GANANOQUE

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Jan. 17.—Mrs. Frederick Nelson, Charles street, received a telegram yesterday from her husband, Pte. Frederick Nelson, who has been overseas for 4000 days past, announcing his safe arrival at St. John, N.B., and that he expects to arrive in Gananoque early this morning.

Mrs. Swann, King street, also received a telegram from her son, Pte. Bert Swann, that he, too, had safely arrived at St. John, and would be home early on Friday.

The annual tea meeting for the congregation and friends of St. Andrew's church was held last evening and was conducted by the Young People's Association of that church.

On Tuesday evening in the hall of South Lake Lodge No. 233 L. O. L. the annual meeting of the district Orange lodge was held, and was quite largely attended. There was quite a goodly representation from Protection Lodge No. 51, L. O. L. of this town present. These officers were elected: District master, J. S. McEntire, Gananoque; district deputy master, Delbert Nuttall, South Lake; district chaplain, Frank Wright, Gananoque; district recording secretary, Frederick Nuttall, South Lake; district financial secretary, Leslie Andrew, Gananoque; district treasurer, Joseph Nuttall, South Lake; district D. of

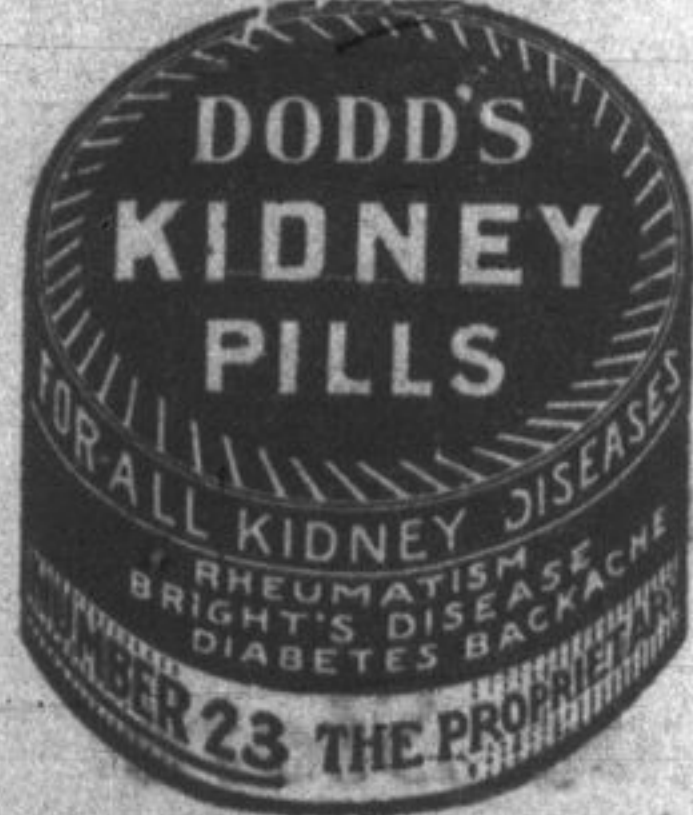

C. Edwin Nuttall, South Lake; district first lecturer, George S. Maston, Gananoque. The Young People's Association of St. Andrew's church at their annual business meeting held in their lecture hall at eight o'clock on Tuesday evening elected these officers: Hon. president, Rev. Charles E. Kidd; president, W. Balfour Muir; secretary, Miss Kate Webster; treasurer, Dr. Stedman.

In honor of their niece, the Misses Hilda and Marjorie Cliffe, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cliffe entertained a number of friends at their home on North street on Monday evening on the eve of their departure to join their father, William Cliffe, in Kingston.

Mrs. (Dr.) McKee, of Montreal, who has been spending the past week in Ottawa the guest of Mrs. W. H. Pennock, has returned to town for a further visit with her mother, Mrs. D. C. Cowan, Arthur street.

Town Councillor Frederick Lloyd spent the past few days in Brockville, having been summoned there as a jurymen for the assizes in session this week. Rev. W. S. Lennon, pastor of Grace Methodist church, is spending the week in Toronto.

