GUM TENDERNESS - A TOOTH-MENACE

It is true that four out of five people over forty suffer from gum-tenderness, or Pyorrhoea (Riggs' Disease). But many people even under thirty have Pyorrhoea.

Pyorrhoea commences with tender gums, or with gum-bleeding, at tooth-brush time. Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame and then shrink.

And Forhan's cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

Music in the Home

Efficiency in Music. In music, as indeed in all other things, efficiency is only to be acquired by an untiring, never falling study and practise of the elements, both theoretical and technical.

In a musical education there can be no hiatus, no gap. The student must not neglect any one connecting link. He must proceed from one branch to another in regular sequence, or in co-ordination; if he fails to do this, the result will be imperfect.

Avoid Inferior Music. Since there is so much to be accomplished no time should be wasted in the reading of inferior music. To interpret adequately elevated thoughts we must have elevated minds.

Pure Choral Singing. Among serious-minded musicians there is no question that a cappella rendition is the great traditional ideal in church music. A great choir is quite as inspiring as a fine orchestra and to many even a finer instrument.
