How Men From Canada Earned the Empire's Highest Tribute for Bravery in the Field of Battle.

Capt, (Acting Major) George Randolph Pearkes, M.C., for most conspicuous bravery and skilful handling of the troops under his command during the capture and consolidation of considerably more than the objective allotted to him, in an attack.

Just prior to the advance Major Pearkes was wounded in the left thigh. Regardless of his wound he continued to lead his men with the utmost gallantry, despite many obstacles,

At a particular stage of the attack his further advance was threatened by a strong point which was an objective of the battalion on his left, but which they had not succeeded in capturing. Quickly appreciating the situation, he captured and held this point, thus enabling his further ad- men, to whom he is devoted. Havvance to be successfully pushed forward.

It was entirely due to his determination and fearless personality that he was able to maintain his objective with the small number of men at his command against repeated enemy counter-attacks, both his flanks being unprotected for a considerable depth meanwhile.

His appreciation of the situation throughout and the reports rendered by him were invaluable to his commanding officer in making disposition of troops to hold the position captured.

He showed throughout a supreme contempt for danger and wonderful powers of control and leading .- From the Official Gazette,
