QUEEN'S HAS RE-OPENED

AND THERE WILL BE A LARGE REGISTRATION.

Grant Hall and the Arts Building Again In Use—Some of the Old Professors Have Retired.
The fall session of Queen's University opened Wednesday morning and once again the city is thronged with students. A large number of them wear the badge of service overseas and new their year. The prospects for this session are very good. There is far more accommodation this year than for the last two or three sessions. Grant Hall and the arts building were given by the university authorities as a hospital and it did splendid service as such in the housing of those who returned from "over there" sick and wounded. The doctors of the hospital were nearly all Queen's men.

Queen's University upheld its high name throughout the war and at its close provided special summer courses to enable students from overseas to pick up a little in what they had missed. Many took advantage of this chance and now are in a good way to make their year. The prospects for this session are very good. There is far more accommodation this year than for the last two or three sessions. There are a number of new professors on the staff this session. Prof. Cappon, Knight and Goodwin, who served Queen's so faithfully and well for years past, have retired. One graduate of Queen's and a son of a Kingstonian at that, is to be head of the department of chemistry, Arthur C. Neish, for some years on the staff of Columbia University, New York. Prof. J. L. ### Letters to the Editor

A Valuable Temperance Work.

Kingston, Sept. 30.—(To the Editor): The sign for and against prohibition, in this province, is on, and October 20th will tell the tale. A prohibitionist all my life, I desire once more to declare my faith, and support so good a cause. The friends of temperance have had a long journey in the wilderness, but, bit by bit, they have blazed their way out in spite of the violent and unscrupulous opposition of the liquor interest, and the shifty attitude of politicians. And we have had always with us, under some ambiguous name, those enlightened apostles of freedom—the Liberty League.

There is an educational work just out, wet from the press, by Dr. A. P. Knight, emeritus professor of physiology, Queen's University, and entitled, "The Ontario Public School Hygiene." As the name implies, the book deals with the preservation and improvement of health, both in the individual and in the community. From the first page to the last it is packed full with good things. For the presbytery, I mention it to commend two of its chapters. No. XVII, both of the real friends of temperance reform, and to its enemies, the Liberty League.

Every worker in the good cause should read them, and get them off by heart. Both in XXVII, "Alcohol and the Nervous System," which shows how intoxicants begin their demoralizing and ruinous work of the top, among the finer, nobler qualities of the soul, and steadily and surely make their way down to the lower levels of being until soul and body collapse, and the poor victim is a senseless, inert heap. The debauch, if not carried too far, is slept off, mother nature, benign mother helping her misguided, wayward offspring back again to sobriety of mind and body, and the properties and deceits which rightly belong to them.

Professor Knight is a scientific man of dominion-wide repute, and will not be charged with any bias in dealing with these facts. And it is reassuring to all who mean well for the future of our province, that the book on hygiene is authorized for use in our schools.

—M. MACGILLIVRAY.

Mr. Swain's Statements Challenged. Rocksprings, Ont., Sept. 29.—(To the Editor): In your issue of the 25th inst. J. C. Swain makes some statements which may be the result of his "amusement," but are certainly not according to facts. For instance, he says that "one-third of the population in England is beer," and that it is a country of great enjoyment. Now, Mr. Editor, there are hundreds of thousands in England that do not drink beer, and they are certainly not the most miserable class. The sweet memories that are ever with me of the Old Land are darkened by scenes of misery that I have witnessed, caused by beer.

He says, that the tombstones show 94, 102, 113 years. Perhaps they do, but they are so rare that they are a local curiosity, and he may be sure that those old folk did not live to that age by having one-third of their diet beer.

Is J. C. Swain sure that those navvies' dinner consists of bread, cheese and beer? Or would he be surprised to know that a large proportion of them belong to a splendid temperance society, and that they derive their strength from something more substantial than bread, cheese and beer? There are some of them that drink large quantities of beer. These perhaps have to live on bread and cheese, but J. C. Swain would hardly call them strong and powerful if he could see them in the morning, as I have, before they have recovered from the effects of a dose of the beautiful stuff that he so earnestly advocates. The statement that half of the unrest in Canada is due to prohibition is on a par with those that I have dealt with.

—CHAS. MILLS.

Referendum Workers Wanted.

John Greenlee, secretary of the referendum organization, is now engaged on completing the voters' lists. Three copies have to be made for each sub-division and much work is involved.
Volunteers are needed for scrutineers at the various poles on election day and much of the organization for the actual taking of the vote has yet to be perfected. The utmost enthusiasm prevails among those forming the committee but the number is not as large as it was hoped to be. At the present time it is likely that many of the clergy and women will have to act as scrutineers.

Cheese Piles Up in Montreal.

Reports from Montreal state that cheese has been arriving there faster than export orders, with the result that a large quantity remains unsold. This applies particularly to cheese purchased during the last week which remains on the hands of the exporters, and it is not likely that the demand outside of the recognized exporters will be sufficient to absorb so large a quantity. How this condition will effect prices remains to be seen, but it is hardly likely that for the present the fixed price will be exceeded.

To Close Up The C.G.R.

Orders have been issued for the closing up of the Canadian Garrison Regiment detachments, and the reduction of the establishments of the district depots to three officers. The depot at the Barriefield barracks has been ordered to vacate and move to the armouries, where provision has been made for accommodation during the remainder of the time it will be in existence as a unit. This will only be until the remainder of the troops from the district still overseas reach home.
Dr. Fred Mitchell, Cleveland, Ohio, summering at Cassidy's Point, Howe Island, left for the west on Wednesday. He has been ill for some years due to an attack on him by thugs who fractured his skull. Dr. Mitchell is a former Kingstonian.
"Maytime," Rida Johnston Young's interesting romance with music, tuneful, melodious and clean fun, will be presented at the Grand Opera House, Oct. 11th and 12th, with a matinee on Saturday.
Mr. Buck, 66 Victoria street, was removed to the Hotel Dieu to-day by S. S. Corbett's motor ambulance.

RAN AWAY FROM OTTAWA GOT WORK AT FAIR

Big Show Is Over and Now Youngster is Out of a Job.

A fifteen-year-old lad, a home boy from Ottawa, ran away and got a job with one of the men operating some of the amusements at the Kingston fair. When the fair was over he found himself out of a job and with his cash balance very low. He slept in the grand stand at the fair grounds one night, according to his story.

A family living in the north end of the city took pity on the youngster and have given him a home, and are willing to keep him. The case has been reported to Inspector John Pollock, of the Children's Aid Society, and he will make inquiries from the Children's Aid Society about the lad and his movements.

At Kingston Outer Station.

Outer Station, Oct. 1.—The many friends of Mrs. (Dr.) Lancy will be pleased to learn that she is so far recovered from her recent illness as to be able to be around again. Mrs. Frank Emmons, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the General Hospital, is doing nicely. Charles Watson was the guest of his parents on Sunday. The Ladies' Aid of the Depot Methodist church held a harvest sale on Monday evening; the proceeds were about $22. Mr. Doyle, who was injured by falling from the suburban train, is doing nicely. The young son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Knox is in the Hotel Dieu suffering from the flu, but at present is doing well. Mrs. Mary Vandewalker is on the sick list. Miss Thelma McAdoo, nurse-in-training at the General Hospital, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McAdoo.

Pleading guilty to five separate charges of house breaking, Daniel McFarland, 20 years of age, was sentenced at Halleyburg to three years in penitentiary.

Next Sunday at 2 a.m. Kingston will again revert to sun time. All clocks will be put back one hour at bed time Saturday night.
