At the Grand.
War plays have had their day and have gone. Sex plays and unclean and unwholesome dramas, which seemed to have the call for a time have vanished into that limbo where so many ephemeral fads ultimately depart. Now comes a return to the simple and wholesome drama, a return to clean stories and downright, honest plays that hold the mirror up to life and appeal to all classes and conditions of men and women, not to say the children.

It will be recalled that a few years ago "The Rosary," by Edward E. Rose won great popularity. Its central character, Rev. Father Kelly, became as widely known and as familiar and as much loved as any character on the stage. Then came the war with its flood of war plays, and also a certain craze for plays of sex entanglements and other tendencies. But the signs of the times show that the people want to get back to the human side of things. They are weary of the eternal triangle and all that sort of stuff. Nothing this trend, Messrs Rowland & Clifford have revived "The Rosary" and will present it with a splendid acting company and a handsome production at the Grand Opera House to-night.—Adv.

Coming to the Grand.

Gaudeoin Farrar again demonstrates her right to supremacy among motion picture artists by her brilliant performance in "Shadows," which is her newest Goldwyn picture. "Shadows" is a virile drama of modern life in which the star has a role replete with mental crises and powerful action. Everybody knows this famous star and in this production she sparkles in the unusual role of an Alaskan dance hall girl. Wonderful scenery abounds in this picture which opens in an Eastern millionaire's mansion and then shifts to Alaska and the countless opportunities for beautiful scenery were not lost when making this film. "Shadows" will be the presentation at the Grand on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, along with the other features on the bill which will include several comedies of high class merit and also three acts of exceptionally fine vaudeville. For an opener there will be the Carson Trio, entertainers de luxe and following will be the Melroy Sisters in a new array of songs and dances that are sure to please. But the most attractive act will be the Ambler Bros. in the world's greatest acrobatic novelty, and this clever work is sure to win the approval of all. Don't miss this combination of the best obtainable because a tip in time saves standing in line.—Adv.

At the Strand.

"Satan Junior," the latest Metro play in which the winsome little actress, Viola Dana will be seen in a story that provides her with a role of refreshing originality which brings out all the whimsical humor that has made her the most adored star of the screen. The story is that of a young girl, brimful of youth and mission, who seems the fourteen she looks and not the nineteen she really is. She falls in love, but this too, is looked upon by the object of her affections as merely one of her teasing pranks. Realizing this she determines to make him suffer for his misunderstanding and visits all her capriciousness and feminine moods on him in a manner truly fiendish. The play gives the ailing little star unbounded opportunities for mirth-provoking comedy and is a story of dancing joy—fresh with the fragrance of youth and sweet with the springtime melody of young love. At the Strand Thursday, Friday and Saturday.—Adv.

It is "Mandarin's Gold," starring Kitty Gordon, which is coming here soon.

A startling, surprising picture is the new World production, "Mandarin's Gold," starring Kitty Gordon, which on Thursday will be shown at the Strand theatre. It is a picture that contains all the elements necessary for your entertainment—love, thrills, excitement, startling surprises, suspense, and a splendid star. The picture has been elaborately staged, the cast is everything that could possibly be desired, and from all viewpoints this is one of the really big pictures of the season. You'll enjoy this production immensely. See it.—Adv.

At Griffin's.

To-night will be the last opportunity patrons will have of witnessing Marguerite Clark's delightful new picture, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which has proven successful during the last few days. This is a photoplay that appeals to young and old alike for it contains many elements of the best comedy ever screened, as well as deep pathos and incidents of real dramatic merit.

To sum up this play all we need say is Marguerite Clark at her best in the most popular novel of the age, and you will be sure to love her in the character of Lovey Mary just as you did that admirable character when you read the book.

Don't forget that in conjunction with the above superb photoplay we are also showing Charles Ray's latest picture, "The Girl Dodger," which is one of the best of his screen career, and goes to make up the finest programmes of feature pictures seen in Kingston in some time.—Adv.

Broke into a Home.

On Tuesday night the police received a call to an Earl street home. The lady of the house said that robbers were in the place. The police responded and found the house burglarized. The woman said that three men, with faces blackened, had entered the house by a back-up-stairs window. Further inquiries will be made by the police into the matter.

1ST FIELD AMBULANCE ARRIVES IN KINGSTON

First Commanded by Dr. A. E. Ross—Gete Fannon III in England.

The 1st Canadian Field Ambulance, which went overseas in October, 1914, under the command of Lieut.-Col. A. E. Ross, has been famous because of the high positions attained by its officers. Lieut.-Col. Ross is now brigadier-general, and is the director of medical services for the Canadian Corps. He was succeeded as commanding officer by Col. Wright, who became the A.D.M.S. of the 1st Canadian Division. The next commanding officer was Col. Boyce, who succeeded Col. Wright as the A.D.M.S. of the 1st Division. He was followed by Major R. M. Fison, who is the present commanding officer, and who arrived in Kingston at the head of his unit.

The unit regrets that it did not bring home with it "Gete" Fannon, a well-known Kingston boy, as he is at present in hospital in England, but he is expected to return home very soon.

Another Minola Body Found.

A body of another sailor, presumably from the stern section of the United States Shipping Board's steamer Minola, founded December 13th last, in a gale near the Cape. Dicks some twenty miles from Cape Vincent, was found on the shore of Gullough Island Monday by Lawrence Van Ness of Three Mile Bay. The body was about four feet from the water's edge. It may be, that of the officer in command of the stern section of the steamer. Much of the clothing is intact and gives rise to the belief that the man was an officer.
