GARDNER SAYS EFFORTS FAILED

Minneapolis Man Was Unable To Get Relief From Trouble Until He Took Tanlac

"My efforts to find a medicine or treatment that would overcome my troubles, failed completely until I commenced taking Tanlac," said Earl G. Freedy, a well known gardener who lives at 705 Kenwood Parkway, Minneapolis, while talking to a Tanlac representative the other day.

"I had a bad attack of pneumonia about eighteen months ago," continued Mr. Freedy, "and up to the time I commenced taking Tanlac I had been having a pretty tough time of it ever since. For about three months after getting up from this spell I was not able to do any work at all. I finally improved to the extent that I was able to do a little work and then the 'flu' hit me, and this just about put the finishing touch to me. Well, I managed to pull through this trouble and after being in bed for several weeks I was able to be up again, but my entire system was left in a terrible weak, rundown condition. I didn't have any appetite to speak of and what little I did eat didn't seem to give me any strength or energy to get about very much, and the different medicines I took didn't seem to do me any good at all.

"I had been reading so much about Tanlac, and what it had done for so many other people, so I decided to give it a trial myself. I didn't think it was possible for anybody to improve as fast as I did after I began taking Tanlac. Why, my troubles have been completely overcome, and I am so well and strong now that I not only put in full time at my work every day, but I work in my garden at home until dark every night. I have such a big appetite that three hearty meals a day doesn't satisfy me, and I have to eat a little between meals. In fact, I just feel fine all the time and never enjoyed better general health in my life. I have induced a good many people to take Tanlac, and every one of them have been greatly benefited by it, and I certainly take pleasure in recommending it to anybody who is in a rundown condition from any cause."

Tanlac is sold in Kingston by A. P. Chown, in Plymra by Gilbert Ocker, in Battersea by C. S. Clark, in Ferriehigh by Ervin Martin, in Ardock by M. J. Scullion, in Sharbot Lake by W. Y. Cannon.—Advt.

the belief that fifty is middle age, and eighty old age; we have taught ourselves to look for grey hairs at twenty-five, to expect a slowing down of vigor at forty, to give up dancing at fifty and to begin looking round at sixty for a place to spend our old age.

It all comes of counting birthdays. It all comes of allowing the world to say "when you are forty you must do this, and when you are fifty you must do that."

I have a friend who is nineteen years old in spirit and appearance, and forty in years, she is for ever being pursued by the warning, "remember dear, that you are forty, and the mother of three grown boys." She contrives to forget the years most of the time, and is young, and lovable, and happy, in consequence; but one day she will weaken and listen to this parrot-like senseless phrase, that the world is for ever whispering in the ear of youth, she will listen and believe, and her heart will become heavy with age and youth will bid her a tearful good bye. True, youth will call again and again, to leave her card, she will never unpack her trunk and stay in a heart that has once opened its doors to age.

Week-Old Corns Should Be Unthinkable

These positive facts are now known to millions. The pain of a corn can be instantly stopped, and forever.

The corn itself can be ended completely, and usually in two days.

The method is scientific. It consists of attaching a Blue-jay plaster, forgetting the corn, and letting things take their course.

The results have been proved by experience.

They have been proved to so many people that corns are now compactively uncommon.

Corn aches are needless. Paring corns is folly. Old-time harsh and misty treatments have no place today.

You will know these facts, and quickly, if you'll try a Blue-jay on one corn. Do it tonight; and the whole corn question will settle itself forever.

NOT NOW-DAYS

Into each life some rain must fall.

That's true, but you can't blame a man for wanting to get in out of the wet.

IT'S ALL THE SAME

Mr. Pester: Here's an account of a young couple who were married in an airplane. Risky business, that?

His Wife: It's no more risky to be married in a modern airplane than it is to be married in a church.

Mr. Pester: Who said it was?
