CONDITIONS OF PROMOTION

OUTLINED BY PRINCIPAL SLITER OF COLLEGIATE

Before a Meeting of the Institute Parent-Teachers' Association Held on Monday Evening.

The last meeting for this season of the Parents and Teachers' Association took place at the Collegiate Institute on Monday evening. Rev. J. W. Jones, the president, occupied the chair, and there was a good attendance. The chief feature was a paper by Principal Sliter on "Conditions Governing Promotion." This was followed by a very interesting and instructive discussion. Mr. Sliter emphasized three main points usually followed in promoting pupils. They are first, examinations solely; second, the judgment of the teacher; and, third, the judgment of the teacher combined with the examination results. He stated that at the Collegiate Institute the third system, which combines the whole, is invariably followed as being in the interests of all concerned. He described how the teachers' judgment is formed from observations and the test examinations, together with the attitude and application of the student. While the test examinations were valuable to the teacher, they were always of value to the earnest pupil as indicating the points of weakness, thereby enabling him to pick up where he was behind. Unless they were followed by increased application on the part of the pupil, the teacher could not consent to promotion.

Mr. Sliter directed attention to the great importance of thoroughness in the fundamentals, and showed that promotion must be based upon the fitness of the pupil to take up the work of the advanced form with a reasonable prospect of progress. At the conclusion of the discussion a hearty vote of thanks was moved to the speaker.

Much regret was expressed over the loss of Mrs. Caselman as secretary, and a resolution was passed thanking her for her valuable service and wishing her god-speed.

The silver cup that is to be awarded to the winning team in baseball was exhibited by the president, who announced that prizes will be offered for literary work and tennis.

THEATRICAL

At the Grand.

An excellent programme of feature vaudeville and high class photographs pleased a full house at the Grand Opera House last evening. Gladys Brockwell appeared in a five-reel Fox film, "The Strange Woman," a wonderful presentation of the strange view taken by an American girl in England on a very serious present day position. Bessie Barriscale, well known as one of the originators of the role of "Luana" in "The Bird of Paradise," was seen in a most entertaining five-reel feature film, "A Trick of Fate," a story of love, courage and romance, which contains many elaborately produced scenes, costly and marvelously staged. Other films on the bill were a Mutt and Jeff cartoon comedy, "A 75-Mile Gun," which exploded a roar of laughter from start to finish, and a one-reel comedy, "Along Came Mary," with scenes laid on an Atlantic bathing beach, where splashing antics in rippling waves caused gales of glee. Miss Maizie Marks, a clever young actress, delighted the audience with the following comic and sentimental songs: "If You Only Had My Disposition," "Description of Uncle Tom's Cabin," and "Remember You're Irish, Too." This same bill will be repeated to-night and to-morrow, matinee and night.—Adv.

At the Strand.

The Strand Theatre was crowded to the doors on Monday evening, the attraction being the appearance of Harold Lockwood, the great screen favorite, in "The Great Romance." This play is a great story of beauty and charm, and has a cast of brilliant players, headed by Ruby de Remer. It will be shown at the Strand on Tuesday and Wednesday. The cast supporting Harold Lockwood numbers amongst its members, in addition to Ruby de Remer, Frank Carrier, J. P. Laffey, Franklyn and Clara Grenville. This striking screen play of New York and a small kingdom in Europe gives the popular star one of the best opportunities in years; and those who have had a glimpse of scenes from the picture assert he never has appeared to greater advantage. The production was made under the direction of Henry Otto. The story is by Finis Fox. In recognition of her excellent work with Mr. Lockwood in another Screen Classics, Inc. production, Miss De Remer was engaged to play opposite him.—Adv.

At Griffin's.

A strong and original story of the west has been provided by Thomas H. Ince for Charles Ray in "The Sheriff's Son," which was presented with great success at Griffin's yesterday. The story as well as the artistic portrayals by Mr. Ray and his wholly adequate support, appealed forcibly to the audience. Dainty Vivian Martin, one of the most popular of the galaxy of stars, also proved exceedingly attractive in "Little Comrade." Miss Martin always is delightful, and in this splendid film she presents a bit of character work as a patriotic farm-ette which will vastly enhance her reputation as an artist of artistry and skill. The picture is a charming one in every way, and Niles Welsh heads an unusually capable supporting cast. In addition to the two features mentioned above a funny Charlie Chaplin comedy and other good reels complete an excellent programme.—Adv.

Final arrangements have been completed for the celebration of presenting to the Kingston Memorial Bathing House to the city at Macdonald Park this evening. The building will be handed over to Mayor Newman by James Richardson and a few short speeches will be made. A band will be present and a brief concert will be given during the evening.

Praise for the R.M.C.

The Hamilton Times says: It may be remembered that some time ago the Times spoke approvingly of the efforts being made by Brig. Gen. Perreau, commandant of the Royal Military College, Kingston, to have a new educational building erected in connection with the college. The building is in course of erection, and the corner stone will be formally laid on Monday, June 16th, by the Duke of Devonshire. This new building will be a welcome addition to the institution, as the cadets have been more or less cramped for room. Commandant Perreau will be particularly gratified to see the new building underway before he retires from the institution which he has guided with such success during his term of office. Prof. Iva Martin, the mathematical master, who has been so long connected with the college, will be pleased to have this additional accommodation for the cadets. The college is popular as evidenced by the large number of cadets in attendance. Hundreds of the ex-cadets who volunteered for the front, won much honor for themselves and for the college.

RUSSIAN WITH BIG LOAD.

Two Police Constables Gathered Him in Late Monday Night. Nicholas Latesky and some of his friends purchased an automobile. The deal was put through on Monday afternoon, and it appears that Latesky got some whiskey to drink from the man. The purchase was made from. At least this is what he said to the court on Tuesday morning, or what his story, told partly in English and Russian sounded like when he stood accused of being intoxicated. He was fined $10 and costs or one month.

At midnight Monday, Constables Downey and Hughes noticed the truck come out of a laneway on Wellington street, between Princess and Queen streets. He was listing pretty well to starboard and endeavoring to anchor in a Princess street restaurant, but his cargo was too heavy for him and the police constables ran him into the police station "dry dock."
