21ST BATTALION CLUB

HAD A FINE PICNIC WITH IDEAL WEATHER.

It Was for the Returned Soldiers in the Local Military Hospitals—There Were Some Good Races. Though late in season, ideal weather favored the picnic given by the 21st Battalion Club on Friday afternoon to the returned soldiers in the local military hospitals. The steam Wolfe Islander was chartered for the trip to Brophy's Point and return, the party arriving back in the city shortly after eight o'clock.

The George T. Richardson chapter of the Daughters of the Empire co-operated with the Battalion Club and served an abundance of tasteful refreshments. Mrs. James T. Sutherland, regent, and the ladies were tendered the hearty thanks of all present. Two hundred were in the party, among them a number of nursing sisters. L. T. Best, who has always taken an active part in the Battalion Club, and an honorary member of it, was in charge of the races, the winners of which were:

Nursing Sisters' race—N.S. I. Brady, N.S. G. F. Reid.
Thread the needle race—Pte. J. S. Whithead, Pte. C. A. Newell.
Cracker race—Pte. J. A. Rorke, Pte. J. Clarke.

Splendid prizes were presented to the winners, and the Club was congratulated upon the success of the event.

SATURDAY'S MARKET.

Some Prices Showed Tendency to Drop.

In spite of the threatening weather, the farmers' market was crowded on Saturday morning, and a brisk business was done in all lines of produce. Prices were quite favorable to extensive buying, and in some cases showed a tendency to drop. Butter and eggs, however, showed no change, the former selling at 60 cents a pound and the latter at the same price a dozen. Fowls were rather scarce and held at $1.25 to $2 each. In the meat market supplies were short, veal selling at 17 cents a pound for forequarters, and 25 cents for hindquarters, and lamb at 25 and 30 cents a pound for fronts and hinds respectively.

The biggest amount of business was done in the vegetable market, where supplies were large and prices moderate. This was tomato dice for the market was flooded with them, the price asked ranging from $1.50 to $2.50 a bushel. Cucumbers were also plentiful and sold at 75 cents to $1 a peck. Corn was at its lowest this season, and sold all over the market at 20 cents a dozen. Carrots and beets sold at three bunches for a quarter, and lettuce at five cents a bunch.

The scarcity of onions was shown by the price of $1 a peck for the best quality. Peppers sold at ten cents for six, celery at 15 to 25 cents a head, and cabbage and cauliflower at 10 to 25 cents each. Pumpkins, marrow and squash sold at 15 to 25 cents each, and beans at 10 cents a quart. Potatoes were not plentiful and the price ranged from $2 to $2.50 a bushel. One farmer had a good supply of puff-balls, which he sold at 15 to 25 cents each.

Apples were plentiful, the price ranging from 30 to 60 cents a peck, with the majority selling at 40 cents. Pears were $1.25 a peck. There was also a good supply of watermelons and cantaloupes, which sold at prices ranging from 10 to 40 cents each. Crab-apples sold at 50 cents a peck. A few farmers had supplies of grapes, but they were small and of poor quality, and sold at 25 cents a basket.

A large number of large chickens, pullets and ducks were on sale, the chickens being $1.25 a pair, pullets $1.50 a pair and the ducks $1 each, while bigger hens sold as high as $1.50 each.

NEW SYDENHAM HOSPITAL

FOR SICK SOLDIERS IS READY FOR OCCUPATION.

"Ongwanada" Converted Into a Nurses Home—The New Hospital Represents Latest In Hospital Designs.

Sydenham Military hospital is practically finished and will be occupied next week. This announcement was made by Lt. Col. R. J. Gardner, A.D.M.S., M.D. No. 2, on Friday.

When the casualties began to arrive from overseas there was no hospital accommodation for them in the city and Queen's University was hastily converted to the use of patients. The new Arts building and Grant Hall were used as dormitories and one of the science buildings was appropriated for a vocational school. A splendid hospital was in this way provided, but it was evident to all that it could only be a temporary arrangement. Private buildings located in different parts of the city, were also used, each requiring an establishment of its own. There was the Richardson house on Stuart street, Elmhurst and Ongwanada on King street, and the Queen street hospital. Long ago it became evident that the Government would have to make adequate provision for the invalid soldiers, and the Ongwanada property, with the vacant malt house site adjoining, comprising in all about twenty-five acres was purchased. The property is situated on the lake front, an ideal spot for hospital purposes.

The Ongwanada building has been converted into a nurses' home with accommodation for thirty-five nurses and a group of buildings have been erected to accommodate over four hundred patients. The hospital is named after Lord Sydenham, a former Governor General of Canada who resided on the adjoining property, "Alwington," and who died as the result of a fall from his horse at a spot near the present hospital.

The chief building in the group is Pavilion "A." It is a two storey stone building containing four large dormitory buildings of small rooms all well lighted and opening on to a closed balcony overlooking the lake. There is a surgical wing containing an up-to-date operating theatre with white enamelled walls and ceiling and tiled floor. This building is equipped for hydrostatic treatment. It accommodates 250 patients. The isolation building accommodates 150 patients and is intended only for contagious diseases. The gymnasium building contains the officers' quarters and central heating plant which consists of three large steam boilers that provide heat for all of the buildings. This building was formerly the malt house. There is a vocational training building and another for living quarters for officers of the establishment.

The hospital represents the last word in hospital design, and owing to the peculiar nature of the cases arising out of the war the treatment reaches far beyond what is possible in ordinary civic public hospitals. Here the patient not only receives direct surgical treatment for a disabled limb but also is induced to restore it to usefulness, and from vocational therapy he goes to the gymnasium to restore muscles that have been torn by shrapnel and bayonets. Such cases require the greatest perseverance. Often several operations are required before an arm, a leg or a hand can be restored to use.

The buildings were erected by W. H. Harvey, contractor, and J. C. Newlands was the superintendent of construction.

The hospital will have its own sewage disposal plant. This is being laid out by the Department of Public Works, Ottawa. By means of the system adopted nothing is permitted to enter the lake that is not absolutely sterile. The filtration beds are located away from the buildings at the western side of the property.

The ground about the buildings is now being graded and suitable walks are being laid out. A wharf 120 feet long is yet to be built for vessels to unload the coal required for heating.

Most of the patients who will be brought to the new hospital next week are at present being cared for at the Barrfield barracks, although there are still a few of the most serious ones at Queen's. Lt.-Col. Gardner and the physicians associated with him are very proud of the new hospital. Although the exterior does not express architectural ideals, the interior of the buildings is perfect and the grounds leave nothing to be desired.