"When men in the army are demobilized," said Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, at Washington before the House Immigration Committee, "we are going to have bread lines in every industrial centre by May 1st." It is reported that the announcement of big lumber contracts for Canada, was premature and that lumber competition from Norway and Sweden has been encountered.

THE LATE R. P. PATTERSON,

A Queen's Science Graduate Dies at Newburgh, Ont. On Monday, January 6th, a gloom was cast over the vicinity of Newburgh when word was received by his parents that death had claimed their young son and child, Robert Percy Patterson, at his home in Coniston, near Sudbury. His death came as a great shock to the family, friends and neighbors. He had been ill but four days with influenza.

After a short service at his home in Coniston, his remains were forwarded to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Patterson, of Newburgh. The funeral service took place January 9th, at 2:30 p.m., at the house. The expression of sympathy in the form of the beautiful floral tributes that were contributed showed the high esteem in which he was held.

R. P. Patterson was born in Newburgh in 1890. He received his early educational training at the public and high school of Newburgh. At the age of fifteen he entered Napanee Collegiate Institute. After obtaining his senior matriculation and first class certificate, he entered Queen's University, taking an arts course and receiving his B.A. degree. In 1915 he graduated from the university as a mining engineer. During his science course two years were spent in getting practical mining experience and graduating year.

As an engineer his career was brief but most successful. He filled very important positions with the Copper Cliff Mining Company, also with the Consolidated Mining and Smelter Company of Trail, B.C., and lastly with the Mond Nickel Company of Coniston. His services always were highly valued by the head officials of the mining companies.

Mr. Patterson was a brilliant, promising young man. From childhood he showed marked ability and achievement. Not only was he clever, but he had many notable sterling qualities. He was conscientious, unselfish, thoughtful and considerate at all times. He was highly respected, beloved and esteemed by all who knew him. Not only did he strive by his strong personality for material things but for higher things. In 1916 he was married to Lillian Campbell, of Toronto. He leaves to mourn him his wife and baby, Joyce, of Coniston; his parents, of Newburgh, Ont.; one brother, W. E. Patterson, of Minnesota, U.S.A.; two sisters, Mrs. C. H. Lapome, of Napanee; and Pearl, of Kingston.

HOW SOME U.S. MEN FROM FRONT ARE TREATED

PRIVATE ANDREW FERGUSON. Private Andrew Ferguson, of New York, winner of the French War Cross, who wears two wound stripes and three service stripes, is "flat broke." So he has appealed to the Mayor's Committee on National Defense, in New York City, to assist him in obtaining eight months' back pay. Ferguson is a patient in the Military Hospital on Governor's Island. He has been informed by the War Department that he must wait for his pay until his papers arrive from the other side.

Wedded at Seeley's Bay. Seeley's Bay, Jan. 16.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Chapman, Seeley's Bay, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Jan. 8th, when their only daughter, Vera Irene, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Morris C. Maxwell, the Rev. W. H. Smith officiating. The house was prettily decorated with ferns, carnations and narcissi. The bride, who was unattended, wore a gown of ivory charmeuse and georgette with bandeau of orange blossoms and Brussels net veil and carried a shower bouquet of opheelia roses and freesia.

Miss Jean Johnson, B.A., of Kingston, played the wedding marches. During the signing of the register, B. Findlay of Peterboro sang. Among the many beautiful presents received by the bride was a handsome Hudson seal coat, the gift of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell will live in Detroit.

At Bradford Thursday night Harry Lauder was presented by the city council with a silver mounted telephone.

NAMING THE PROVINCES.

