The Promoter's Wife

By Jane Phelps

AN ACCIDENT DELAYS THE TRAIN UPON WHICH MRS. CARTER ARRIVES

CHAPTER LXXXV.

Tears filled my eyes. I was tired, anxious for Mrs. Carter, and had waited so long that my nerves were all "on edge" as mother used to say.
The thought that the man who had so kindly tried to assist me had heard Nell's unkind speech added to my pain. But of all he had said I was hurt the most because he resented my calling Blanche Orton's home to ask for him. I had thought it made it look better if she knew I was aware he was often with her upon business, and he had resented it. Was it business after all, or had he been spending the evening alone with her, and remaining until two o'clock.

I brushed the tears away as I saw him returning.

"You better go home, Bab. I will stay and wait for Aunt. It may be another hour before they get in." Already he had forgotten his impatient words, and they had hurt me so.

"No, I will stay with you."
"Very well, but I can't stand here.
Let's walk up and down, or go inside."
"I should prefer to walk." We paced back and forth almost in silence for a while. Occasionally one or the other of us would mention his aunt and hope she was neither killed or injured. Then I could keep still no longer, so asked:

"Did you have a successful day, Neil?"

"No—not so very. Why?"

"I just wondered—that was all.
Was Mr. Frederick at Mrs. Orton's to-night?"

"Not I tried to get him to go but he refused; acted like a fool. Said he didn't want to be mixed up with Pearlie."
"Oh Neil, was he there?"

"Of course he was! and Connor too. Thompson also came in for a little while. I told Frederick he was to be there—he likes Thompson, but he wouldn't come, at least he didn't" in a tone of annoyance.

"Were there others there?"

"What are you driving at? Yes, there were others. Now let's drop the subject. Frederick might have done me a lot of good by just appearing on the scene for a few minutes.
Don't talk about it. I am disgusted with him—a regular mollycoddle he is getting to be."

"Oh, Neil! no one could call a blunt, plain spoken man like Mr.
Frederick, a 'mollycoddle.'" the middle of next week to be with her sister, Mrs. R. H. Partridge. The latter, who has been at the Welland, St. Catharines, is returning to Toronto.

Miss Gertrude Carey, Hamilton, is expected in town on Monday and will be the guest of Mrs. W. A. Bell-house, Earl street.

Miss Blanche Deacon left on Thursday to spend a few days with friends in Montreal.

Miss Muriel Wainwright, who has just returned to Ottawa, is a V.A.D. who has seen two years' service overseas.

Capt. L. H. Birkett, M.C., who has been with his parents, Mr. and Mrs.
J. H. Birkett, Bagot street, left on Thursday for Montreal.

Mrs. A. T. Harshaw, who was the guest of Mrs. W. A. Bellhouse, has returned to Napanea.

Miss Dorothy Chown, who is at present doing V.A.D. work in England, expects to sail for Canada early in June.

Lieut. Jack Smythe, who has been with Mr. and Mrs. C. Bermingham in Riverside, Calif., returned home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Irwin, King street west, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Willena, to Frederick F. Dennison, second son of Mrs. James Dennison, Mack street. The marriage will take place quietly early in June.

The marriage of Miss Kathleen McIntyre, youngest daughter of the late Duncan McIntyre and of Mrs.
McIntyre, Montreal, to Capt. Andrew Chadwick Hersey, eldest son of Dr. and Mrs. Milton L. Hersey, West-mount, has been arranged to take place on June 5th.

Too Suggestive.

"Why did Gladys break off her engagement with Harold?"

"I think it was because he asked her if she expected a raise in salary this fall."

erything and others take it.

There are five simple ways to tell good tea.

- First, by the bright copper color of the tea when steeped.
 - Second, by the exquisite aroma.
 - Third, by the delightful, re-freshing flavor.
 - Fourth, by the satisfying richness.
 - Fifth, by the economical strength.
- Make a brewing and you will find all these qualities combined in Red Rose.

TALKING IT OVER

—With Lorna Moon—

The Rented House

I'm sorry for the poor rented house. It stands between two happy houses whose owners live in them.
Spring has brought a new coat of paint for the owned house on one side and the owned house on the other, is having a new veranda built to it.

There has been a gardener working all day on the box hedge which runs round the owned
house on the right;
the same box hedge used to run round
the rented house also, but that was years ago. The last remnant of it was torn out for a bonfire one day.
You'd never believe it, I know, but the battered grass showing which surrounds the rented house used to be a garden that was the pride of the neighborhood; that was when young Higginson and Master Willie went east to college, and Miss Janie married and went away a few days ago.

After that it was never the same, no one cared if the flag stone walk had sagged a little, or if the pink rose bush didn't come up. The vine bower at the back of the house was pulled down to make kindling, the railing fell off the veranda and has never been replaced. It's only a rented house, and nobody loves it.

Spring means nothing now to the rented house. There is a smell of burning turf from the happy house on one side, and the odor of new paint from the house on the other; but the rented house doesn't lift a hopeful eyelid through it all, its face is still stained with the tears it has shed through many unloved winters.

Doesn't Tell Lies.

"I hope your little boy never tells a lie."
"I don't know. I do know that at times he tells a lot of embarrassing truths."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Wonderful convenience of

EGG-O Baking Powder

Have you ever wanted tea biscuits for supper, but felt that you couldn't have them because you were going out for the afternoon and wouldn't have time to mix the dough after you returned?

Why not use Egg-O Baking Powder and mix the dough before you go, putting the dough in a cool place until you return? Then put into the oven and you'll have beautiful, light biscuits. Try it.

When Egg-O is used, it improves your biscuits and cakes to allow the dough to stand. And it is a wonderful convenience!

Egg-O is a different and better baking powder
