AT THE HANDS OF HUNS

DR. BELAND'S STORY OF GERMAN PRISON CAMP.

A Canadian Member of Parliament Writes the Story of His Experiences As a Prisoner.
Beginning with the first week of the New Year The British Whig will start publication of the intensely interesting story "My Three Years in a German Prison," by Hon. Henri S. Beland, M.D., M.P., former Postmaster General of Canada, for which The British Whig has secured exclusive publication rights in this city.
The thrilling narrative is not a war story in the sense of dealing at length upon military events in Europe. These are but briefly touched upon, the main narrative centering around Hon. Dr. Beland's personal experience and those of fellow-prisoners during his long imprisonment in the Stadtvogel, the great military prison of Berlin, and the operating centre of the German military prison system.
The story which Hon. Dr. Beland will tell treats authoritatively with German prison conditions—a subject of which little is actually known to the outside world.

Each Day in The Whig

It will appear in The Whig each day, for six weeks or longer, until completed.
The circumstances under which Hon. Dr. Beland was arrested and then imprisoned by the German authorities are these: In the early summer of 1914, Hon. Dr. Beland visited Europe where his marriage to Madame Cogels was a ceremony of interest in Canada at the time. While in Switzerland on their wedding trip, Austria's ultimatum to Serbia, which marked the beginning of the war, was served. When Germany a few days later entered the war and her invasion of Belgium had begun, Hon. Dr. Beland and his wife hastened back to Mrs. Beland's former home in Cappellen, Belgium. Although the German armies were daily drawing nearer, they decided to remain in Belgium, face the intruder and defend their home if need be.

Hon. Dr. Beland, learning of the great need of surgeons to attend the Belgian wounded then pouring into Antwerp, immediately volunteered his services as a surgeon in the Antwerp Military Hospital, which were accepted. For days and weeks he labored unselfishly, caring for the wounded as they arrived from the battle line, remaining at his post until the Germans had accomplished Antwerp's fall.

Eye Witness Story of Fight.

With this event he had to choose whether he should join the exodus of fleeing Belgians or remain in Belgium. He made the latter choice and retired to Cappellen, six miles from Antwerp, which the Germans occupied the following day, taking possession of Mrs. Beland's estate. All the tragic events connected with the flight of the population from Antwerp and the ejection of the Belgians in the surrounding territory from their homes, he witnessed and in his story describes.

Although his British citizenship was known to the Germans, he was promised and for several months enjoyed immunity from arrest at the hands of the invaders, who took cognizance of the unselfish work he was performing to alleviate suffering and distress among the populace. But finally, although he held a letter from the German officer in command of the occupied district that he would be allowed a continuance of freedom, unmolested, an order came from German headquarters for his immediate arrest. No offence was cited against him and even the German officer in command of the district, who had granted him immunity, when appealed to, admitted Hon. Dr. Beland had done nothing to justify his arrest.

Never Saw His Wife Again.

Allowed but a few minutes to bid good-bye to his wife and children (by his first marriage) he was hurried by train to Berlin. His wife, he was never to see again. Months later she took ill. While she lay dying appeals were made to the German authorities that he should be allowed to leave prison to visit her on her deathbed, but all were in vain.

WHEN A FAMILY NEEDS A FRIEND

In the Absence of Doctors Nobly Gone to War, After Influenza, the Grip— These wonderfully useful medicines, Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills, are warmly recommended. Hood's Sarsaparilla, taken before meals three times a day, and Hood's Pills, taken at night as needed, are reasonably sure to keep a family in health and prove to be reliable and always ready friends. They purify the blood, relieve and prevent biliousness and constipation, build up strength and regulate the system.
Get both, or either one, as you think you need, from your druggist to-day and begin treatment at once.

For three years Hon. Dr. Beland was confined in the Stadtvogel, the great military prison of Berlin, and the base prison centre through which all important prisoners of war passed and were distributed to the different prisons throughout Germany. In this prison were confined scores of notable prisoners from all parts of Europe and from Germany, among the latter, members of the Reichstag, held for political offences.

Conditions in the Prison Camps.

It is upon life in this prison that the story centres. It reveals actual conditions which existed in German prison life, of which the world has heard but little from an authoritative source—particularly from one who has endured and suffered as Hon. Dr. Beland has done. The privations and inhuman treatment of prisoners which actually drove many to suicide as a means of ending their misery; hunger which through lack of food led prisoners to rob garbage cans of their contents; daring attempts at escape, some successful and others frustrated with dire consequences to the participants; the brutality and low mentality of officers and guards of the prison; the employment of spies in the disguise of fellow-prisoners and their infamous work in trapping the unwary, some of whom after being successfully spied upon were removed and never seen again; sketches of notable political prisoners and the faiths they held dear—all these and many other incidents, tragic, sad and amusing, of a three years' captivity all chapter after chapter of an intensely interesting story, brightly written by one who has written authoritatively upon what he has himself seen and endured.
It need only be added that Hon. Dr. Beland, after long negotiations, between the British and German Governments through a neutral power, obtained his release a few months ago, in exchange for Von Buelow, secretary of the Krupp in England, and a nephew of the great German statesman.

THE ORPHANS' HOME IN GRIP OF INFLUENZA

There Are Forty-seven Cases—Nurses and Medical Students in Charge.

An epidemic of influenza has broken out in the Orphan's Home on Union street. On Tuesday morning there were forty-seven cases, ten of these being in hospital and the others in the home. The superintendent of the home is at present in hospital with pneumonia, and the cook recently accidentally broke her leg, so that there was a shortage of help at this institution. The situation was met, however, by a number of trained nurses and medical students who have taken charge, and are working hard to keep the epidemic within bounds. Owing to this outbreak the Christmas festivities will not be held until the epidemic has run its course, probably early in the new year.
