

Ralph Connor's New Novel
The Sky Pilot In No Man's Land

It may seem a far cry from the rolling prairies, the foothills and the rugged canyons of the American West to the shell holes and the barbed wire entanglements from the North Sea to the Vosges. Yet the outposts of civilization have shifted within three decades from the Far West to the Near East, and Ralph Connor with rare gift for discerning the great spiritual forces which have determined liberty and freedom discovers to us in this new story.

The Sky Pilot of No Man's Land that the same men who made the fight for freedom and liberty in the West this story abounds in humanity, heroism and tenderness—and again, as in the Western books, this one is the dramatic recital of an eye-witness, for Ralph Connor is now as then the beloved Sky Pilot, the friend of ranchmen and of soldiers—a great leader in the cause of freedom and human love.

RECEPTION AT
ARTILLERY PARK

Kingston men were allowed to sleep at their home and report on Saturday morning for their "ticket."

A new feature which was added on Friday was the branch of the Bank of Montreal at the hotel which cashed the men's cheques or transferred them as a deposit to branch banks in other places. The arrangement is similar to that which took place at Barriemfield during the big summer camps when the soldiers were training for overseas.

Capt. Douglas McCallum.

To one of Kingston's best known young men came the honor on Friday evening of leading up Princess street the first local unit to return from the firing line. Captain Douglas McCallum, son of Mrs. S. F. McCallum, University avenue, modestly wearing a Military Cross that was placed on his breast by the King in June, 1917, is this quiet hero, and though he tried to become unobtrusive in the crowd that gathered in Artillery park to hear the city speeches of welcome, there were many people in that crowd who came to do honor to him as a Kingstonian, a friend and a man who early in life has made good.

Captain McCallum is known or rather was known to his boy friends as "Duke." He was looked upon as a quiet good-natured fellow who was popular but best pleased if left with the crowd. To-day he wears his rank badges and his decorations with pride and dignity but in the same quiet, good-natured way. Captain McCallum left his studies at Queen's to take an artillery short course in August, 1915, going overseas the following October in command of a draft from the 34th Battery. He crossed to France on New Year's Day, 1916, transferring to the 25th Battery, 6th Brigade. He won his captaincy and his decorations for his work in the field, holding the command of the 45th Battery at the last.

The Story of the Trip Over.

The men deeply appreciated the manner in which they were received by the headquarters staff and the citizens of Kingston. Despite the severity of the weather and the lowering of the temperature during the afternoon there was no disposition to modify the programme. Hundreds of the relatives and personal friends of the men early assembled at Tete de Pont Barracks and only the military police who were stationed at the entrance prevented the throngs that lined Ontario street from storming the barracks to catch the first glimpse of the boys as they filed through to the appointed place in the Square. Mothers, sisters, wives and sweethearts broke into the line as they recognized the ones they sought.

The boys all looked well despite the long journey and were in the best of spirits. They struck up a good pace in the parade which took place after Brig.-Gen. Williams' speech in which he told them that all who deserved it could obtain immediate discharge.

A Kingston member of the party praised in the highest terms Captain Hayes of the S.S. Olympic, and the services provided on the ship, the citizens of Halifax, the Y.M.C.A. which was represented on the troop train by R. E. Harris, a business man of Wolfville, N.S., who was untiring in his efforts to provide for the comfort of all soldiers during transportation, the Salvation Army, and the service on the train from Halifax to Kingston.

He said, "We left Bramahot at 12.40 p.m. on March 17th and were on board the S.S. Olympic at Southampton the same day. Our party for Kingston was composed of the 45th Battery and details numbering about 300 men. We sailed on the 18th and reached Halifax about 8 a.m. on Monday morning, but owing to the heavy wind and the fact that the wharf is 200 feet shorter than the liner, leaving her exposed to the sea and the weather, we could not dock, but were forced to stay aboard until Tuesday night when the process of unloading was started with six tugs each of which took 200 men. The men on board ship were excellent, there being an abundance of everything. The Y.M.C.A. entertained the passengers with concerts and moving picture shows which were greatly appreciated. Captain Hayes used the troops well. The Kingston men were the last to leave the ship. The women of Halifax and the Salvation Army served us with refreshments and there was everything one could wish for. Here, too, every man was given his train expenses. Within half an hour after landing we were on the train for Kingston. The train was splendidly equipped, with mattresses, pillows and blankets for all, and the diner provided meals throughout the journey which took just fifty hours from Halifax to Kingston."

When the party boarded the Olym-

HUMORS IN SPRING

Such as Pimples, Boils, Eruptions—and Weakness, Languor, Debility

Afflict thousands of people and seem to demand the use of a Spring course of treatment without delay.

The very best medicine to take now is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which thoroughly cleanses the blood and effects radical and permanent relief by perfecting the processes of absorption and elimination—giving healthy activity to the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and skin.

