

A GOOD MAN WHO WAS A "GOOD FELLOW."

The International Sunday School Lesson For August 31st is a Temperance Lesson.—Daniel 1:8-20.

By William T. Ellis.

"If the good were only clever, and the clever were only good, the world would be better than ever. We thought it possibly could." "But, oh! it is seldom or never that things happen just as they should:—the good are so harsh to the clever, the clever so rude to the good."

saints actually are! Line them up alongside of the radiant, peaceful, happy disciples, the Daniels, who have found religion good for both their bodies and their souls, and their relative feebleness and unimportance will be discovered.

"Captain of His Soul." This story is one of the familiar bits of the literature of Christendom. Daniel and his three companions were educated and noble Hebrew youths, prisoners in personal attendance upon King Nebuchadnezzar. As part of the royal entourage they were expected to look well and happy. That end they were permitted to eat the dainties of the king's table and to drink of his wine. That food had doubtless been offered to idols and so could not be eaten by a godly Jew. However, these young Hebrews were truly wise, and they knew the secret of the training-table—simple food for physical fitness.

The French reached the Somme

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA. Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

Steady Men and Drifters. It used to be the fashion to cite the four Hebrew young men in Babylon as examples of the benefits of total abstinence—although they really followed the universal wine-drinking custom of their day. Their abstinence was merely from the rich and idolatry-tainted provender of the king's table. Daniel was far more than a doer-without; he was a doer.

Meeting the King's Test. A wise aphorism has it that "Every man is responsible for his face as fifty." Character is best and most completely written in the countenance. And whether we plan it or not, all of us, consciously or unconsciously, must come to the Daniel test of being judged by some king—the modern king being public opinion. Well is it for us when we come up to that judgment if our clean living, self-control and spiritual development win favor for our faith and for ourselves.

Out of the training table of simplicity in the sumptuous palace of Babylon (48 was little more than a heap of mud bricks when I saw it) there emerge three principles that are universally applicable: 1. It is best worth while to be one's own best self, regardless of current fashions. 2. Abstemiousness is better for body and spirit than is indulgence. 3. In life's testing times, the trained souls are found fit, and called to the places of power.
