SOLD STOCK IN CHICAGO

LATEST DEVELOPMENT IN THOUSAND ISLAND PARK AFFAIRS.

Mystery in Man's Visit—Control of Park Association May Now Be Transferred Any Day—Much Interest Manifest.

Watertown, N. Y., Times. Mrs. Charles Collier, to whom her husband recently made an assignment of his option on sixty per cent. of the stock of the Thousand Island Park Association held by Mr. Shepard, of Syracuse, president of the association, has through her attorney completed a deal for the transfer of the option after Sept. 3rd to a Chicago brokerage house. This is the latest development in the affairs of the Park which on account of the uncertainty of the future control of the association, which has been brought about by the stock being placed on the market, have of late been the subject of much discussion by all interested in this prominent St. Lawrence river summer resort.

The transfer of the stock to the Chicago firm in the eyes of those who are well versed in the conditions at the Park at the present time, means a still greater possibility that some interested other than members of the summer colony may step in and assume control of the resort. Mr. Collier, it is understood, wanted to buy the stock himself, but was prevented by coming so early apparently been willing to pay that much. There are no strings on the sale of the stock. Whoever is willing to produce the cash will be able to secure the sixty per cent. which will mean the control of the policy of the Park.

An incident which took place a few days ago, but which is known to only a few who are associated with the affairs of the Park, and which carries with it somewhat of a mystery, was an inquiry by a man who called upon one of the persons who is actively identified with the business of the Park Association. This person asked carefully about the conditions at the Park, wanting to know about the disposition of the sixty per cent. of the stock which is on the market at the present time, but would not give his name. He was a prosperous looking man who had the appearance of one who meant business.

While most of the substantial citizens at the Park no longer fear the Mormon invasion, nobody knows whether or not the sect from Utah is trying to get a hold on the resort. One of the letters written to Mr. Collier by a prominent Mormon expressed the desire of that church to be ready to grasp the opportunity to spread their teachings in the east, though that letter did not mention the Park. Mr. Collier is believed to be a man who wants to see the Park administration continue in the same policy that has been in force for years. It is not known how the Mormons happened to get in touch with him after he had secured the option of the stock from Mr. Shepard.

The control of the Park Association may be transferred any day now and cottage owners there are watching developments with intense interest.

Theatrical

To-night the Great Blackstone.

The great Blackstone, the only magician who rivals Kellar, Houdini and Houdini, will appear at the Grand for three nights, commencing to-night. He is different from any other magician that ever visited Kingston, eliminating all reference to himself he gets right down to business, conducting the audience through an exhibition of his magical hand, mystic, supernatural science, mental telepathy and aerial disappearance that is not and can not be duplicated by any other living performer. His feature of human creation where no human seemingly exist, of making bodies disappear right under the eyes of spectators, are marvellous in the extreme.—Advt.

John Ferguson Coming.

The world contains many men and women who "would if they dared" do brave deeds, were it not for that "second thought" that reminds one so uncomfortably of consequences. It is such a character that is portrayed as never before, in the role of the subject little grocer who figures so prominently in "John Ferguson" the great play by St. John G. Ervine that, comes to the Grand Opera House on Tuesday, Sept. 9th one night only.—Advt.

At Griffin's.

"The Three Musketeers"—otherwise Bert, Alf and Old Bill—are reincarnated in a film version of "The Better Ole," which will be the big picture in many movie houses for months to come. And if the cinema lacks, as always, the dialogue that the stage can give us, there is ample compensation in the setting, for we have veritable war episodes, including the passing of the new army through London streets glowing from the rain, a glimpse of English fields and homes in France. But the Old Bill and his kind, that devastating light have happened over here, is the message of the story.

That Capt. Bainsfather's play, so successfully produced in London and New York, offered really magnificent opportunities to the film producer, had long been obvious, for there are many incidents which though they cannot appear on the stage, yet come within the scope of the film, and fill up the interstices of the story to the greater satisfaction of the onlooker. From the very start when a picture of the Three Musketeers of the olden time, in the picturesque panoply of their period, dissolved into the three soldiers of to-day—"Old Bill,"

"Bert" and "Alf" in the trenches, the missing details of the play are filled in with a constructive skill which adds enormously to the true understanding of the story. The introduction of the "poet soldier" as a sort of explanatory "chorus" is one of the happiest touches and few could not feel their heart strings tighter at the section of the film which showed how the whisper of war descended upon all British homes, from the lowliest to the highest in the land. The familiar incidents of the play are amplified and emphasized. "The Better Ole" will be shown at the Griffin Theatre, to-night, Friday and Saturday.—Advt.

At the Strand.

Harold Lockwood in "A Man of Honor," which comes to the Strand Theatre to-day has a role particularly well adapted to his dynamic, winning personality, and does the best work of his brilliant career. The story is a screen version of Henry Kitchell Webster's popular novel. It is not a military theme, but a stirring drama of love and finance. The story revolves around a young newspaper reporter, David Smith, who is in charge of an enterprise of developing the resources of a semi-tropical island for a group of promoters. Success attends Smith's efforts, but the promoters wish to keep this fact from the small stockholders, and by means of false reports to freeze out all the small investors for their own profit. Smith refuses to become a party to such a fraud, however, and announces to Beaumont, the head of the promotion company, that he will threaten to protect the small stockholder. He goes through with his promise and not only beats Beaumont at his game of high finance but carries off his daughter, Christabel.—Advt.

HAD EXCITING GAME.

Orioles Defeated the Lake Views by a Score of 7 to 5.

An exciting game of baseball, brimful of thrills for the fans, was played on the Union street Commons, on Labor Day, when the Orioles defeated the Lake Views by a score of 7 to 5, in a fixture that went twelve innings, and had the fans on tip toes with interest all through the piece. Fans who witnessed the game, state that it was one of the best games ever put on in Kingston. "Nipper" Mathewson, one of Kingston's best ball tossers, was on the slab for the Orioles, and he played a brilliant game, showing some of his old time "pep." He worked hard. When the score stood 5 to 5 the left hander struck out the next three men. The Orioles then won in the twelfth inning, and won the game. This was the second game Mathewson played in that day and he had sixteen strike-outs to his credit.