This good medicine purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood in its own peculiar and unequalled way. It promptly relieves rheumatism, scrofulous troubles, and eczema, regulates the kidney and liver. It originated in a Boston physician's successful prescription, and enjoys high reputation as a satisfactory all-round family medicine. Accept no substitute, but insist on having Hood's Sarsaparilla, and get it today. It will do you good.

ple at Southampton the people there gave them a rousing send off. Each man was presented with the following autograph letter from King George:

"The Queen and I wish you God-speed and safe journey to your homes and dear ones. A grateful mother country is proud of your splendid services characterized by unsurpassed devotion and courage. (Signed) George R. and I."

There was no case of serious illness on the ship, but they passed through one day of bad weather.

The men are the proud possessors of the Mons Medal which was struck in honor of the 3rd Canadian Division on Nov. 11th, 1918. The medal was struck by a people who were peculiarly grateful to the Canadian Army after the years of German oppression and it is a memento that will always be highly prized by the soldiers.

The Troops Filmed.

The Pathe News Film Company were on the spot with their cameras, operated by Missie Irish and S. H. Taube, and took several "shoots" of the reception. They snapped the reception committee as it left the city hall, and also secured several pictures of the crowd at the Tete de Pont Barracks, and of the training of the battery boys. Unfortunately the reception took place rather late in the day for the taking of a complete film of the whole proceedings, but everything up to the departure of the parade from the barracks was photographed. These pictures should be of great interest to Kingstonians, and they will be shown exclusively at the Strand theatre, commencing on Thursday of next week.

Notes of the Celebration.

W. F. Nickle struck the keynote in his address when he said, "As you go back to citizenship endeavor to live for Canada in the same spirit you have discharged your duty in this war."

A Bacon street car celebrated the glorious occasion by jumping the track near Artillery Park just before the "doings" started.

Serpts. Harold Horning and Hibbert Donnelly who went overseas with the original 46th Queen's Battery, returned with the Olympians which returned on Friday evening. Both are Queen's men and were given an enthusiastic reception by the students' committee. (See also Page 19.)

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE

ENTERS ARENA IN VAUDEVILLE PRESENTATION.

Manager Branigan Announces New Policy of High Class Acts in Conjunction With Usual Big Picture Show.

According to the announcement of Manager Branigan, of the Grand Opera House, theatre patrons of Kingston will have the opportunity of seeing in the future some of the popular priced vaudeville that is holding sway in many of the larger Canadian and American cities. A. J. Small, proprietor of the Grand, has completed arrangements for a new policy for Kingston. Commencing next Thursday, and to continue from that on, this attractive playhouse will present a programme that will be far ahead of the usual standard for Kingston and will consist of the high class pictures that have always been the feature of this theatre. Aside from the advantages that the theatregoers will derive from this substantial combination of the way of meritous attractions, an outstanding feature will be the fact that people can depend on the statement that only the very best type of vaudeville obtainable from the best of the western circuits will be procured and also the fact that the pictures will come from producers whose names are known the world over. This fact alone will be a value that should prove an advantageous drawing card as the Kingston theatre patrons are always on the lookout for the best and anything out of the ordinary is patronized by everyone. So herewith the new policy of the Grand will be better shown of a higher quality for the approval of people who appreciate quality.

In pursuance with this policy the first change will be on Thursday, April 3rd, when the feature picture will be "The Cavell Case," an authentic production of the case of Edith Cavell, and will star the well-known stage celebrity, Julia Arthur. This film is the sensation of the season, not only because the events are so well known, but because the story deals with the question in such a way as to make the picture attractive instead of repulsive, and it stood them up and made all kinds of records when shown in Toronto lately. This wonderful photoplay will, along with comedies and other additional reels, complete a film programme that will be hard to beat, and there will also be the three or more acts of big time vaudeville that will be a show in themselves.

These plans, says Mr. Branigan, should prove to be the turning point in the policy of entertainment in Kingston and they should rival the presentations of the theatres in other cities which of late have caused much comment here.—Adv.

"Bringing Up Father at Home."

When the author of the popular song which tells us to pack up our troubles in an old kit bag and "Smile, Smile, Smile," conceived this gem of musical and lyric effort, he evidently had in mind the latest of the "Bringing Up Father" series of cartoon plays, "Bringing Up Father at Home." Complete and brimful of fun which has no limit and which somehow winds itself into our very marrow and makes life one ray of sunshine and happiness, this triumph of modern American humor, replete with wit and sarcasm will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday, April 2nd, matinee and night. To dwell on all the good things contained in this unusual cartoon of joy, laughter and incessant hilarity would take more than ordinary space to enumerate.—Adv. (Continued on Page 8.)
