IT MAY NEVER BE KNOWN

WHAT HAPPENED TO STEAMER WAFFLE ON LAKE.

Many Mariners Are of the Opinion That the Boiler Exploded—Movements of Vessels Reported Along the Harbor.

Just what happened to the steamer Waffle will probably never be known. Many mariners are inclined to believe that the boiler on the vessel exploded, owing to the condition of the wreckage found, and the fact that none of the life boats were picked up. Members of the crew of the steamer Jeska, which arrived in port from Oswego on Thursday, stated that it was their belief that the catastrophe had been caused by the explosion of the boiler on the steamer.

The tug Thomson arrived with the barge Davie, on her way to Point Anne, to load cement.

The steamer Jeska arrived from Oswego, with coal for Robert Crawford.

The schooner St. Louis cleared for Oswego.

The steamer Chamberlain and barges Frank and White cleared for Oswego.

The steamer City of Belleville passed up from Montreal on her way to Toronto at 3 a.m. to-day.

MUST SET CANADA ON FINANCIAL FEET

Citizens Are Called Upon For the Last Effort in Five Year Task.

The thorough worker is the good worker.

The thorough fighter is the good fighter.

Canadians were nothing if not thorough in the manner in which they tackled their task in France.

And their people at home showed the same quality in backing up the men on the battlefields.

But is the job finished yet? Never in the history of the country did the citizens of Canada display the same spirit of co-operation, of unity of purpose, as they did in bringing the war to a triumphant conclusion.

And now that the period of reconstruction is here are they going to change their methods? Or are they going to continue to be thorough?

The Victory Loan 1919 will show. In a sense it will be a "Clean Up" and "Carry Over" Loan. There is still a tremendous task to be done.

There is $200,000,000 of floating indebtedness on short term obligations made since the proceeds of the last loan were used up in June. Other obligations are coming up each day in more charges for transporting and maintaining troops, for putting the soldiers back on the land, for looking after the sick and wounded men who are still dribbling back.

This floating indebtedness or liability cannot be carried for any length of time. It is essential that Canada should find these obligations and put herself on a solid financial foundation so that she may face the future fearlessly. This loan will stabilize the national financial situation.

Great Britain, the United States, France and other countries in the war have had to float loans since the war, finding short term indebtedness and providing funds for their reconstruction programs.

Show your thoroughness by subscribing to the last available cent.

GOLD WATCH AND CHAIN
Presented To Major Turner, Retiring Paymaster.

On Wednesday evening Major Turner, late paymaster of M. D. No. 3, was presented with a gold watch and chain by the audit and pay staffs of the Richardson buildings a small token of respect. Major Turner has long been a soldier. When the war broke out he was appointed paymaster of the expeditionary force troops then in the city and later to be district paymaster. From then until a few weeks ago he continued in that office and a huge amount of work rolled steadily through the office. All through the period of demobilization he was at it, and when things slackened down a little he asked that his resignation be accepted. Major Turner won and held in a remarkable way the honor and respect of the large staff that worked under his able direction.
