CONSTANT PAIN AFTER EATING

The Tortures of Dyspepsia Corrected by "Fruit-a-lives"

St. Martin's, N.D.
"For two years, I suffered tortures from Serena Dyspepsia. I had constant pains after eating; pains down the sides and back; and horrible bitter stuff often came up in my mouth.
I tried doctors, but they did not help me. But as soon as I started taking 'Fruit-a-lives', I began to improve and this medicine, made of fruit juices, relieved me when everything else failed."

THIS WOMAN SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, One of Thousands of Such Cases.

Black River Falls, Wis. -- "As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation, I cannot say enough in praise of it. I suffered from organic troubles and my side hurt me so I could hardly be up from my bed, and I was unable to do my housework. I had the best doctors in Eau Claire and they wanted me to have an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me so I did not need the operation, and I am telling all my friends about it." -- Mrs. A. W. Brown, Black River Falls, Wis.

It is just such experiences as that of Mrs. Binner that has made this famous root and herb remedy a household word from ocean to ocean. Any woman who suffers from inflammation, ulceration, displacements, backache, nervousness, irregularities or "the blues" should not rest until she has given it a trial, and for special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

BRIAN, NOW LIEUT. HACKETT, IS DECORATED FOR BRAVERY

CHAPTER CXXXI.
Ruth plunged into her work for soldiers wives and babies with redoubled fervor. She worked at the shop until she was so tired that she slept as soon as she lay down. But each day she watched the list of casualties with growing apprehension; and each night she breathed a prayer of thankfulness that Brian's name was not among them.

The war had begun to affect Ruth deeply. It had affected all her standards, her ideas of life. The things that she and Brian might have disagreed upon a year ago, now seemed of no importance. The important things of life, the strenuous life of the days in which she was now living, smothered all the other things which, until the war--until Brian became a soldier--had seemed of paramount importance.

She used to think, if only Brian would stop being negative--if he would do something big, something positive--that she would be willing to give up all her cherished plans to please him. But he had been so negative. The world was all around him teeming with opportunities for action, and he let it pass him by while he either loafed or dreamed--or sulked.

Ruth had wanted Brian to grow into something great--something noble. She had wanted to see him high in his profession, one of the "shining lights." At first she had been whimsically in earnest about it. Then disappointedly anxious that he should redeem himself--her belief in him.

Now she had almost forgotten her drama of advancement in his profession, in her fear that he would be too brave a soldier. That he would take the unnecessary risks his tempestuous nature might suggest. The fear she felt was greater than her disappointment had been. And she prayed continually that he might be spared. What if he was? "Great!"

These one-day she saw it in the paper. It was all in a paragraph by itself, proudly isolated from the ordinary news of the trenches. Brian's name fairly jumped out at her. At first her heart stood still with dread, and she saw only a jumble of words. Then she read, and such a glow of pride filled her that she had to talk to someone. As Brian Jr. was the only one near, she addressed her remarks to him:

"They have given your daddy a decoration for bravery, baby! He went over the top, all right; and baby, he stayed over and brought somebody back, his captain or something, whom the awful Germans had wounded. Your father is a great hero now, baby. They have told all about him in the paper. He will be a lieutenant now. Aren't you proud darling? Mother is."

"Whom were you talking to?" Mrs. Clayborne asked, as she came in.

"Whom do you suppose? To Brian Hackett, Jr. I was telling him all about Lieutenant Hackett who happens to be his father."

"Lieutenant?"

"Yes--look at this!" and proudly Ruth showed her aunt the paragraph in the paper announcing that Brian had been decorated for bravery, and raised to the rank of First Lieutenant.

For the first time Mrs. Clayborne showed real interest in her niece's husband. She read the short article which told so little, yet so much, over twice, then laid it down.

"Do you feel very proud?" she said with a smile.

"Indeed I do. But I knew Brian would make good--as a soldier. He is very brave, and quick witted. Perhaps that was what helped him save the wounded officer--his quick action."

"I am very glad he has distinguished himself. The service cross is not rightly won." Mrs. Clayborne said, and then left Ruth once more alone with her baby, and the paper.

"Auntie was pleased, too!" she told Brian Jr. when again they were by themselves. "She looked pleased, baby, and she doesn't like your dad,--not much."

All that evening Ruth was so happily restless that she could not keep still. So finally she sat down and in a long letter to Brian told him how thankful she was he was safe, and of how inordinately proud she was that he had won the Distinguished Service Cross. "I told her all about it and she is as anxious to see you and tell you how proud she is of you, as I am. Honest he is--even though he can't talk," she finished whimsically.

And while writing this letter not one thought of Mollie King disturbed Ruth.

To-morrow--Ruth receives The Congratulations of Her Friends.

A would-be funny man says: there is no such thing as an imitation baseball diamond. Perhaps not; but there are lots of imitated players in the business.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

If Peevish, Feverish and Sick, Give "California" Syrup of Figs.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleanser should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the awful waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Thought Is Was a Boil

DOCTOR SAID AIRCROSS.
Mr. Gleason R. Young, Kingsport, N.B., under date of Feb. 9th, 1918, writes us as follows:--"About five months ago, a lump came on my jaw bone. I thought it was a boil, and when it had been there quite a while it began to get larger. I went to a doctor and he said it was an abscess, and lanced it. He gave me a wash for it, so I went by his directions until it healed up, but it commenced coming again, and in about three weeks it broke itself. I thought it would get better, but it didn't. A neighbor advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I sent and got a bottle, and by the time it was all gone, the abscess had disappeared, and now it is all better."

Burdock Blood Bitters will heal any dry, up, sore, abscess, and abscess, no matter how large, or of how long standing. If you have never applied it to a cut, wound, sore or ulcer, just try it and see what soothing, healing, cleansing power it possesses. It takes out itching, stinging and burning, and promotes the growth of healthy flesh, and the like, when taken internally, by its power of eliminating all impurities from the blood and making that vital fluid rich, red and pure, it cuts off the origin and source of the foul matter that goes to make boils, pimples, warts, ulcers, measles and the like, and at the same time the purified and enriched blood creates healthy tissue where there was formerly, perhaps a sore full of pus.

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for 40 years. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
