Mrs. Edwin McLehland entertained at dinner on Thursday evening in the crimson room of the Frontenac Club in honor of Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Wilson and Capt. and Mrs. William Goodwin. The other guests included Principal and Mrs. Dyde, Mrs. Sweeney (Queen's Dean) and Mrs. W. L. Goodwin and Miss Margery McLehland. The table decorations were very effective with a handsome centerpiece embroidered in pink carnations veiled with pale pink tulle and sprays of asparagus fern. This, with a tall cut glass vase of pink and white carnations and the same fern, surrounded by unshaded candles in crystal candlesticks, lent a soft glow over all. After dinner Mrs. McLehland and her guests motored to her suite of rooms on Wellington street, and were delighted during the evening with the playing of Mr. Goodwin, who is an accomplished pianist.

Chase, on behalf of the patronesses. The young folks in attendance numbered over two hundred. The girls were most becomingly gowned and all danced with much grace.
