SMILES FOR WHIG READERS

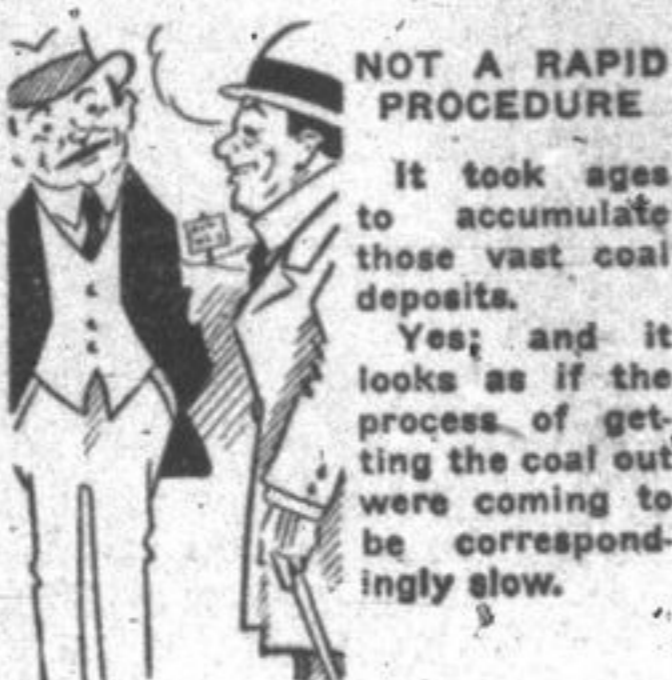

TOOK IT BACK
Wife—Whenever I kiss you, you ask me if it's a new dress I want. You are unfair.
Hubby—Well, perhaps I am. After all, it may be only a hat.

MORE IMPORTANT MATTER
She—Is my expression all right?
He—Yes. I don't know how you expect me to snap this when you look so kissable.

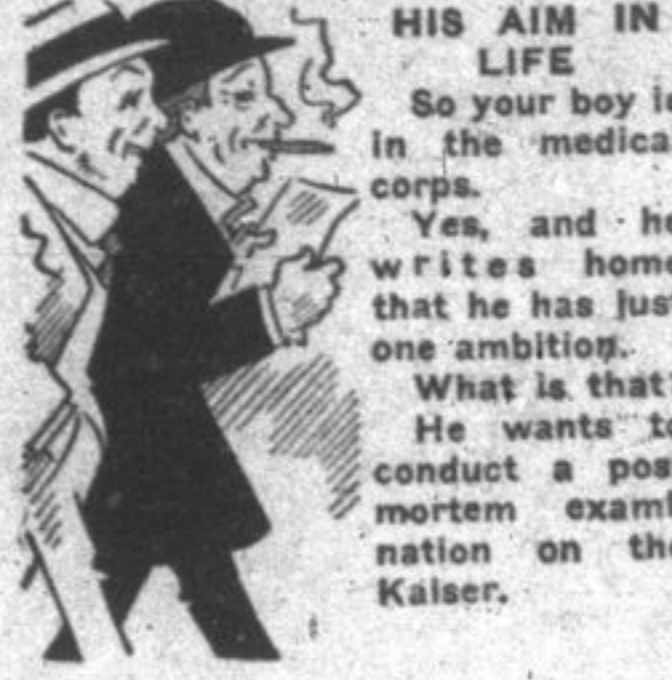

JUST SO
She—What do you think will happen after peace is declared?
He—A lot of the fellows who married to avoid the draft will learn what war really is.

NOT A RAPID PROCEDURE
It took ages to accumulate those vast coal deposits.
Yes; and it looks as if the process of getting the coal out were coming to be correspondingly slow.

IN THE DARK
Your daughter, sir, has referred me to you.
Well?
Can't I have her?
I dunno. She hasn't given me any instructions young man.

HIS AIM IN LIFE
So your boy is in the medical corps.
Yes, and he writes a home that he has just one ambition.
What is that?
He wants to conduct a post mortem examination on the Kaiser.

A COMPELLING LIKENESS
Patron—Does that portrait really resemble my wife?
Artist—It's a lifelike. It'll cost you alimony to get rid of it.

MAKING LIGHT OF IT
Stranger—You seem to take riding in these overcrowded cars very good naturedly.
Straphanger—Oh yes. We treat it as a standing joke.

DONE TO A TURN
Tickertape—How much are you out on your war stocks.
Stockton-Bonds—How much am I out? Why, I'm all in.

Sporting Notes

Henley Regatta Plans.
The honorary secretary of the Thames Amateur Rowing Council, which includes representatives of all the leading rowing clubs and regattas on the Thames, has called a meeting early in the new year, to discuss the question of rowing and regattas for the coming season. It is expected that the stewards of Henley Royal Regattas will make an early move with an announcement as to the future of that historical event, so that the way may be left clear for the arrangement of an attractive programme of regattas for next summer. In the meantime, the Marlow regatta committee are anxious to arrange for a regatta next year, at which it is proposed to provide racing for public school fairs.

Wouldn't Risk Cash.
According to a writer in the London Times, thousands of the people of Berlin and its suburbs visited the Karlsplatz race course on Sunday, November 10th—the day after the soldiers and police had submitted to the workmen who were on strike, to whom the Socialist Liebknecht had delivered an oration from the Kaiser's balcony at the castle, and the day before the armistice—and the only reason why there was no racing was because there could be no betting, owing to the managers of the totalisator having refused to drive through Berlin in charge of $250,000 in cash.

Advance in Golf Sticks.
J. H. Taylor, the famous English golfer, and several times open champion, says that the purchase in the future of clubs and balls is going to be a difficulty. He tried to buy 500 clubs early this month. Two of the biggest firms in Scotland could not look at the order. A finished hickory shaft—without the head or anything else—used to cost from 12 to 12 cents. It is now nearly $2, which is easily a record increase in price for any article.

Montreal's Ten Strike.
Golfers will hear with a great deal of interest, that Willie Park, the celebrated golf architect and player is coming next season to Canada, having accepted the position of professional at the Mount Bruno Country Club, the very prominent new club near Montreal, which will be formally opened the coming year. Park has had a wonderful career on the links.

BETTING ON DERBY.

The Panther and Stefan the Great are Favorites.
Racing in England will be resumed next season on a pre-war footing. The historic Derby once more will be run at Epsom Downs during the summer, that is scheduled to begin on June 4th. Betting in the future books on the Derby already is in progress, with two colts high in favor. These are Sir A. Black's The Panther and Robinson & Clark's Stefan the Great. Both are at 5 to 1 in the betting. The racing season will begin on March 24th, and all the big stakes that were suspended during the war will be resumed.

Space Is Too Narrow.

The new off-side centre-ice area did not produce any remarkable changes in the play except to eliminate numerous stops. The go-go-you please area is too narrow for the introduction of the trick plays which characterize western hockey in this respect. "Put another ten feet on each side of the area and it would make a lot of difference," said the veteran player-referee, Art Ross, of Montreal. "The lines are too far from the goal nets now to make much difference in the play, except that they eliminate a good deal of unnecessary whistle-blowing."

FRANK NICHBOR

Released from Royal Air Force. He will play with Ottawa.
