Military Matters

Major W. H. Hooper, Carleton Place, is on duty as an officer of the depot battalion.

Last Tuesday young men of Perth presented Dr. A. T. Oberg with an address and a diamond stick pin, expressing their regrets that he was leaving, having been called to join the Canadian Army Dental Corps, Kingston.

Gunner B. G. McLaughlin, Depot Field Battery, has been promoted to the rank of provisional sergeant.

Gunner E. B. Hawken, Depot Field Battery, has been discharged from that unit to civil life.

Gunner F. L. Lambert has been discharged from the St. Anne de Bellevue Military Hospital, and has reported for duty with the Depot Field Battery.

The district depot headquarters is being moved from artillery park barracks to the Old Collegiate building. The barracks on artillery park square are being put in readiness for demobilization, and will be used pending the opening of the new barracks now being built in Barriefield. It is expected that these buildings will be ready by New Year's, and they will be of ample capacity for all requirements.

Sergt. Archie Jackson, C.A.G.S., recently returned from overseas, has been detailed for instructional duty in M. D. No. 3.

Captain W. S. Swaine, late musketry officer, has been placed on the reserve of officers C. E. F., with the rank of captain.

Lieut. J. Sutherland, R.C.A., and Acting-Sergeant H. Ackerley have proceeded on armament inspection duty.

The coal-pile at the artillery park barracks is being added to daily. It has now reached immense proportions.

Lieut. L. Gordon has assumed the duties of officer commanding No. 3, C.A.S.C. Service Company, temporarily.

The G.W.V.A. committee in connection with the institution of a people's forum is meeting with success in its work. Comrade C. W. Topping, chairman of the committee, addressed the Ministerial Association on the subject on Saturday morning.

THEATRICAL.

At the Grand.
The film offerings at the Grand for the first three days of next week will be of the highest order. Bryant Washburn, the popular and athletic stars whose work in "Twenty-One" when shown here won much admiration will be seen in the best picture he ever made under the Pathe banner, that is "Kiddie and Ko." Be sure and see how he takes over the codfish business of his father and with a little "pep" and good managements turns it into a paying concern. And then the other feature is Charlie Chaplin in two certain comedy that has ever been produced. In this picture, which is called "Triple Trouble," we have Charlie performing all the antics for which he is famous, and there will also be many new ones that will keep you roaring with laughter. These two extra special attractions will be a show in themselves, and then there will also be the Pathe News and one of those wholesome Judge Brown stories besides an act of vaudeville that will complete the most attractive programme seen here in years.

"The Lion and the House."
The Queen's Dramatic Club have been practising faithfully for the past two months, and now they are ready to present "The Lion and the House," a play in four acts by Charles Klein. Every one of the cast this year will be an expert as many of them are old-timers of former years. Don't fail to see this attraction at the Grand, where it will be presented on Friday evening, December 6th, as this dramatic club made a great hit last season, and their choice of plays this year give them a much larger scope for their acting talents.

"General Post" Coming.
The management of the Grand Opera House announce they have just secured for a return engagement on Saturday, Dec. 7th, matinee and night, America's two great stars, Thomas A. Wise and Ed. H. Robins, in "General Post." The title, "General Post," is derived from an old English parlor game, where all the players sat in chairs except the one who was "it." This party called the names of different cities, and the persons who occupied the chairs which were named after these cities hurriedly move to some other chair. Every once in a while it would cry "General Post," when everybody would move, and in the scramble which follows he would try and get a chair. At the present time in England, since the war began, social conditions have been likened to "General Post" until the hard and fast rules that marked the different grades of society have practically been obliterated. It is from this condition of affairs the author has taken his theme. Of course, it is a comedy, but such delicious comedy has seldom, if ever, been produced on a local stage before. "General Post" has been running in London, England, for over two years, and from present indications it is destined to run for another year at least.

At Griffin's.
This evening will be the last opportunity patrons will have of witnessing the exceptionally interesting programme of feature pictures which have attracted capacity audiences to this theatre during the last two days.

One of the best screen comedies seen in Kingston in many a day is "On the Quiet," our special feature, starring the distinguished comedian, John Barrymore. Don't overlook this opportunity to see this celebrated star, and also the remainder of an excellent programme, which includes Ethel Clayton in "The Girl Who Came Back," a stirring photoplay of the redemption of a girl crook, and the inimitable combination of laughmakers, Charlie Chaplin and Mabel Normand, in "A Jazz Watter," one of the funniest and most mirth provoking comedies in which these capable artists have appeared in.

At the Strand.
For "The Return of Mary," the Metro play in which she is starred, May Allison, the beautiful young actress, bought an entire new set of clothes designed exclusively for the noted New York modiste. This play will be shown at the Strand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and is one of the most delightful that this fascinating young star has yet appeared in. As it is a picture of the summer time many of the dresses are of the sports variety. An unusual costume found its way into Miss Allison's assortment of clothes in the form of the black gown and mortar-board cap used by university graduates. She makes a most charming picture in this dignified emblem of a well-spent college life. Strand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
