OH, MONEY! MONEY!

By Eleanor H. Porter
Author of "Just David"
The romance of a New England Cinderella and a Western millionaire. Poor Maggie, the heroine, will rank with "Pollyanna" and "David" as one of the most lovable characters Mrs. Porter has ever created. Illustrated, $1.50 net.

THE FIRST MAN WHO CAME

There she sat—in that strange house—fearing each step on the stair—wondering whether it would be friend or foe—fearful of the coming that might be worse than death— And then when he came—but—read about it in

THE U. P. TRAIL

By Zane Grey
Across the pages of this great writer's work blows air as fresh and keen as that across a mountain top. He carries you far from the dull and weary cities into the open. For those were rough and terrible days when sin and death and despair stalked the building of the Union Pacific Railroad. And wound in with them is the tale of a man and a girl—builders, dreamers, lovers.

In those days when they built a railroad they started from the city and went out into the unknown. Every rail laid cost the life of a man. Beside the track that you roll along so serenely today there sleep armies of brave men.

And the bells that rang out joy for the completion of the railroad, rang also to celebrate the joining of the lovers.

Thousands of lovers of Zane Grey will snap up this first edition. Get yours now and thrill with the thrill of other days.

POLEON TO THE RESCUE!

It was the wildest chance to take. Round and round in the rapids spun the frail craft. There was a crash of swirling waters—a girl's voice shrieking—and then—but "Poleon" Doret saw and heard—"Poleon" Doret, whom you have seen in the movies and loved. Read this new story about the man whose business is "just livin'." In

THE WINDS OF CHANCE

By Rex Beach
He takes you again up into that magic country of the Klondike—that land he knows so well, and tells about so much better than any other writer.

Here you have Pierce Phillips, who is one of the heroes, for no less than four women love him—but "Poleon" Doret is the real hero after all—dear, lovable "Poleon, who brings sunshine to others and so cannot keep it from himself.

It is a book full of the joy of living—full of the big, wholesome laughter that keeps men sane and happy—for Rex Beach's men and women are real and human. This is no war book. It is far removed from the smoke and roar of battle. But there are fights in it—big fights with the rough and raging elements. You will thrill over the big love story in it—but more than that you will be refreshed by this glorious breath from the North and by the many humorous situations in the book that will make you chuckle—for in the story of the two delightful old miners, who quarrel when they're together, and yet cannot bear to be separated, Rex Beach has outdone himself in mastery of delicious humor. It is only a big story—with a big idea back of it—a story such as only Rex Beach could have written. Don't lose a minute. Get it at once at the nearest book store. $1.50. Read it and pass it on to a soldier.

A New Book by Mary Roberts Rinehart

THE AMAZING INTERLUDE

Youth, romance, tenderness—these three great novel by the author of "K" and "Bab" Now ready. Illustrations by The Kinneys $1.40 net

JOSSELYN'S WIFE

Here is a vivid narrative, rich details of interesting people, human sense, womanly penetration of the lives of both men and women—all characteristics of this wonderfully successful author. There is something more—a strong, almost sensational plot. There is mystery that piques and baffles the reader, and a heroine surpassing all Mrs. Norris' former characters.

"And the whole book is invested with the curious quality that Kathleen Norris has of writing about actual people and actual events. In none of her books is the sense of this stronger than in Josselyn's Wife. It is an excellent story of her own most excellent brand."—The New York Sun.

