Military Matters

In a further effort to improve conditions on troopships carrying returning Canadian soldiers home, the Military Department has adopted the plan of attaching to each conducting party on board the steamers one sergeant-cook, who will look after the Department's interest in the feeding of the men by the ships' crews.

The staff of the District Depot and of the A.D.S. department have now moved to their quarters at Barrfield barracks. The staff are taken over to their new quarters every morning in motor trucks.

Seventy-eight returned soldiers were discharged to civil life from No. 3 Casualty Company at Barrfield on Monday, and another large party was discharged on Tuesday. There are now less than one hundred men in the barracks at present, and the majority of these will be discharged before the end of this week.

An ambulance special, having on board two officers and fifty other ranks, bound for Kingston, left Halifax at four o'clock on Sunday afternoon. The hospital cases on board are bound for Queen's Military Hospital. The train will probably reach Kingston late on Tuesday.

The S.S. Gramplan, with two officers, twenty cadets and seventy-two other ranks, is due to arrive at St. John on Sunday, February 2nd.

Brig.-Gen. V. S. Williams and Lieut.-Col. R. J. Gardner are making an inspection of the medical services of the district and are now in Ottawa.

Pte. G. W. Rogers, No. 3 C.A.S.C. Service Company, has been transferred to the Ordnance Detachment, Brockville.

No action has yet been taken in the case of Major W. J. S. Sharpe, who was returned to Kingston last Friday from New York. He is detained at Tete de Pont barracks under close arrest pending proceedings to be taken against him for absenting himself from duty without leave. Just when the court will be appointed and what specific charges or charges will be prosecuted depends upon the instructions received from Ottawa.

Mystery, romance, adventure, the lure of gold, a sacred jewel, an uncanny taloned hand, an Egyptian priestess, a mysterious crime, marvelous electric novelties. See them all in Francis Ford's double distilled mystery serial at the King Edward, to-night; also the final chapter of "The Lion's Claw." Usual admission.

THEATRICAL

At The Grand.
Mae Murray, the charming little star of many Universal special attractions, whose latest feature is "Danger, Go Slow," was presented at the Grand yesterday in this convincing, forceful and absorbing production and versatile Mae had a role of exceptional strength and character. Taking the part of a pretty young girl who through circumstance has been made to keep house for a band of crooks, she finally makes her escape on a freight train and at last drops off at a sleepy little country town. However, it is not long before this tom boy, who arrived in boy's clothing, is the belle of the town, and from that on her adventures are more of a comical nature, where before they were more serious. Don't fail to see this exciting picture that is dominated with thrills and heart interest, when it will be shown again to-night and also to-morrow, along with the other films on the bill, which are the Pathe News, a Judge Brown story and comedy reels. For the vaudeville, Lechard and Vivian presented a novelty act of mimic and juggling that was very attractive and should prove a good drawing card.

Coming, "My Honolulu Girl."
That delightful original piece, "My Honolulu Girl," with its Hawaiian setting, its beautiful costumes, its remarkable scenic effects, its native dancers, singers and instrumentalists and its hosts of pretty girls, comes to the Grand Opera House Monday night, February 3rd, and Manager Branigan firmly believes the house record for attendance will be broken. "My Honolulu Girl," with its company of thirty-five artists in this season's big musical success. It is a melange of smart dancing, weird, haunting, Hawaiian melodies, clean comedy, and pretty girls. It has frequently been called a "Singsong show in a class by itself." The Hawaiian atmosphere which pervades the entire show, the real live natives playing ukuleles and steel strangled guitars, the dances of the flower-blessed islands and the scenes from the land of enchantment, all serve to place "My Honolulu Girl" in the front rank of musical comedy spectacles. Norman Friedland, who produced "My Honolulu Girl," believes it is the best piece of stage craft he has conceived.

At Griffin's.
Appearing to excellent advantage in his first photoplay produced by Artcraft, Enrico Caruso, the famous tenor, scored a decisive hit in "My Cousin" at Griffin's Theatre yesterday. Mr. Caruso was visualized to many in the audience for the first time, and while they were aware that he was the world's premier tenor, few realized that his talent for mimetic presentation was almost on par with his marvellous voice. Mr. Caruso is decidedly a good actor, as his double portrayal in this great picture amply proves. Ethel Clayton also provided singularly attractive entertainment in Paramount's new feature, "Women's Weapons," and was heartily received by the audience. The role portrayed by Miss Clayton is an unusual one, and affords her numerous opportunities for the display of her exquisite artistry.

WITH THE CURLERS

The mild weather has again disarranged the curling club programme. The games for the District Cup, which were to have been played off at Kingston on Tuesday and Nanaimo on Wednesday, have been postponed for one week owing to lack of ice.

The games scheduled in the club championship for Monday could not be played, and have been postponed indefinitely. On Thursday a start of the points competition is scheduled, and on Friday four rinks from Nanaimo are scheduled to play at Kingston in the Central Ontario Curling League. Unless the weather turns considerably colder before then, these matches will also have to be postponed.
