Theatrical

At the Grand.
The excellent performance at the Grand Opera House last evening, was thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd. Madge Kennedy, the beautiful Goldwyn star, was seen in a five-reel feature, "The Kingdom of Youth," a story of love and intrigue that is a very entertaining picture. Priscilla Dean, the charming artiste, appeared in a six-reel feature, "A Silk-Lined Burglar," a play full of thrills and adventures. A Charlie Chaplin comedy, "The Squared Head," was also shown. Chic Dorey, in a vaudeville act of singing and talking won hearty approval. This bill will be repeated to-night for the last time. For Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, Peggy Hyland will appear in a feature film, "Caught in the Act." Another feature with comedies and other reels will be presented along with an act of superior vaudeville.—Advt.

"Seven Days' Leave."
No melodrama of recent years has met with the success that has been accorded Walter Howard's "Seven Days' Leave," to be seen in this city at the Grand on Labor Day, matinee and night. This melo-drama was first produced at Sir Henry Irving's Lyceum Theatre, London, nearly three years ago, and there it was practically a capacity business. Nor was its success when produced at the Park Theatre, New York, much less pronounced. It still retains all the elements which made it so successful in Great Britain. It played for twenty weeks in New York and only closed to give the players a much-needed rest at the approach of hot weather. The story concerns a young major in the British army, and the scene showing a British cruiser destroying an enemy submarine; also the appearance of soldiers at the dedication of a shrine in an English churchyard, and their departure for France. "Seven Days' Leave" proved a happy one for New York audiences, and raised them to the highest pitch of public approval throughout the entire engagement. The third act is replete with excitement for not only is the cruiser seen, but a subsequent spectacle shows its actual destruction by gunfire, and a race to a buoy in the English Channel by the English heroine and the female German spy, both clothed in the least possible raiment.—Advt.

Blackstone, World's Master Magician
The management of the Grand announces the attraction for three nights, commencing Sept. 4th, "The Great Blackstone," world's master magician, illusionist and entertainer now before the public. He will present a lot of new wonders that are bound to keep the audience gasping in amazement. His climax is where a woman is suspended in mid-air, inviting his audience to come upon the stage to see that there are no wires. Blackstone suddenly fires a revolver and the whole exhibit vanishes in a breath, apparently dissolving in air.
The company carries the largest equipment of illusions and magical effects on tour ever offered patrons of this theatre, and during his engagements here is expected to create a sensation with the many marvellous illusions and feats offered by his lengthy programme.
There will be a special vaudeville number by Miss Inez Noursa, known as "the little banjophoniend."—Advt.

At The Strand.
The complete destruction of a metropolitan cabaret is one of the melodrama scenes in "Mary Regan," the First National feature, starring Anita Stewart, which will be seen at the Strand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
The "lobster palace" is wrecked in a tremendous fight which takes place between a set of blackmailers who are working out one of their plots in a private room, and an intrepid group of private detectives who have been put on their trail.
Mary-Regan, leading character in the photoplay, has been brought to the hotel by Loveman, a crooked attorney, who is the leader of a bold set of black-mallers. Loveman wishes to prove to Mary that the weak son of a wealthy man whom she has married is not true to her.

Selecting a table near the entrance to the private room, Loveman pulls back the curtain, and shows Mary her husband, his head upon the shoulder of the actress, in a state of intoxication. Mary goes into the room to make sure. Therewith she gives an ultimatum to the blackmailers who are trying to force her to pay money for their silence on the fact that she is the daughter of a notorious convict.
She is seized, bound and held. At that moment, the raid, long planned by Clifford, a detective in love with Mary, is staged.

The stalwart detectives commanded by Clifford rush in, and there follows a scene of rending and destruction without equal in a photoplay. From all doors rush the panic-stricken guests and upon their heels come the blackmailing crew, firing at the detectives, falling over tables, and knocking down statuary, rich hangings and chairs in their mad flight.

After the building is as completely wrecked as if it had been a battle field the scene reverts to Mary and her husband. She makes a startling discovery. See it.—Advt.

At Griffin's.
To-night will be the last opportunity to see Cecil B. DeMille's splendid photoplay production, "For Better, For Worse," which has been attracting such large audiences to Griffin's during the last two days. This picture is unique in many ways, as all the DeMille special productions are. One of the most unique things about it is that it has no villain. It deals with the most vital of modern problems raised by the war, which are now engaging public attention. Gloria Swanson, who has appeared in many of the DeMille pictures, is the heroine. Miss Swanson is as noted for her beauty as for her acting ability. Elliot Dexter plays the leading character opposite Miss Swanson, and has a splendid role, while other actors of note complete the cast and help to make this production the great one it is. Don't overlook seeing "For Better, For Worse" to-night.—Advt.

LATENESS OF RESULTS CAUSES SUSPENSE

The Matriculation Paper Was Marked Over Two Weeks Ago.

There is very considerable dissatisfaction in the city over the delays in the announcement of the matriculation examination results by the Department of Education at Toronto. The papers were corrected two or more weeks ago and still no announcement of the results has been made. Never has it been so long between the examinations and the results, and for the past three weeks the candidates have been very anxious to hear how they did. Every day the newspapers are scanned and considerable disappointment has been occasioned through the delay.

Moreover, if the examination results are announced even within the next few days it will mean that there will be very little time for the candidates who have failed in one or more subjects to prepare for the supplemental examinations which are scheduled to commence very shortly.

The Department of Education owes an explanation and apology to hundreds of high school and collegiate pupils throughout the province who appear to have been needlessly kept in suspense during the past few weeks.

KINGSTON FAVORS PROHIBITION

Opinion of Forces Which Have Canceled the City.
The different ward organizations which are working in the interests of prohibition in the connection with the forthcoming referendum met in the Y.M.C.A. parlors on Friday evening. It was stated that everything looked favorable for a majority vote for prohibition and especially do the women seem to be in favor of it as they are practically unanimous in their opinion. Many names were found to be missing from the enumerators' lists owing to the fact that many citizens were away on holidays when called upon and the captains on the various committees will check up the names and present appeals before next Tuesday.
