Flying Crooks.

Undoubtedly one of the problems which Scotland Yard will have to cope with in the near future will be the pursuit of criminals through the air.

Plans for the organization of a corps of aerial trackers, with a special Scotland Yard airdrome from which detectives could make an immediate start in pursuit of wrongdoers who sought to escape the clutches of the law through the air, are already being carried out.

It may be some time before criminals include private airplanes among their equipment, but it will be a comparatively easy matter for the swell crackman and wealthy murderer to arrange for an escape by air.

Whether he will succeed depends on the aerial organization of Scotland Yard and the alertness of the customs and coastguards. Quick communication between the police and the latter may result in an easy capture.

As a member of the Criminal Investigation Department points out, although the air is wide the flying criminal has got to come down somewhere, and by wireless his description and that of his machine can be flashed over the world in a few minutes.

One method of stoppage and detection will be by sound-detecting instruments along the coast, linked up by telephones with each other, and also with corps of aerial police. The noise of the machine will be detected, and it does not need for inspection, as required by the existing rules, it will be located and reported, and a strict watch will be kept at all points.

Control of flying machines is being so organized that every machine entering Britain, for instance, will have to land for inspection.

The watch will be so strict that the possibility of evading the cordon of guards will be very slight. Other countries, in accordance with the suggestions of the Aerial-Advisory Commission of the British Peace Delegation, are adopting similar plans for the control of air traffic.

The chances of the flying criminal escaping justice, therefore, are not of the rosiest.

Sailors' Nerves Affected.

Some interesting stories of the way in which life at sea during wartime affected the nervous systems of a number of our sailors are told by Surgeon-Lieutenant Alan F. Grimbley.

Dr. Grimbley witnessed in two or three of his patients "a very remarkable state, which I can best describe as the 'fear of going ashore.'"

This may seem paradoxical, he adds, but this condition of mind has a real existence. It lies in the dread of traversing a space of sea in a small boat.

"I have known a man to stay on board for six months rather than face a journey of a few minutes' duration in a picket boat."

One A.B., who was near a high explosive shell when it burst, could not get ashore for six months before the action.

When, under war conditions, men are situated for a prolonged period far away from civilization, confined to a ship for months at a time without seeing a human face apart from the too familiar ones on board, can it be wondered that nervous systems may be affected?

"I have known of one ship on a foreign station on which seven occupants of the wardroom never spoke to one another for six months except for purposes of conversation or rebuke."—The-Bits.

Pigeons of London.

The pigeons of London are one of the sights to which the attention of visitors is always drawn. St. Paul's churchyard is a great place of gathering, and here the birds flock down for the more lavish mid-day meal.

For their benefit, now that rationing is less rigorously controlled, an exchange. They feed out of the hands of their benefactors, perch on their shoulders, and flap and glitter in the sunshine as they fly up and down. Pigeons seem to belong to certain places. Admiralty arch is another favorite resort, but all over the city the birds have small colonies, and crowds of faithful friends.

In Venice and in Florence the pigeons are as much a part of the picture as the greatest buildings, a finishing touch as it were, with which nobody can dispense.

No Doubt About It. Business Man: "Who is at the phone?" Typist: "Your wife, sir." Business Man: "What does she want?" Typist: "The only word I can make out is 'idiot,' sir." Business Man: "I'll come at once. She probably wants to talk to me."

Montreal had a race riot early on Tuesday morning, when, following an attack upon a watchman by three negro burglars at the Queen's hotel, a large crowd of whites and blacks, from an adjacent negro quarter engaged in a pitched battle in the street, in which revolver shots were freely fired. Thomas White, negro, was shot in the forehead in an early stage, while Patrick Congrave, watchman, suffered a fractured jaw.

ARE TO PLAY MORE GAMES

BUFFALO PROSPECTS TO MEET PONIES AND ATHLETICS.

Mrs. R. N. F. Macfarlane and Miss Kathleen Carruthers Were Winners in Golf—Bowlers Have Gone to Belleville.

The board of management of the City Baseball League have completed arrangements with the Buffalo Prospects to play two more games in the city with the Ponies and Athletics.

Mayor Wilson of Gananoque and some interested parties had a conference with the team management on Monday evening, and they consented to remain in this district until after Labor Day.

Accordingly, they will meet the Athletics at the Cricket Field next Thursday evening at 5.45 o'clock. This should be the most attractive features of the season, as Athletics won out last time by 3 to 2, and will make every effort to maintain their reputation.

On Wednesday, August 27th, the Prospects will appear in Gananoque, and will meet the Ponies, whom they defeated on Saturday by 4 to 3, on August 30th.

Many fans are asking why exhibition games are being played on Saturdays instead of the regular scheduled features. It is not generally known that the Sox have dropped out of the league, and therefore the management is endeavoring to bring the best outside teams to meet the locals.

Ladies Played Golf.

On Monday at the Cataract Golf and Country Club course two handicap matches were played. In the finals of Class A, Mrs. Stevenson was defeated by Miss Kathleen Carruthers, and in the finals of Class B, Mrs. Hansard was defeated by Mrs. R. N. F. Macfarlane.

Cartwright, E. Green, A. E. Treadgold, J. Newell, W. N. Linton, O. O. Boyd, W. Jackson, G. Lawes, Mrs. Stevenson, G. H. S. Graham, Macfarlane, J. A. Newman, J. F. McMillan and G. Lemmon.

No games were played at the local green on Monday evening owing to the dampness of the ground.

WEDDED IN ST. LUKE'S.

The Reid-McCammon Nuptials on Tuesday Evening.

In St. Luke's church on Tuesday morning, Anna Matilda, eldest daughter of James McCammon, 64 Nelson street, became the wife of Charles Henry Reid, district agent of the Alberta Land Company, and formerly a merchant of North Augusta, Leeds county. The church was prettily decorated. The bride was a member of the Altar Guild and the choir and her friends had the altar beautifully decorated. The church was crowded.

The bride entered on the arm of her father and wore a pretty white satin gown with tulle of georgette crepe. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and ferns. Rev. J. DePencier Wright officiated. The choir was present and Miss Tomlin sang "O Perfect Love," and at the conclusion of the service, Mrs. H. Horton sang "Because."

Lunch was served at the home of the bride after the ceremony. Rev. Mr. Wright acted as toastmaster. Mr. and Mrs. Reid will spend their honeymoon on a motor trip in New York State and upon their return will reside on Nelson street.

ACCEPTED CHIHUAHUA NOTE.

Kingstonian Nearly Lost Money by Accepting Mexican Bill.

On Tuesday morning J. Smith, employed in the yards behind the former Windsor hotel, complained to the police that he had taken a ten pesos Chihuahua note from a stranger for a ten dollar bill when the bank had refused to cash it. As it was worth less than five dollars he would have been out some money had not the stranger's wife come to the rescue and pledged that she would give him the full amount. The man who tendered the note has gone to Winnipeg.
