ORGY OF DANCING COMES

PUBLIC DANCES ARE BECOMING VERY POPULAR HERE.

The Halls Are Under Police Supervision and Exaggerated Dances Are Not Permitted.

The dancing craze of peace days seems to be returning to Kingston now that the war is a thing of the past. Even before the armistice was signed public dances were becoming more and more frequent but since November 11th the number of them has steadily increased. Everyone seems to have become dance mad and there is scarcely a night that passes without two or three public dances being held.

The City Hall was in great demand during the winter for use as a dance hall, the events being held under the auspices of one of the score of clubs that have sprung into existence since the signing of the armistice.

In addition, two permanent halls under private ownership are catering to the demand of the young people for places wherein they may pass their idle hours and it is announced that an open-air dancing floor will be found in one of the local parks in the near future.

Moreover, country dances are drawing city folks several miles from Kingston nearly every evening, and even staid Wolfe Island has provided facilities for dances. Some dancers motor as far away as Gananoque for a dance.

Nothing like so many dances have been known in the city before and the young people seem to have become dance mad. During the war the functions had to be curbed somewhat but now they have been resumed with full force.

In the city, the dance halls are under police supervision and every effort is made by the managers to keep their tone at a high level. Moon dances are still permitted but sufficient illumination to keep the rooms fairly light must be kept on at all times.

Nearly every orchestra in the city has engagements for weeks and months ahead. Recently the musicians of the city formed a branch of the musicians' union and now only union members are allowed to play together. They have all the work they can handle and are reaping a harvest at city dances and at those which are held in the country.

The days of the turkey trot, the bunny hug and the other fads that prevailed before the war are done and now the fox trot, the one step and the waltz are in their glory. Various new dances such as the shimmy, the lip-trot, the syncopated rag and other exaggerated forms of dancing have not been introduced in public in Kingston and every effort will be made to keep them as it is not considered that they are fit for public exhibition.

In the meantime the dance craze reigns supreme and the orgy of pre-war dancing seems to be recurrent.

BOW TO THE PUBLIC

The Kingston Symphony Orchestra Appears on Thursday

The Kingston Symphony Orchestra will make its first public appearance at the City Hall on Thursday evening, and music lovers are looking forward with much eagerness, for it is the first attempt of the local instrumental musicians to form an organization of this kind during the past twenty years. It is purely a voluntary effort carried out by a number of enthusiasts, who desire to encourage artistic expression and offer opportunities for the development of local musical talent, thus raising the standard of culture in the city and giving it a place in the musical world—a patriotic endeavor deserving of the most generous support of our citizens generally.

There are sixty-one instruments in the orchestra and each performer is giving his and her services voluntarily. O. F. Telgmann was engaged as director and for many weeks the work of training has been going on in preparation for the opening concert. Business men and young ladies have given up much time in practice and from the degree of excellence manifested at the rehearsals a great surprise awaits our citizens.

The members of the orchestra hope to make the institution a permanent one that will attract young people with talent and stimulate in them a desire to excel. The expenses of the undertaking, it is hoped, will be met by the receipts from the sale of tickets and this calls for the generous patronage of the citizens.

A BIG-ENOUGH CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN is always the least expensive way of selling property. This does not mean that large space must be used—it means that you must use enough space in which to describe your offering and to give the vital facts about it. It means, too, sensible persistence—repeated publications of your ad—if this shall be found necessary.
