THE SHIELDING WING.

By Will Levington Comfort, 381 Pages, Price $1.50, Thomas Langston, Toronto, Publisher.

After some peculiar experiences as a war correspondent on the Austrian front, Archer, sick of the whole ghastly business of war, drifts across Asia, seeking for something which will help him to forget it all.

Then things begin to happen. Reeve has a sister, Nayan, beautiful and wonderful, and Archer finds in her the "shielding wing" for which he has been seeking since he left the battlefields of the Carpathians.

Comfort is a past master in the art of painting pen-pictures, and in his latest novel he excels himself. His own experiences in China and Manchuria have been made the basis for the story, and he knows well the Orient of which he writes.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

Hurry, Mother! Remove Poisons From Little Stomach, Liver, Bowels. Give "California Syrup of Figs" At Once If Bilious Or Constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

books of the year. Comfort never writes in a light vein; every chapter deals with some tremendous idea, and deals with it in an efficient way.

CHRISTIAN INTERNATIONALISM.

By Rev. William Pierson Merrill, 193 Pages, Price $1.00. The MacMillan Company, Toronto, Publishers.

At a time when the world's thinkers and idealists are groping in the dark for something upon which a lasting peace can be founded this volume by Dr. Merrill is very timely. He starts off by asking if there is such a thing as Christian Internationalism, which he says means Christian Civilization.

The author traces the growth of the inter-racial spirit of sympathy and brotherhood, as set forth in the Old Testament, enlarged upon in the New Testament, and worked out in the history of the church, although not in the actual policies of the nations supporting the church.

In conclusion he says: "No words can better set forth the spirit in which we should face the world of our day, its immense demands, its sore needs, its vast responsibilities and opportunities, than words such as those which Lincoln closed his second inaugural address: 'With malice towards none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive onward to finish the work in which we are engaged, to do all that may achieve a just and lasting peace among all nations.'"

THE EDGE OF THE QUICKSANDS.

By D. Thomas Curtin. 321 pages. Price, $1.50. Hodder & Stoughton, Toronto, Publishers.

D. Thomas Curtin, the writer of this book, had some varied war experiences. As an American war correspondent, he visited every one of the fighting fronts in Europe, and saw the war from the German and Austrian side of the lines as well as from the British, Belgian, French and American side. Such being the case, it is only natural that he should have a very interesting story to tell, and that his deductions should be of great value.

The manuscript of the book was evidently written during the fall of 1918, in the days before the armistice was signed, so that in the light of recent events, some of the statements made by the author are rather extravagant. But nevertheless, he tells many things which were of great importance in the winning of the war.

To begin with, he shows the great difference which exists between the ideas and ideals of the German people and the Anglo-Saxon race. He shows Germany as a number of small states, with Prussia supreme in power and strength in every department of the government, and the whole thing under the tyranny of one man, the late Kaiser.

Great books are not stories, but messages. The directness with which these messages come to each one of us depends wholly upon ourselves. We can make ourselves very receptive if we become familiar with the individuality of those able to send these messages to us.

If Kingston women vote as the women of Chicago on the liquor question—good-night to prohibition.

When you find a ticket in the bottom of your milk bottle after emptying it, what must be your feelings?

The increased price of whiskey does not affect Loughboro township where the people are said to make their own brand from cider, wheat and corn.

After the action of the House of Commons on daylight saving, the Lamppan is convinced that there is more common sense in Kingston's city council.

The farmers not only do not want to give us lower prices, but they also want to give us a shorter day than we might have.

Some of the chorus girls of a company here this week apparently were not popular with the Johnnies. They were so slim that they looked as if they were strangers to those Johnny night feeds.

The people long for the days of the old Folger company when they could enjoy an excursion to the islands. Look at what is offered to us now—nothing.

Baby's Health

The Spring is a time of anxiety to mothers who have little ones in the home. Conditions make it necessary to keep the baby indoors. He is often confined to overheated badly ventilated rooms and catches colds which rack his whole system.

The Man on Watch

Do the Kingston housewives like butter too well to boycott it for a fortnight?

Why ask the Imperial Oil company to give a money bond when its oil is guaranteed to create a bond?

They do say that Napanee is much in need of an evangelistic campaign.

The ups and downs of life. Butter and whiskey are in the ups and milk in the downs.

Talking about engineers, Kingston has had some experience with "experts." There does not appear to be much safety in dealing with the big

Now that the fines of those Frontenac merchants who violated a war law are to be reduced, let all other delinquents be treated likewise. Why favor one set of law breakers?

Let it be remembered that low power rates alone will not bring industries to a town. For instance Trenton has had power almost to give away and yet industries are not flocking there. Transportation service is a big factor and so is location. Kingston has some of each of these to offer and let us hope that this town may link up with some of Kingston's historical features is necessary. Let us try to be a modern rather than an ancient city.