"One of Mrs. Norris' best stories."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE DOOR

What a fool he had been! To let his temper carry him away! The idea of insulting a German soldier in Belgium! That was certainly a fool American trick. And now at the other side of the door that poor child—that American girl with her indomitable spirit—perhaps— If he only could get to her to help! No wonder he idolized her. To think of one little shy girl from across the seas bearding the lion in his den—facing the whole German army—the whole force of a victorious soldiery—so ruthless to the women of a conquered country. It makes a wonderful story. Read how this girl outwitted the German officers—how she set out on her great search—and how she won. It is a thrilling story of adventure. It is a great human love story. It is a tale of rare devotion. Let Captain Hughes tell you the story—Rupert Hughes, who out of his own intimate life of this terrible war—out of the heart of the struggle—has written a big, powerful, brilliant tale that will last. This is no passing piece of fiction—for once more this most brilliant of writers has told a tale of power and force. Get it at your bookseller's to-day. Don't miss it. $1.50.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN

Illustrated by James Montgomery Flagg

THAT WHICH HATH WINGS

By Richard Dehan
Author of "One Braver Thing" (The Dop Doctor), etc.

The German Aviator-Count, in the stolen monoplane with its wonderful stabilizer, swiftly became a dot in the sky—heading for the North Sea. And the horror of it—he had deliberately carried as ballast the Doctor's little son! A brilliant novel of the hectic pleasure seeking, loose-thinking, and loose-living smart set of London and Paris just prior to Armageddon—and of the wholesome and brave awakening when the world conflagration brought them to their senses. A story of strong character drawing, subtle intrigue, and breathless thrills, in which the "Dop Doctor" and his courageous wife Lynette play an important part. $1.60 everywhere.

THE COLLEGE BOOK STORE

Speaking Christmasly
At school we learned that when a thing was complete it could not be more complete. Yet when Christmas time comes round we are tempted to say "The Complete Book Store" is more complete than ever. It does seem so. The great shelves that make it look like a huge fine library are packed more solidly. The special room for Children's Books from being interesting has become a positive joy. The whole place seems more fascinatingly alive.

YOU SHOULD KNOW IT

CANADA'S DAY OF GLORY

By F. A. MacKenzie
The real story of the Canadian army in France, told by the famous Canadian war correspondent. A series of brilliant battle pictures more thrilling than romance—and true. Lend like they fight and read how they fight. Cloth 1.50.

THE BOOK FOR EVERYBODY'S CHRISTMAS

Gene Stratton-Porter's

A DAUGHTER OF THE LAND

Acclaimed a big American novel throughout the land by 175,000 readers.

"This is a novel that stirs my heart like the national anthem played by a fine band, because of its fine American spirit. When one reads this book—this story of an American woman's big achievement—one understands the power, the ideals, the determination to finish the job the people of this country show."

"I am glad I read this book—like all big things it is so simple and fine."

"Kate Bates is a grand woman—it is a satisfaction to have met her in this fine book."

New York Sun: "Gene Stratton-Porter's best. 'A Daughter of the Land' is a big novel, an American novel, a novel to be proud of, to be read and re-read. It is as great as it is American, and it is American through and through."

Philadelphia North American: "A genuine American novel, this. It is as realistic as a day in the town market square, as characteristic of the rural middle west as the sycamores along the Wabash."

Los Angeles Tribune: "It cannot help but be felt that in this year of world conflict 'A Daughter of the Land' comes at a time when it will be welcomed most heartily by the very wise public who have enjoyed her nature books and novels."

Boston Transcript: "Count that year lost whose new books include nothing from the pen of Gene Stratton-Porter."

GUYNEMER, KNIGHT OF THE AIR

By Henry Bordeaux

Translated by Louise Morgan Sill. Introduction by Theodor Roosevelt. A biographical interpretation.

One of the great and appealing stories to come out of the war is this fascinating account of the great French "ace," of his life and of his thrilling victories in the air, inspired throughout by the author's keen and sympathetic understanding of the greatest of air heroes.

Frontispiece in color from a drawing of the "Knight of the Air," by Ruzicka. Illustrations in black and white from drawings of aerial scenes. Bound in horizon blue. Gilt top. Wrapper in colors. $1.60.

Booth Tarkington's New Book

"THE MAGNIFICENT AMBERSONS"

The story of an American family and of an American city in its big, growing time. "Around the rise and fall of the Ambersons, Mr. Tarkington has woven threads of incidents and tissues of romance into the bright alluring fabric of fancy. Tarkington's best."—Philadelphia North American.

