PREPARING FOR THE VOTE

ON THE LIQUOR REFERENDUM
ON OCTOBER 27TH

Rev. Dr. Wilson Warns the Prohibition People That They Needed To Be Up and Doing.

The Kingston referendum committee held a great rally at the Y.M.C.A. building on Thursday night. Dr. C. C. Nash, the vice-president, occupied the chair. There were about fifty persons present, fully half of whom were women. Dr. Nash outlined the situation and gave a brief resume of the work performed since the committee was organized. The very need for volunteer workers in every ward and subdivision was strongly emphasized and the suggestion made that the superintendents of the city Sunday schools should use boys and girls to distribute literature throughout the city.

W. J. Crothers, treasurer, spoke on the financial situation. He said that Toronto had asked Kingston for $2,500 in order to raise a fund of from $5,000 to $50,000 for the campaign. In addition, Kingston would need $2,500 for the work right here. He announced that the finance committee would solicit subscriptions, and asked for generous support. Up to the present time nothing had been done. John Chalmers, president of the publicity committee, efforts were being made to use the theatres, and halls would be secured to hold mass meetings.

A rousing campaign address was then given by Dr. R. J. Wilson, pastor of Chalmers' Presbyterian church. He said: "The minister of Chalmers' church is sound on the question." After listening to the reports presented, he declared that the committee had accomplished nothing up to the present time in the matter of finance while it was safe to assume that the opponents of the prohibition scheme had $1,000,000. "We are asleep and are going to wake up on Oct. 20th to find twenty years hard work ahead of us." I agree with the Glens that if we get a majority now, the last fight against booze has been fought. "There are many people who thought it would be all right to retain the license system without the bar, but don't you make that mistake, for if the referendum failed, licenses would be called for within thirty days."

The speaker then took up the Liberty League and asked the members of the various bodies whether, in industrial matters, they were anxious for a square deal. I don't believe they are, he said. In his opinion licensed beer was a mere camouflage, for real intoxicating liquor and unless the business were placed in the hands of an entirely different set of men from those who formerly conducted it, drunkenness was bound to result. "We either want to stop the sale of liquor, or we don't." That's the question before us, and every man and woman must answer it. There was going to be no compromise from what he had been able to learn. Referring to the hotels in Kingston, Dr. Wilson said they were the worst between Montreal and Detroit, but they were no worse than when booze was sold. He warned his hearers against any idea that the victory was won, and counselled greater zeal in organization. The people don't know what this campaign means and there is a very great disappointment in store for the temperance people. He explained the ballot and expressed the conviction that if the O.T.A. were repealed the bar-room would come back. It was clear to him that question No. 4 meant the return of the sale of liquor, and he said that he intended to vote "No" four times because this was the only way to obtain the desired results. If you can get the facts before the people you can trust them. As showing the need for workers he stated that there were fifty polling subdivisions, and there should be enough men willing to give one day for such a cause. Dr. Wilson received much applause when he took his seat.

Leaflets containing a campaign song were distributed and Rev. W. T. G. Brown objected to a line in the second verse reading "You still can get your beer." The explanation given was that the beer referred to was two per cent beer, but why the poet offered the concession at all was a mystery. The song was sung to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia."

Thomas Mills explained the law governing the marking of the ballot. John Greenless, campaign secretary, told of the work on the voters' lists. He said he needed four men and four women for each pole. In all 375 persons. Besides, about 100 automobiles were required to convey the voters to the polling booths.

Will Remove Train.
Brockville Recorder and Times.
It is understood that the fall schedule of the Grand Trunk Railway, which goes into effect on September 28th, provides for the elimination of trains No. 31 and 32, known as "The Two Spot," which have been operating daily except Sunday between here and Belleville since May 1. This train was replaced in service last summer at representations made by different municipalities between Brockville and Belleville, on the understanding that if it did not operate to a profit it would be discontinued. It is claimed that revenue arising from the operation of the train has not proved sufficient to meet expenses and the result is that cancellation of the train is to be made.
