COL. ROOSEVELT DIED IN SILENCE

(Continued from page 1.) ting of a blood clot from a broken vein. By his request, made to Mrs. Roosevelt some time ago, Col. Roosevelt's remains will be interred quietly by night and privately in a private citizen of the United States.

General Regret (Canadian Press Despatch) Washington, Jan. 6.—Profound regret was expressed in all circles and from all quarters of the United States at the death of Col. Roosevelt. The courts adjourned and congress called for a special memorial session. The news was cabled to President Wilson immediately.

Sketch of His Life. Col. Roosevelt was born of Dutch ancestry in New York city on October 27th, 1858. He was a physical weakling and not till he became a man did he develop normally. His manhood however, was thoroughly typical of the strenuous Americanism.

He was one of the United States' most famous presidents. He was elected to the New York Legislature in 1882 and of governor of New York State in 1895. In the meantime he became prominent as a soldier leading a regiment of Rough Riders in the Spanish American war. He was elected vice-president of the United States in 1901 and became president when McKinley was assassinated a few months later. He was elected president 1901 and defeated for the presidency as a progressive candidate in 1912. In 1909 he made a famous hunting trip in Africa, and in 1914 he explored parts of South America. Before the United States entered the war, Col. Roosevelt was an outspoken pro-ally. He visited Canada to boost the Victory Loan campaign in 1917.

CANTATA RENDERED

At Sydenham Street Methodist Church Evening Service. A cantata, "The Coming of the King," by Dudley Buck, was given at Sydenham Street Methodist church on Sunday evening. It opened with an organ prelude, "Noel," by Ernest Maudsland, which was beautifully rendered. Then followed the "Prophecy," a soprano solo, which was sung by Miss Woodman in good voice. The Advent was sung by Miss Pollard, a soprano and alto duet by Miss Pollard and Miss Crutshank, with much effect. The "Annunciation" was an alto solo sung by Miss Pollard, and a tenor solo sung by Mr. Mack. J. Harvey, bass, showed good voice. At this point the familiar hymn, "Christians Awake, Salute the Happy Morn," was sung by the full choir and congregation. "The Virgin's Lullaby" was perhaps one of the most pleasing features of the cantata. It was an alto solo sung by Miss Pollard. Harold Angrove took the part of Herod in the dialogue and the male chorus the part of the host. This part was rendered very effectively. Herod's decree is followed by a lamentation sung by female voices. The cantata brought to a close with the hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful" by the full choir and the congregation.

"The Coming of the King" is perhaps one of the most comprehensive settings of Christmas music, and gives ample scope for the best vocal talent. Miss Shaw, organist and choir leader, and her choir are deserving of the highest praise for the successful rendering of the piece. All of the solos were well taken and the chorus throughout was perfect. The male chorus was particularly well chosen.

The violin and cello accompaniment by Arthur Locke and Prof. Eaton was a strong support and enriched the harmony. At the end of the service, Mr. Maudsland played Gounod's March.

PLACED UNDER ARREST Claimed That He Purchased Stolen Property From Boy Burglars. As he stepped off a Grand Trunk train here on Monday morning, Edward McLaughlin, a second-hand dealer, belonging to this city, was placed under arrest by Constable James Cotton on a charge of having purchased stolen property from the band of boy burglars, who were rounded up here last week. McLaughlin came before Magistrate Farrell at a special session of the police court this afternoon pleaded "not guilty" through his counsel, Francis King, and the case was remanded till Thursday.

THINKS WHEAT MAY BRING $1.50 Miller Does Not Believe Farmers Are Over Fixed Price. Toronto, Jan. 6.—A Western Canadian miller in a letter to a financier expresses the view that the United States will urge the European countries in need of wheat to pay the highest prices possible for next year's crop, in view of the fact that the greater production campaign was undertaken for those very countries. He looks for a price of $1.50 to $1.75 and that the United States is prepared to lose the difference between that and $2.25 per bushel at Chicago, and treat it as a war expenditure. If this turns out to be the case, the Canadian surplus for export would likely be marketed at a similar figure. The writer of the letter thinks Western farmers are not particularly anxious for a fixed price, and if they could get $1.25 to $1.50 next season, they would be satisfied. What they do want to know, however, is what the Government's policy in the matter will be, so that they can make their plans accordingly. If wheat is to be cheap, they can grow coarse grains, and this would be to the advantage of the whole community. One result would be "cheaper pork" from cheaper feed, instead of using $2.20 wheat for this purpose.

Another Toronto financier expressed the view that, the sooner the price of wheat reached a natural level, the sooner other prices would be adjusted, and business proceed along normal channels.

Cardinal Mercier will come to America soon it is announced by Belgian newspapers.
