In the World of Sport

Sporting Notes

The defeat of Jimmy Wilde by Pal Moore at London was indeed the surprise of the boxing year. Boxing right in Wilde's own territory, and winning the decision on points, certainly shows that Moore must have been the better man. A return match between this pair would be a great drawing card.

Harry Frazee may not have any baseball brains as said by Ban Johnson, but evidently Mr. Frazee has some business brains. The opinion is that Frazee wants to get out of baseball, and his antagonism against Johnson is a bluff to bring a higher price for the Boston club.

The move to hold a "Get Together Movement" on the question of future ground accommodation for sport activity is along the right line, and should earn the support of all lovers of athletic recreation. Before the war, available grounds were very scarce, and since the war many of these have been closed. It will need all the old grounds and many new ones to permit of a wider scope in sport activity.

The N. H. A. clubs are going along on the assumption that they will secure the use of the Hamilton, Kitchener and other rinks for the coming season. Assumption seems to be the stock in trade of the pros. Facts are as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth.

That "Larry" Lajoie didn't make any great hit in Indianapolis last season is shown by the report that the Hoosiers are angling for a new manager in 1919. "Larry" made his reputation as manager with the Leafs, thanks to "Lena" Blackburne.

George Whiteman, the ex-Leaf outfielder, evidently stands pretty high in the opinion of the owners of the Boston American League club. They have announced that in view of his great work in the world's series last season that he will neither be traded nor sold next year.

You can't keep Sir Thomas Lipton down. That prominent dispenser of the favorite beverage—tea—is keen to take the America's Cup back to England, and is now making preparations for a race next season. He has already sent in a challenge.

"Joe" Canfield, the former St. Michael's College rugby and baseball player, is shortly to be ordained to the priesthood in Montreal. "Joe" was one of the best quarterbacks ever turned out by St. Michael's, and he was also a clever baseball catcher. The Leafs endeavored at one time to secure him.

Secretary Hewitt announces that playing certificates will be out next Wednesday. Junior clubs are reminded that official birth certificates are needed for all players, and it is quite necessary that these be secured as soon as possible.

The new International League has never been what one might call strong, and the developments recently at New York have loosened considerably the unsteady pedestals that have held up the league. The dropping of John Farrell as president and the taking in of Dave Fultz may be a good move, but right now it looks as if the change is not for the betterment of the league.

'Varsity's Blunder.
The Toronto Telegram says: Officers of the Queen's University Hockey Club have given it out that the 'Varsity officials are now quite anxious to go ahead with the Inter-collegiate senior series this winter, but that it is impossible now, as Queen's have entered the O. H. A. It looks as if 'Varsity officials saw their mistake, but were too late to rectify it.

AWAITING DISCHARGE.

Ball Players Looking for Vacation Before Reporting.

Out at the Great Lake Naval Training Station, near Chicago, are several major league ball players anxiously awaiting the word that will send them to their homes for a vacation before they are ordered south for spring training. Some of the players expect to get their discharges before Christmas, as Bernie Boland, of the Tigers, did a few days ago. Among those expected to get early discharges are Fred Thomas, of the Red Sox; Joe Leonard, of the Washington club; Urban Fayer, White Sox pitcher; George Cunningham, Detroit pitcher; Bill Johnson, outfielder for the Athletics; and Ben Dyer, sub-infielder of the Detroit Tigers.

Lipton's Great Ambition.

America's cup is due to go back to England, Sir Thomas Lipton declared in an interview with the United Press. Sir Thomas has challenged for the trophy, now held by the New York Yacht Club.

"My greatest ambition in life is to win the cup from the Americans, who are as good sports as any in the world," said Lipton. "After its sixty years' absence from England, I think I have an excellent chance of winning. The Shamrock IV. is in fine condition."
"If the challenge is accepted the race will probably be held about the middle of next September. If so, I will probably go to America in July for the purpose of preparing and practising with the Shamrock."

To Manage Phillies.

John W. Coombs, veteran pitcher, who was with the Brooklyn Nationals last season, has wired Wm. F. Baker, president of the Philadelphia Baseball Club, that he has accepted terms to manage the Phillies next year.

Coombs, it is said, will receive a salary of $7,000, with a bonus if he succeeds in piloting the team to the top of the league race, or to a place among the leaders.

Our respect for old age depends greatly on whether it be applied to men or women or the Christmas turkey.

EXPECTS CALGARY TO ADOPT SIX-MAN STYLE

Alberta Now the Only Province Where Abbreviated Hockey Is Not Played.

A Calgary despatch says: All teams outside of Alberta are playing six-man hockey, and it will be impossible for the local champions to have a play-off unless they can make arrangements to play one game seven men and the other six. It is doubtful if this would be agreeable to either team, for one would have the advantage in one game, being used to the system and one in the other.

If the A.A.H.A. agrees with Edmonton that they are to play six-man hockey, Calgary will have to do the same, as the locals stated at their last meeting that they were to run under the rules of the A.A.H.A.

The question of six-man hockey has been brought up in every good-sized city in Canada, but nothing has been said about it here. Surely the Calgary Amateur Hockey League isn't going to differ from the rest of the cities regarding the game. If so, why not make their own rules?

From Winnipeg comes the story that "Calgary will have an Allan cup team this winter," but Calgary can't have an Allan Cup team by playing seven-men hockey. To play for the Allan Cup would be a big feather in the cap for the locals, and they should at once make the "Peg" writer's story true.

England To Lift Restrictions.

In the British House of Commons, Mr. Wardle, replying to Sir J. Norton Griffiths, said he thought it would now be possible to modify the restrictions on horse racing, so as to allow a limited amount of horse racing. The entire removal of the restrictions will be effected gradually.

Instructions have been issued by the authorities that race courses at present in military occupation are to be evacuated as soon as possible. Aintree, Manchester, Gatwick, Windsor, and Lingfield are already available. Racing will probably be resumed next month.

It is stated that the Grand National will be decided next year on the Aintree course, and the meeting will be celebrated in a manner befitting the exceptional circumstances. It is the desire of the executive that both the trainer and rider should receive a commemorative trophy.

So far as racing in Ireland next year is concerned, it is evident that the Stewards of the Irish Turf Club do not anticipate any interference for a very extensive list of fixtures for the season has been issued and it provides for racing in nearly every centre in the country. No fewer than 116 days' racing is announced in the list.

Lose Suit Against Willard.

Jess Willard, heavyweight champion of the world, made the defendant in a $25,000 suit brought in the Supreme Court at New York by two prominent promoters, Tom Jones and Jack Curley, who formerly acted as his managers.

It is alleged that Willard ceased paying the two promoters a commission of 10 per cent. of his income from boxing and theatrical exhibitions when he bought the Jess Willard Wild West Show in June, 1917. In the bill of complaint Jones declared that he and Curley were largely responsible for Willard's success and stated that the champion received $4,000 a week during the season of 1916 as the star attraction of "101 Ranch."

The court dismissed the complaint on the ground that no proof had been presented to show Willard's income after buying the "wild west" show. The plaintiff's attorneys said they had been unable to do this because Willard had been out of the State and his counsel had refused to produce his books. They were allowed fifteen days in which to appeal.

Wants to Buy Tommy Smith.
Ottawa Citizen: George Kennedy's refusal to sell Tommy Smith to the Ottawa has put a new complexion on matters concerning the former Quebec forward. It is understood that the local club does not feel inclined to negotiate further with Smith unless it can secure him permanently. The Ottawa take the stand that it would be unjust to them to carry Smith for one season and then have him recalled by Canadiens.
