

From the Lights of the Ages Do the Lamp Makers of Today Gather Their Inspiration

The makers of the lights that brighten our way through life, like the makers of the clothes that brighten it in a different manner, draw their inspiration from all the ages of the past; and in addition to that, they delve into the future, if the use of futuristic designs and coloration may be taken as an indication.

Never before have we given so much attention to the way our houses should be lighted. And that is because never before have there been so many possibilities in the way of lighting them. When only candles were used, then, of course, there was no need of lamps. To be sure, there was never a method of lighting as charming as that produced by candles. Never, moreover, were fewer attractions in the way of lights produced as when candlesticks were taken as much-for granted-as electric fixtures are to-day. For a burning candle can be nothing else than beautiful, and most candlesticks were lovely in line and quality. Brass, copper, silver, glass and china were all used to their best advantage in holders for candles.

But in spite of the almost always successful effect of candlelight, whether it was shed from a pended glass fixture in the center of the ceiling or a saloon at Versailles, or whether it was shed from a little brass holder hung up against the wall of a New Bedford fisherman's cottage, still there are more opportunities for the worker in crafts to attain interesting results in creating lighting fixtures today than a hundred or two hundred or three hundred years ago. For today he has just so much more to draw on in the way of inspiration, and just so much more to work with in the way of implements and resources.

The candle type of light will always be beloved of some women. Moreover, there will always be some women who will insist, no matter whether in the future we have candles or sunlight to turn on at night, will always insist on having real candles about the house. Candles, because of their flames, are dangerous, but yet where a candle-like lamp is most effective.

In one of the big new hotels some of the bedrooms are charmingly furnished with dark American walnut. There is a big, low-chest of drawers like the base of a low dresser or of carved wood or of brass or copper, are decidedly effective, and many women rely on them for a distinctive bulb in place of the sputtering wick, are not, from many points of view, half so effective as the real ones. But still they do serve a good purpose sometimes. For instance, one of these candlesticks on each end of a fixture, standing perhaps eighteen inches high. These fixtures are shaded with soft shades, either of rose or of old gold, and they flank the mirror at just the right place to give good light on the face of the person standing before it. These are a modern adaptation of the candlestick idea, perhaps the best one for electric fixtures.

For although there is the straight shaft of the candlestick, still there is no attempt to make the electric light bulb look like the little flame at the end of a candle. The effect is decidedly good.

One of the most effective types of lamps nowadays is that inspired by the Japanese influence in modern furnishings. It is a modified Japanese paper or silk lantern, equipped for use with electricity. Some of these are on tall standards, in the form of floor lamps; some of them are smaller, for a table. The standards are usually made of wood, enameled black, and decorated with color, in a plum blossom or dragon design. It is also possible to make very effective lamps of Japanese or Chinese vases, with a shade to match, either of painted parchment or of figured silk. The vases may be weighted and fitted out with electric fixtures at a not very great expense.

A man suffers for years with Rheumatism. After trying numerous treatments without success, he takes Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules, and is restored to perfect health again.

A year or so later Rheumatic symptoms appear again. What does he immediately conclude? That it is his old trouble returned; that the medicine he took had only a temporary effect; that he will never again be well. This impression is the one we wish to eradicate—because it is entirely false.

Whenever Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules are given a fair trial they remedy Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbarago, Neuralgia, or any of their kindred diseases.

T.R.C.'s won't make you immune from the above diseases. They will remedy them and drive them from your system, but whenever you feel an attack coming on, start using T.R.C.'s again.

Ask your Druggist or write us for our new booklet; it is interesting and costs nothing. Write to T.R.C. a specimen of your receipt of $1.00.

How To Kill Dandruff So It Won't Return.

By a Specialist

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well-known fact. We appreciate, therefore, the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. For this reason it is a pleasure to give herewith the prescription which a famous scalp specialist states he has found after repeated tests, will completely destroy the dandruff germs in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of partial baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you—6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color.

DON'T BE A SLAVE TO YOUR NERVES

Good Advice to Nervous People

People who are excessively nervous, tired out and all run down, who get the lumps and fidgets, who can't concentrate their minds on work, have fits of blues, trembling, nervous headaches and dyspepsia and that "don't give a hang" feeling so common to nervous folks, may take as it a certain fact that their trouble is due to impoverished or devitalized nerve force. Their nerve cells are starving and when they give out entirely, complete nervous prostration or breakdown is the result.

A splendid treatment for weak nerves is found in the famous Ferro-Pepite, composed of six of the best nerve vitalizing elements known to modern chemistry. These tablets go straight to the nerve cells and begin immediate action. Take a Ferro-Pepite tablet, wait ten minutes and watch yourself perk up. They feed your famished nerve cells, start healthy blood circulation and normal digestion. Then you brighten up, put on a smile, get some of the old-time "pep" back in your system and feel as happy as a clam at high tide. Ferro-Pepite is absolutely harmless, contains no dangerous habit-forming drugs, is easy to take, inexpensive and all leading druggists sell it on a positive guarantee of successful results or money back.

PLAY FAIR.
DON'T JUMP TO CONCLUSIONS.

What is the difference between remedy and cure? Any disease which is liable to recur cannot be indefinitely "cured." You may dispel the germs from the system—but that is simply rendering.
