The Luck of Geraldine Laird

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

Author of "The Story of Julia Page," "Heart of Rachel," "Josselyn's Wife," "Sisters," etc.

He finished the brief summary with a smile, but the girl looked at him for a full minute with a grave face.

"How can you laugh about it? You might much better have tried to write and starved," Kennedy Bond said under her breath, with a sort of quiet passion. "Well—!" She shrugged, looked him full in the face again, and turned away.

Dean now became aware that her aunt, Mrs. Knowles, was calling her from the other side of the room. "Ken! Come, dear. It's almost six o'clock. Ken!"

"Coming, Tante!" she answered brightly. Dean followed her to the door and saw the Russian-red coat disappear into the fawn-colored depths of the Knowles limousine. Then he turned back into the studio. Geraldine saw at once that Dean was displeased with something, and sighed a deep sigh. He was tired after his long day of course, and perhaps things had not gone well in Albany; now he would be cross all evening. Probably things would go badly at the house, too, to-night, thought Geraldine, and with all that she had to do in getting the three little girls to bed she must soothe and placate the unreasonable Dean.

But she loved him, he was the center of her world always, and so when they started for home she opened the conversation cheerfully.

"Isn't it lovely to have the days getting so long?" she said.

They had a dozen blocks to walk in the Spring dusk; a wind had sprung up, and the air was unexpectedly cold, Dean, stalking at her side, did not answer.

"That was darned awkward, that last thing!" he observed presently, in a mortified tone.

"What, our asking Louis and his mother if we mightn't stay to dinner?" she asked quickly. "Oh, Dean—how sensitive you are! They did—"

TALKING IT OVER

—With Long Noon—

When You Are Ill

"He's a dear old slow coach!" said the fair fat and forty matron, speaking of her husband. "He would never in the world be able to sell a bottle of hair tonic to a man who had the use of his eyes; and in a pinch back suit he would look like the illustration of a funny story. I never, even when we were courting could delude myself into thinking that he was good looking. BUT—when I am sick, he looks like the angel Gabriel, and acts like the good Samaritan."

"That's when you can prove a man!" Almost any way hunted he-doll will measure up to standard while a woman is well, while she can dance WITH him, and dance attendance upon him, everything is rosy. But the day she has a bad headache, and he comes home to find the sink full of dishes, and no supper ready; that is the day his wavy hair either looks like a halo, or a bunch of hay.

"It is the test of how much he cares, when he cheerfully gets a hot water bottle or an ice pack, and tiptoes round getting 'something nice for a poor little sick girl'; and then finds a bit of something for himself in the icebox, making a show of having a great feast on the corner of the kitchen table.

"You never feel that you're in trouble to a man like that. He never needs to be told to put a glass of water by your bed side where you can reach it; and he never fails to change it often so that it is always cool. He is careful not to flash the light in your eyes, and he remembers not to whistle. He THINKS about you, and your comfort. He would bear the pain for you gladly, if he could.

"Oh he isn't handsome, and he isn't over powerfully clever, but I'd rather be the wife of that little bald fat man than be married to the handsome Apollo of the screen."

WEAK MOTHERS REGAIN HEALTH

Through the New Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make Nervous Weakness to Get the Upper Hand of Her.

No mother should allow nervous weakness to get the upper hand of her. If she does worry will mar her work in the home and torment her in body and mind. Day after day spent amid the same surroundings is enough to cause fretfulness and depression. But there are other causes as every mother knows, that tend to make her nerves run down. A change would benefit her faded system, and rest might improve her blood so as to give her a better tone. But rest and change are often impossible and it is then that all worn out women should take a short treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make new blood rich with the elements on which the nerves thrive. In this way these pills restore regular health, increase energy, new ambition and steady nerve. There is a lesson for other women in the case of Mrs. Harry P. Snider, Wilton, Ontario, who says:—"Five years ago my two babies were born, and I was left very weak and very miserable, hardly fit to do anything. The doctor gave me medicine, but it did not help me. Then I tried another doctor, but with no better results. One day I went home to my mother, telling her how miserable I felt, and that the doctor's medicine had not done me any good. Mother asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I was glad to try anything that might help me, I got three boxes when I went back home. By the time these were used there was no doubt they were helping me, and I got three more boxes. But I did not need them all, for by the time the fifth box was used, I was entirely cured, and never felt better in my life. Now when I hear people talk about feeling weak or miserable I always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and tell what they did for me, and in similar cases I shall continue to recommend them."

At the first sign that the blood is out of order take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and note the speedy improvement they make in the appetite, health and spirits. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario.

Skin Blemishes

How to get rid of them

Skin specialists are tracing fewer and fewer troubles to the blood. They say more often, skin blemishes can be traced to the bacteria and parasites that are carried into the pores of the skin with dust, soot and grime. To clear your skin of blemishes caused by this insidious and persistent enemy, use regularly the following special treatment.

Just before retiring, wash in your usual way with warm water and Woodbury's Facial Soap; then dry your face. Now dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy cream-like lather. Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this soap cream and leave it on for ten minutes. Rinse very carefully with clear, hot water; then with cold.

In addition to this special treatment, use Woodbury's regularly in your daily toilet. This will make your skin firm and active. It will help the new skin to resist the frequent cause of blemishes. Before long your complexion will take on a new clearness and freshness.

Get a cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap and begin tonight the treatment your skin needs. You will find Woodbury's on sale at any drug store or toilet goods counter in the United States or Canada. A 25 cent cake will last a month or six weeks.
