WITH THE WAR VETERANS MAYOR NEWMAN'S INITIAL ADDRESS

A DEBATE WITH QUEEN'S STUDENTS IS ARRANGED.

The G.W.V.A. Investigating a Case in Which a Soldier's Wife's Bank Account is Garnished.

Arrangements have been completed for the debate between the Queen's University Returned Soldiers' Club and the Great War Veterans' Association next Friday. The subject of the debate is to be: "Resolved, that the Federal Government's treatment of returned soldiers is both fair and adequate." The teams are: Affirmative, Queen's, John H. Barry, B.A., and Kenneth Keill; negative, G.W.V.A., M. M. Hoar and Lieut. A. G. Sandford.

The grievance mentioned in Friday's Whig regarding the difference in war service gratuity paid to two men, one of whom had served overseas, and the other only in Canada, was slightly misstated. The real facts are that the man who did all his service in Canada and was discharged on Nov. 16th, 1918, receives three months post discharge pay at the old rate, which equals $210, while the man who saw service in England and was discharged on Nov. 9th, 1918, receives three months post discharge pay at the old rate, which equals $99. This is the injustice complained of by some of the returned men.

The G.W.V.A. has received a donation of $5 from Percy C. Stevenson, manager of the Bank of Commerce, for one year's subscription to "Canada." Mr. Stevenson has made this donation every year since the opening of the G.W.V.A. branch here, and his action is much appreciated.

The committee of repatriation and employment, on behalf of the Government, has asked the G.W.V.A. to make arrangements for having Trevor McGuire, of the Repatriation Speakers' Bureau, address a meeting in their rooms at an early date, which will be advertised later.

The G.W.V.A. is investigating a rather interesting case. In 1910 a man and his wife became joint debtors for a sum of $170. The man is now overseas, and by careful management his wife has been able to save a little money from her Government allowances. The creditor, hearing of this, has garnished her bank account and she is unable to draw her money. The G.W.V.A. is investigating whether it is legal for the creditor to do this while the joint debtor is in France.

The Great War Veterans' Association has sent a letter to the Minister of Justice regarding the employment of Ottawa men as Dominion police in Kingston, asking that Kingston men be given consideration.

As you are aware, with demobilization comes reconstruction. The Minister of Finance has lifted the ban on municipal borrowings, and in view of the active work about to be undertaken on road construction by the Provincial Government, we will, if we are wise, give immediate consideration to the question of street paving and improvements. Many of our roadways are in a deplorable condition, worse by far than they would have been if labor and cheap money had been available for maintenance and reconstruction. The people at large are alive to the lack of wisdom of putting stone as macadam on the main central streets used for heavy traffic. In the spring and summer, and carrying it off as mud in the autumn. What is desired are permanently paved streets for heavy traffic within the heart of the city; which should be done with the use of the district by well constructed and well drained macadamized roadways; care must be taken in any plan suggested, to provide for roadways not only suitable to the central portion of the city, but also such as are required even in the remote residential districts.

The construction of the new Welland Canal, which is again being begun, directs our attention to the necessity of improvements in our harbor, the accommodation of which must necessarily be taxed when the large grain boats of the upper lakes come from Port Arthur to our shores. We should I think, be active in endeavoring to interest the Government in the problems that confront us, and impress on those in authority that while Kingston is prepared to do her share she realizes that adequate accommodation can only be provided with Government assistance.

I am advised that during the year those interested in the Kingston fair, Queen's University and the Kingston Hospital are likely to ask the citizens for assistance to permit of development and advancement in the work undertaken by these institutions, and I feel sure that when representations are made to us they will have our careful consideration and that the council will not be unsympathetic to the institutions that have done not a little for Kingston.

Financial Matters.

The retiring mayor, Mayor Hughes, whose energy, tact and resourcefulness have greatly endeared him to the people, has the congratulations of all of us in accomplishing what was always thought to be the impossible—leaving office with a surplus in the city treasury.

During the war Kingston has given liberally in response to the various calls that have been made upon her, and while our bonded debt has increased somewhat I feel sure that there is not an elector within the bounds of the city who regrets the generosity of the council since 1914, and we only regret that our giving was limited by our means.

Careful consideration will have to be given to expenditures during the next few years. Our assessment is not low; I would urge upon the finance committee that they endeavor to impress on the city council the wisdom of his making every possible effort to equalize the burden of taxation and take such steps as may be in their judgment, and his, be thought best, to secure a full contribution in proportion to the value of the property, from those who occupy the more pretentious residences as compared with the smaller homes within the municipality.

I look forward with faith and optimism to the future. The group of buildings in which we are to-day bears testimony to the courage and foresight of those who, in days gone, occupied the positions we now fill and undertook the solution of problems similar to those that today confront us. With the co-operation of all classes, with patience and with forbearance, there is no reason why Kingston should not go through the years given to demobilization and reorganization with satisfaction to the citizens and advantage to the city. I desire to impress on you all the duty you owe to the people you have the honor to represent, to give the best there is in you to the work you have promised to undertake; I look forward to our year's work with hopeful expectation of many profitable evenings to be spent in the service of the city. I shall endeavor to preside over the meetings of council without partiality, and to treat each member with courtesy and consideration; I shall expect the observance of rules and regulations that experience has demonstrated are essential to secure freedom of debate and the accomplishment of results. I ask your co-operation and be assured that I shall second your endeavors. Let us all work together to make this year memorable in the annals of Kingston, and that the people at large shall realize nothing that should have been done on its behalf, but that we have done our best to advance the interests of the city.

REAL LIFE VALUES SPIRITUAL VALUES

Principal Taylor Speaks at Service in Convocation Hall on Sunday.

That the real values in life are the spiritual values, was a point emphasized by Principal Taylor, in an able sermon at the service held at Queen's Convocation Hall on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. There was a good attendance at the service. Rev. Dr. W. G. Jordan read the Scripture lesson.

Principal Taylor pointed out how the students came to the university to learn to become good citizens and to take their place in the business world, but summing it all up, it was the spiritual value of things that counted. Those who had passed out of college had good reason to remember the friendships, the atmosphere, outlook and life. All these things were valued more so

HELD CLOSING SESSION. New Secretary Appointed For National Council of Women. The members of the executive of the National Council of Women held their final session on Saturday. One of the most important matters taken up was that of the appointment of a new secretary, the resignation of Mrs. R. Fairbairn, of Toronto, having been received. The resignation was received with sincere regret, as during her term of office Mrs. Fairbairn rendered able service to the council, and did much to promote its interests. Mrs. Parsons of Toronto was elected to fill the vacancy.
