The Man on Watch

"Spats for spring," reads a newspaper announcement. More rows coming.

With winters such as this one, Kingston might erect a hotel that would draw winter tourists. Such skating and iceboating as we have had nearly all January and February would have been a great attraction.

Just in passing, and in order to calm some feelings, the Lampan desires to say that the smoke item in his last week's comments did not refer to Kingston girls in Ontario hall. So the guessing will have to continue.

And with regard to smoking, it is stated that the demand for ladies' cigarettes here is quite large. Since the war began, smoking has become more popular with both men and women. There is no use of being horrified about it. Why should women not smoke as well as men? They are becoming addicted to other male customs, including voting and carrying walking sticks.

Well, a Jack the Peeper is busy in Kingston and he is reported to be quite a climber. Here's hoping that some one gets a good swat at him.

How is it that our statesmen make so many glaring omissions and unfair regulations regarding men who have served their country overseas? How they make some of the mistakes in drafting legislation appears remarkably strange.

Kingston churches appear to have weathered the war well, as most of them report surpluses, which is more than most individuals can do.

He was a wise judge who decided that a certain child should go to its grandparents rather than to bachelor uncles and aunts. The old folks were entitled to it.

Queen's university appears to have a principal who can pick up endowment money as easily as one would pick apples from a tree. With the assistance of the new C. P. R. president as chancellor, Queen's should certainly get its share of what's going.

Now that the war is over, Aid. Kent's parks next summer should fairly glow. But daylight saving will again interfere with the lasses who have to be home by ten.

That deer must be having great sport galloping about outside the city. Shotgun have been fired at it, dogs have chased it, and one Kingston Junction man is alleged to have had hold of its tail, but it scurried off. Too bad Robert Bushell had not captured it as a fair exhibit.

—THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

Harold Smith, accountant in the Bank of Ottawa, Perth, is to leave shortly for his old home at Cornwall to go into business in a hardware partnership.

The death took place on Feb. 11th at the residence of her brother, Luke Walker, Godford, of Mrs. Susanna Cook, aged seventy-five.
