THEATRICAL.

To-night—"Experience."

It is a singular fact that clergymen seldom, if ever, endorse a play without reservation, yet in the case of the morality play, "Experience," written by George V. Hobart, which comes to the Grand Opera House to-night and Thursday, matinee and night, they have broken all record for enthusiastic commendation. One reason why the clergy have been so warm in their approval of "Experience" is to be found in the fact that the play carries a lesson. Primarily it is a play for purposes of general instruction only, but as it tells the story of a young man going into the world, and his triumph over the maze of temptations which usually beset youth on every hand, it has been pronounced by the clergymen as a wonderful help to all a youth going into the world, and this of a widely contrasting nature in this big, gorgeous, glittering drama of life, all showing some phase of the temptations, trials, troubles and tribulations, joys and sorrows of youth—the average young man who goes forth into the world unprepared for the pitfalls set for unwary feet.

At Griffin's.

To portray the heroine of one of Robert Hichens' novels, or give a psychological interpretation of an Ibsen creation; then to step out into the wild west and present the character of a young woman reared on the Canadian border line, proof of elastic versatility of which any actress may be proud. But this is what Elsie Ferguson, the beautiful and talented Artercraft star does in her latest photoplay, "Heart of the Wilds," to be seen at Griffin's to-night. "Doing Their Bit," with Jane and Katherine Lee in the leading roles, is also at this theatre, and they are said to be more droll than ever in this latest of their cycle of plays. Both humor and real dramatic thrills are supplied by these youngsters, who are the youngest stars in screenland. Don't overlook this programme when looking for an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

At the Strand.

Again the Strand forges to the front with an all-star programme for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The features will be first "The Trap," starring Alice Brady, the production was staged in a quaint fisher village, and the scenes are among the most beautiful ever seen on the screen. Miss Brady appears in the role of Doris Shaw, the daughter of a fanatical fisherman. When the rough fisher lad, who is in love with her sees her become interested in a stranger, he frames a trap whereby it appears that she is not only indiscreet but bad. Doris' father casts her from his home. For the extra feature we offer a new star to Kingstonians, Belle Bennett, in "The Lonely Woman," a masterpiece of characterization dealing with the wonderful faith of a woman in her husband, who has been sentenced to Sing Sing, though innocent. It is more than a gripping heart-pulsing play of emotion—it is a call to faith. The usual comedies will be shown, also new music by the Strand orchestra.

"Cinderella."

"Cinderella," an English pantomime, founded upon the best loved of all fairy tales, will be F. Stuart-Whyte's third annual pantomime offering to the playgoers of this city. His previous successes, "Aladdin" and "Robinson Crusoe," have marked him as a lavish producer as well as a wizard of stagecraft, but in "Cinderella" he has excelled himself. English managers have always recognized this piece as being the most costly of pantomimes to produce, as the story calls for such elaborate and varied settings and costumes of rare richness and beauty. Realizing this, Mr. Whyte has first built up a following of pantomime lovers in Canada, by his previous offerings before feeling justified in launching a production of such magnitude as "Cinderella." "Cinderella" will be given at the Grand Opera House for two nights and a Saturday matinee, commencing Friday, Nov. 28th.

Difficulties between Chili and Peru have been settled by an apology from the Peruvian Government.