Glimpses of History of Our Own Dominion. Canada (or Kanata, as it may be written) is the plural of the Mohawk word Kanonsa, a house. When Jacques Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence, a chief came on board his wonderful winged canoe, and of him Cabot enquired, with a wave of the hand towards some huts on the shore, "What land is this?" to which the chief, not clearly understanding replied, "Kanata," meaning the huts and Kanata or Canada the land thenceforth was and still is. The Iroquois, who then possessed the banks of the St. Lawrence, were called Kanonsium, the people of the Longhouse, as they dwell not in wigwams, but in huts, made large enough to accommodate several families, and lengthened from time to time as the families increased.

A post office in the County of Frontenac has the name of Canoto, which is apparently a varied form of Kanonsa or Kanata. But "Canoto" is absolutely inadmissible. Nova Scotia was named Markland by the first discoverers, but received its present name from Scottish immigrants to offset Nouvelle France and New England. The name was probably chosen by Sir William Alexander (Earl of Stirling), of whom descendants still survive in Canada, some in Toronto.

Interesting facts are connected with the name Acadia. Verazzano, an Italian navigator, in the service of Francis I. of France, discovered the land in 1524 and named it Acadia "for the beauty of the trees." It seems odd that an Italian in the service of France should give a newly discovered land the name of an ancient Greek village, and that for a reason which might have served quite as well for the selection of the name of any one of places innumerable. It is difficult to understand how Acadia was later rendered Acadie or Acadia, but the change was a good one, the latter name being admirable and apparently unique, and it has never been forgotten, and although it is not written on our maps, there may be a possibility of its revival in place of the very objectionable and inappropriate names of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick if those provinces should become united as one province, as has been at some time suggested. It is an odd coincidence that Acadia is so similar to some native place names that it has been supposed to be a partly obsolete word of an Indian language meaning "Land of Plenty." New Brunswick was named in honor of connections of the royal family in a former generation. Prince Edward Island bears the name of the Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria. Quebec was given the name of the principal city in 1567.

Ontario at the same date took the name of the "Beautiful lake." Manitoba, also taken from the name of a lake, when the province was created; the name means the Voice of God. Melean, in "Canadian Savage Folk," gives a lengthy explanation with a slight difference of signification, which, however, is much the same in the result. Saskatchewan was given the name of its great river, "the swift-punning river."

Alberta was named in honor of the late Prince Consort. British Columbia calls for no particular remark, further than that the name Columbia has reached a very long distance from its place of origin. Vancouver Island bears the name of a British naval officer, who surveyed the adjacent seas and inlets. The island was known to the Indians as Katchitequa, "the plain." Athabasca has been explained as a geographical term, describing a land dotted "here and there" with swamps and muskegs. Perhaps somewhat of a libel by giving such features an undue prominence; there are plenty of swamps and muskegs in other provinces.

Keewatin means "the north." The name would have been better and more dignified as "Keewaydin."

Old-Time Prodigality. Among the once necessities of farm life that reflected prodigality in the use of valuable timber was the old rail fence. Like many other almost bygone of rural life, its place in farm wastefulness now is well established, and yet it had its uses for which the present straight-line wire fencing cannot qualify.

The old rail fence's serrated stretches were the home of small animal life that now is rapidly disappearing. Around its timbers there grew the uncultivated blackberry, with its sister the raspberry, and among its recesses there thrived the black, whose fruit once was coveted for pie material and whose blossoms were the foundation for elderberry wine that matrons served of a winter evening when the neighbors gathered.

The rail fence, with its invariable undergrowth, was the favorite protection for Bob White in winter, and from its top he sang in the warmer seasons. Beneath, the little ground squirrel burrowed. From safe retreat he chattered if some intruder came near to annoy him as he was busily engaged in gathering his store of food for the snow time.

To the harvest hand it afforded protection at the end of the long row for a brief respite, and its corners formed shaded nooks under which the water jug might be kept.

To Grow Hair On Bald Heads Specialist Gives Simple Recipe That Works Fine Thousands of people suffer from baldness, and falling hair who have tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless. The following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum 6 ounces; Lavon's de Compose, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half dram. If you wish it perfumed add 1 dram of your favorite perfume. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Ladies using this preparation should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired. BUY W.S.