A witty, keen, yet thoughtful book. A distinguished successor to "The Turmoil," "Penrod," "Seventeen," etc. Delightfully illustrated by Arthur William Brown. Net $1.40.

CAMILLA

By Elizabeth Robins

Author of "My Little Sister," etc.
Every bit as clever as "My Little Sister," is Miss Robins' new story of the perplexities of the beautiful divorcee, Camilla. Camilla's husband spoke of her "formidable innocence"; her sisters, of her stupidity. Anyway, they soon parted—he to a new love; she, to England, where she met Michael. But she fled on the eve of her second marriage. Was it from English prejudice or—? This story has the same impossible-to-guess-the-ending fascination that made people so wildly enthusiastic about "My Little Sister." $1.60

TWENTY-THREE AND A HALF

HOURS' LEAVE

Mary Roberts Rinehart

Author of "The Amazing Interlude," etc.
The story of a wager, a uniform, a harsh practical joke, and a girl.

"Eighty-six pages of sheer, unalloyed delight, that's what they are. From beginning to end there is a succession of the funniest of incidents and situations, related in the funniest of ways."—New York Tribune.

"We can hardly imagine a more joyously appropriate booklet to send to any discriminating reader."—New York Evening Sun.

Pictures by May Wilson Preston. 12mo. Net 60c.

THE YOUNG DIANA

Marie Corelli

Author of "The Life Everlasting," "Innocent," etc. Remarkable as her experience was, Diana May was the embodiment of a large part of womankind. One fine morning she turned up in answer to the strange advertisement of a gentleman engaged in compelling Nature to render obedience. How Diana became a subject for scientific experiment, risked her life to make millions happier, and found thereby the lost sceptre of youth and beauty, is the story.

"Miss Corelli has seldom been more entertaining."—New York Evening Globe. 12mo. Net $1.50.

"THE GOLDEN BOUGH"

By George Gibbs.

A Stirring New Book by the author of "The Yellow Dove."

Out of a German prison camp—over the border of Switzerland—into the rendezvous of the most powerful secret society in the world! And then, by a queer trick of fate, Philip Rowland finds himself head of the international Order of Nemi, with thousands of confederates in every nation, but only one whom he can trust—a girl! She is abducted. He follows her—over mountains, through cities, into the heart of Germany, with the entire German secret service after him. Thrills? Adventure? Mystery? Intrinsic? Romance? More of each than you ever found before in one book. Read it. Price, $1.35.

BIGGEST SELLING BOOK OF THE SEASON.

"I took it and tore it open. I shall never forget what I read: 'Captain John Lauder killed in action December 28. Official. War Office.'"

Here you have the great motive of a great heart, for the writing of a great book. He visited the soldiers, sang to them, lived with them in the mire of the trenches—and out of it comes this wonderful, vibrant, joyous and sad, glorious story of the struggle.

HARRY LAUDER'S

A MINSTREL IN FRANCE

It is the unique book of the year. $2.00.

If you should discover your chauffeur to be a lord, your dressmaker a princess, your governess an English lady, how amazed you'd be. Yet it's all perfectly possible according to George Barr McCutcheon, whose

"THE CITY OF MASKS"

is a delightfully humorous tale of the unknown foreign aristocrats who are living great romances in the obscure places of a vast city like New York. $1.50.

A LITERARY MYSTERY

"THE LOVE OF AN UNKNOWN SOLDIER"

is the title that has been given to a manuscript found in a dug-out. It is the story of a great love, penned at odd moments by an officer in the trenches to an American girl whose identity is unknown. Whether he is alive it is impossible to say, but these outpourings may by chance find their way to the woman for whom they were meant. Deeply touching, more vital and alive than any novel, this book will strike home to the heart of every woman who has ever loved. Cloth, $1.25 net.
