Among the depot battalions of the Eastern Ontario regiment, situated at Belleville and Ottawa, will likely be the first to disband. The 3rd battalion C.G.R. will be retained as a demobilizing unit and the present staff will doubtless be retained for considerable time in order to carry out the discharge of the returning men.

The Royal School of Artillery has already been closed. It is most likely that the R.C.H.A. being a permanent force, will remain as a training unit and that the depot battery will go out of existence with the infantry depots. In this case the returned artillery men will be discharged through the C.G.R.

According to orders issued to-day, the Royal Air Force will "carry on" with its instructional programme, without variation or slackening, until further notice.

THEATRICAL.

At the Grand.

The offering at the Grand last evening was worthy of special mention. Henry B. Walthall had the titular role in the latest Paralta play, "With Hoops of Steel," and the capacity house were all thoroughly delighted with his talented acting. Mr. Walthall was remembered by many for his work in "The Birth of a Nation," where he played a leading part and his portrayal of a western character in "Hoops of Steel" gave him plenty of opportunity to display by his forceful acting the qualities that made him such a popular star. The story dealt with a ranch owner who, sooner than see his name flouted in the dust, started out to redeem his honor. How he succeeded made a very interesting story, and although it was a fiery western tale there was also a pretty little romance running through it. Other films on the bill were the Pathe News, a road two-reel drama, and last but not least was Billy West, the funniest man on earth, in "The Candy Kid," which is said to be his best comedy. An act of vaudeville consisting of the Todocass in a bicycle novelty completed the best programme seen here in many days. It will be repeated to-night and also to-morrow, both matinee and night.

At Griffins.

Presenting what may be termed perhaps his most ambitious screen offering, David Wark Griffith displayed his splendid photoplay "The Great Love," which deals specially with the great awakening of the wealthy and exclusive classes of England to the tremendous needs of the war, with great success at this theatre yesterday. For the first time in the history of motion pictures Mr. Griffith portrays in this photoplay the activities of the leisure classes of Great Britain during the world war; their splendid and unselfish labor in caring for convalescent soldiers, and their innumerable sacrifices. It shows not merely actors made up to represent these people, but the people themselves, the very flower of England's finest womanhood engaged in the noble task of succoring the brave sons of Britain, France and the Allies of all the loyal nations, in their time of great suffering and sacrifice.

Practically the same cast of screen artists, who were seen in "The Birth of a Nation" and "Hearts of the World," appear in "The Great Love."

OPPOSED TO USING ANY GERMAN GOODS

The Local Woman's National Council Executive Passes a Strong Resolution.

At the executive meeting of the local branch of the National Council of Women held on Saturday, November 16th, in the Council Chamber the following resolution was passed: "That this local council expresses itself as strongly opposed to buying, selling, or using any goods made by Germany or her allies."

The local council also expressed its appreciation of the splendid work done by the S.O.S. during the recent epidemic of influenza in this city.

One member suggested that as these volunteer workers had really risked their lives during their work, their names ought to be placed on the honor roll.

The National Executive of the Council of Women is expected to meet in Kingston during the second week in January, 1919.

He did not think when leaving home he never would return. Now he lies in a lonely grave, and we ask left to mourn. His cheery ways, his smiling face, are a pleasure to recall. There is nothing left to answer but his picture on the wall. Sleep on, dear brother, in your hero's grave. Your life for your country you nobly gave. No loved one near to say good-bye, but safe in God's keeping now you lie.

Inserted by his brother and sister-in-law, Pte. Arthur and Mrs. Charbonneau, Toronto, Nov. 18th, 1918.
