EXTENSIVE SECRET STRIKE MOVEMENT

Is Said to Be Planning in Germany For Effect on September 1st.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Berlin, Aug. 9.—The government announces the discovery of an extensive secret strike movement, which, if successful, will lead to a general railroad strike in central and perhaps all of Germany, on Sept. 1st. The Spartacists and Communist agitators are charged with being the leaders of the movement, which the government is using every means to suppress. The discovery was made just when Germany believed itself quieting down while the rest of the world rioted and struck. The object of the strike leaders is to appropriate power, the first necessity of which is the stopping of transportation to prevent the distribution of food and coal. The movement, which is already widespread, began at Erfurt, where a huge meeting controlled by Communists was held last night, a strike being declared. This action is not understood because the government has not only carried out the promises made at the last railway dispute, but had introduced other reforms.

EXPULSION OF DESERTERS FROM HOLLAND

About Seven Thousand Will Be Compelled to Return Home.

NO REFERENCE IS MADE TO THE KAISER, WHO IS ALSO A DESERTER.

Germany at Present are Swarming Into Holland—Many Undesirables With Bolshevik Propaganda are Entering.

The Hague, Aug. 9.—According to the Vaderland, German deserters, about seven thousand in all, who arrived in Holland during the war, will soon be obliged to leave the country. The paper points out that the reason for this is that Dutch laws provide that foreigners can only be admitted on a foreign passport, but enjoyed the right of asylum during the war, when deportation would have meant death, whereas now an amnesty has been declared in Germany.

The pro-German Vaderland makes no reference to the ex-Kaiser or the ex-Crown Prince, who also arrived in Holland as deserters without passports.

Germany are at present swarming into Holland. Of twenty thousand and demands monthly for permission to enter Holland, seventy-five per cent are Germans. In spite of elaborate red tape, many undesirables manage to reach Holland with Bolshevik propaganda, of which the Netherlands Government lives in fear and trembling.

PRODUCE MORE AND SPEND LESS

Or Great Britain Faces National Ruin, Says Chancellor of Exchequer.

BANKRUPTCY WILL RESULT UNLESS THE BRITISH PEOPLE CHANGE THEIR WAYS

Public Must Be United—Policy of General Nationalization to Get Revenue Not to be Adopted.

London, Aug. 9.—"If we continue spending at the rate we are now, it will lead straight to national bankruptcy," was the strong warning J. Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer gave the House of Commons last night.

"If we cannot increase production," he continued, "we shall go straight to national bankruptcy. Neither increased production nor reduced expenditure alone will be sufficient. We have got to do both if we are to pull through and turn the corner. The balance between expenditure and revenue is definitely and seriously less favorable than when I made my budget statement. Both sides of the account are falling to realize expectations."

The delay in the conclusion of peace involved greater naval and military expenditure, and one or two new blocks of expenditure have been sanctioned.

Mr. Chamberlain cited an additional £20,000,000 for pensions and increased naval pay, and £4,500,000 for the police. On the receipt side, the speaker continued, the decision to continue control of food meant delay in realizing on the vast trading in stocks of the Food Ministry, and therefore £70,000,000 from that source will not reach the Exchequer this year.

To End Subsidies.

The whole Government, Mr. Chamberlain said, saw the seriousness of the situation, and was endeavoring to find a remedy. His policy was to bring subsidies to an end at the soonest possible moment, but the railway subsidy must continue until the railways were in proper working order. It was advisable, also, to continue the bread subsidy for the present, but all subsidies would be abolished eventually.

The only means of dealing with the adverse exchange rate, Mr. Chamberlain continued, was to reduce imports of luxuries and to increase exports. Unless he succeeded in doing these things, he said, everybody, rich and poor, were going to have a bad time.

Fears had been expressed that the government would enter upon a policy of general nationalization with a view to getting revenue, Mr. Chamberlain said, but that was the last thing that would ever enter his mind.

Mr. Chamberlain said he regretted that last week there had been a considerable increase of currency notes.

"There is nothing in the situation beyond our control or our power to deal with," said Mr. Chamberlain. "If the nation will tackle it with the same resolution and public-spirited unity with which it faced the difficulties of the war."

BITTER JEALOUSIES OVER WAR GRANTS

Admirers of Certain High Officers Think They Have Been Slighted.

London, Aug. 9.—The awards for war services have provoked warm discussion, not only by those who think them unwarranted in view of the country's financial condition, but among the admirers of certain high officers whose supporters think they have been slighted.

Admiral Jellicoe, former first sea lord, has a strong following in the navy, who criticize the government for giving a higher title and larger grant to Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty, commander of the grand fleet.

The friends of General Sir William R. Robertson, former chief of the general staff, argue that he had that position longer than Major-General Sir Henry Wilson, who succeeded him, and did important work.

They say they fail to understand why General Wilson has been made field marshal while General Robertson has been passed over.

Vice-Admiral Sir Reginald H. S. Bacon has begun publication of his memoirs, which bid fair to excite as much controversy as did those of Viscount French. He expresses strong resentment against Sir Eric Geddes, who as first lord of the admiralty was blamed for Bacon's "brutal dismissal" from the Dover command, which embraced the direction of operations in the English channel.

Admiral Bacon criticises Sir Eric Geddes for failing to defend him against "false criticisms and attacks." When Admiral Bacon was on the active list he could not reply to these attacks, which, he says, was the sea lord's duty.

ELECTION REFORM CARRIED IN CUBA

Citizens Who Fail to Cast Ballot Lose Their Right to Vote.

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 9.—The Senate passed without amendment the electoral reform bill by a vote of fourteen to two. It now wants only President Menocal's signature to become law.

Following are the more important of the bill's provisions: All political parties must be re-organized; employees of the Federal Government, provinces or municipalities may not be delegates to party assemblies, and party assemblies may not make Presidential nominations except during the year in which elections are to be held; counting of ballots must be done publicly, and must terminate before midnight of election day; electors who fail to cast their ballot, lose the right to vote and must apply for re-registration; each elector is to be given an identification card, which must be presented at the polls; ballot tabulators to be considered as public functionaries and, therefore, may not be pardoned if convicted of election frauds.

The belief that much more immediate good will come out of the simple agitation for lower prices accompanied by the threat of legislative action is beginning to be more pronounced daily. The drop in some prices already observed since the mere announcement was made that the President had decided to take a hand in the situation has not escaped attention here, and while there are many hopeful officials who believe that the government can provide some definite remedies there is also a group which believes that the business of reducing the cost of living is too complicated and involved to be managed by legislative act or executive fiat and that an appeal to the conscience as well as the good business sense of producers and consumers will have a soothing effect on the situation before long.
