Theatrical

At the Grand.

Last evening the large number of theatregoers that attended the Grand were held throughout the entire six reels of "The Divorce Trap," with Gladys Brockwell in the stellar role. The divorce question is one that is being discussed more and more every day and Miss Brockwell in her splendid interpretation of a telephone operator that is forced to divorce through the schemes of an unscrupulous woman, makes a gripping and timely story. Monroe Salisbury in "The Man in the Moonlight," pleased the entire audience. This has some of the best photography ever seen in Kingston. A Mutt & Jeff comedy and for the vaudeville "The Gardener" due to their amusing limbling act, complete the bill for the first part of this week. This programme will be presented to-night, and Wednesday, matinee and night.—Advt.

"Maytime."
What is the happy ending of "Maytime," the phenomenal musical success to be seen at the Grand Opera House on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 10th and 11th with a matinee on Saturday. In the world of to-day, as it seems, the hope of personal immortality is fading—of a heaven that will give us all that earth denied; but many in whom hope still springs unquenchable look forward to immortality of a sort in their children and their children's children. In the first act of "Maytime" the youthful lovers, Otilie and Dick, plant a seedling apple tree beneath the blossoms of which, as they hope, their children will live for generations. In the following acts the tree is seen maturing, aging and finally dead. But no children of theirs dance beneath it. There are children, however—a young Dick and a young Otilie. In the last act they are of the age at which their grandparents loved and parted, and are, of course, played by the same actors, who having matured and grown old before our eyes, are young once more, in the dress and manners of to-day. The story is romance at its most improbable, and there is an adroit stage fallacy, if you will, in the ending, which would not be at all so happy if the new Dick and Otilie were played by new actors. The cast includes William Morris, Carolyn Tibbison, and Melvin Stokes as the featured artists, and Maude Odell, Grace Studdford, Arthur Albrood, Edna Temple, Nina Valleris, Douglas Wood, Edward F. Nannary, Ruth Watson and others in important roles.—Advt.

"Oh, Boy."
"Oh, Boy," the fourth New York Princes theatre musical comedy success is announced by F. Ray Comstock and William Elliott as the attraction at the Grand on Monday, Oct. 13th, Thanksgiving day, matinee and night. Among the song bits in "Oh, Boy" are: "Let's Make a Night of It," "You Never Knew About Me," "A Package of Seeds," "An Old-Fashioned Wife," "A Pal Like You," "Till the Clouds Roll By," "A Little Bit of Ribbon," "The First Day of May," "Koo-la-Loo," "Rolled Into One," "Oh, Daddy Please," "When It's Nesting Time in Flatbush," "Words Are Not Needed" and "Flubby Bub, the Caveman."—Advt.

At the Strand.

Another Metro success was shown at the theatre yesterday when Bert Lytell appeared in the clever comedy-drama, "One-Thing-at-a-Time O' Day," a Saturday Evening Post story by William Dudley Pelly. The story is that of O' Day, a young man who believes that to accomplish success it is necessary to concentrate upon one thing at a time. One day he visits a circus and sees the beautiful young bare-back rider, Li Belle Marie. He at once decides that Li Belle is the girl he intends to marry, but first, of course, he must know her—then he must make a special study of love. O' Day applies for a job, with the circus but is refused. He is determined, however, to exert all his energies and gets it. He hates the strong man of the show, who also loves Marie, and determines to lick him—although he himself is not a fighter. He therefore makes a special study of this—and accomplishes his desire. He then resolves to become a partner and half owner of the show. As he has made a special study of saving money, and the circus is on its last legs, this is a comparatively easy matter. Last but not least he decides that Marie shall love him. What is his amazement to find that she already does—that one thing has come to him without a special study. The story ends with the appearance of twins for the lucky O' Day, and he realizes that good things sometimes do come two-at-a-time.—Advt.

Dog and Apple Jack Mix in "Daddy Long Legs"
One of the bits which will delight all in "Daddy Long Legs," the Mary Pickford Company picture featuring the famous little star, is the performance of a dog who drinks part of a jug of apple jack. Audiences at the Strand where this picture will be seen Thursday Friday, Saturday will see a new type of humor in the antics of this animal which gives a first rate imitation of a tippler trying to make his way home after a too liberal imbibition.—Advt.

At Griffin's.
Standing room only was the order of the day at Griffin's last evening, when every available seat was taken up by the very large audience who came to see the all star programme being exhibited, and went away greatly pleased with the same. That dainty little exponent of best in screen portrayals, Ethel Clayton heads the bill in her new picture "A Sporting Chance," which was declared by all present to be the best this artist has been seen in in some time, and that is saying a whole lot. The picture deals with a girl who is a prey to every impulse that seizes her, and provides an excellent story for an Ethel Clayton picture. Don't miss it. An exceptionally clever programme of vaudeville is also shown and received a very hearty reception last night. Lew Lewis, the man with the voice was easily the star of the evening, and provides rare humor, well as rendering some good songs in excellent voice. The Du Barrys, harmony singing and piano playing was very effective, and greatly pleased, while the Italian Accordionist performed in a wonderful manner, and was voted the best heard in Kingston in some time. This programme should not be overlooked by anyone as its equal has not been shown in this city for some days.—Advt.
