The Terrible Topper.
The case against the topper hat was summed up many years ago by Mark Lemon, the first editor of Punch. "It is hot in summer," he said; "it is not warm in winter; it does not shade from the sun; it does not shelter from the rain; it is ugly and expensive; you cannot wear it in a railway carriage; it is always in your way in a drawing room; it will not save your skull in a fall; it will not go into a portmanteau; it is too hard to roll up, too soft to sit upon; it runs with the sea air; it spots with the rain; if it is good, you are sure to have it taken by mistake at a soiree; if it is bad, you are set down as a swindler."
Referendum.
The referendum has been defined as "the referring of legislation to the people for final rejection or acceptance," and the initiative as "the giving to the people the right of proposing legislation to be acted upon."
