FIGHTING LIQUOR TRAFFIC

REV. PETER BRYCE, OF TORONTO, MADE A STRONG APPEAL

In Address at Sydenham Street Methodist Church Sunday Evening—Declared Crime Has Decreased in Toronto by One-Third Under Ontario Temperance Act.—Does Not Believe Workingmen Want Beer.

"Prohibition, for the sake of the man, the woman, the home, the child, efficiency, production, the happiness and prosperity of the people of the province of Ontario." Under these heads, Rev. Peter Bryce, of Earlscourt Methodist church, Toronto, made a stirring appeal to his hearers in Sydenham street Methodist church on Sunday evening. He did not preach a sermon, but as the representative of the Ontario Referendum Committee, which includes the Dominion Alliance, the W. C. T. U. and kindred organizations, he spoke on behalf of those who are directing the campaign to wipe out the liquor traffic, and appealed for funds to defray the expenses of the work. At the outset of his address, he denied that the committee has ten tons of literature stored in Toronto with which to flood the country against the use of tobacco, so soon as the present referendum has been taken. He did not deny that tobacco would be an object of attack, but he said that the committee was engaged in fighting the liquor traffic and its liquor would be an object when it succeeded. "Why are thousands of men and women giving their time voluntarily to this work? It was because of the destruction wrought by liquor." He then told touching stories of wasted lives, unhappy homes, handicapped children, all because of the accessibility to alcoholic liquor through government license. For twenty years he was in the mining districts of Scotland, where the liquor traffic has full sway. He was for five years president of the social workers in the city of Toronto, and he believed the crime had decreased one-third under the O. T. A. and he quoted Father Minnihan and Miss Ureig, of the University Settlement in that city as testifying to the great benefits of the law. The Seattle Times stated that in Seattle the sales of clothing and shoes to women and children had increased under prohibition. In our own province manufacturers and other business men reported great increases in production and sales owing to the higher state of efficiency made possible by the Ontario Temperance Act.

The speaker uttered a warning regarding the financial position of the country and showed the great need for the employment of our whole strength in production. The sum of $36,000,000 was spent for liquor in Canada in one year. He did not believe that the working man could be a user for the Industrial Banner, the official organ of organized labor in Ontario, endorsed prohibition. "The liquor traffic means destruction, while prohibition means construction," declared Rev. Mr. Bryce, and he appealed to the best men and the best men in Kingston who have the best interests of the country at heart to give their influence for prohibition.

At Calvary Church on Sunday evening J. W. Bengough of the central referendum committee, Toronto, spoke on the coming referendum in this province. He spoke on the great work in hand of trying to stamp out the evils and workings of liquor and urged everyone to stick behind the local committee in its good work.

The First Baptist Church was filled on Sunday morning to hear George Bell, M.P., speak on the referendum. He spoke on the evils of the open bar and urged the congregation to give their vote very careful consideration. Thanksgiving services were held both morning and evening, and a splendid musical programme was given at both services.

Christian Science Lecture. Dr. John M. Tut, C.S.B., to speak in Christian Science Church, Johnson street, tonight.

A religion, which in twenty-five years has built more fine church edifices than any other denomination within the same period; which brought 40,000 enthusiastic believers to Boston, Mass., on the occasion of the dedication of the great mother church, needs no introduction regarding its outward accomplishments.

What Christian Science is, and what is the underlying spirit which prompts so great and beneficial an aggregation of good works, can best be learned by attending the lecture tonight, which is free, and offers help for the hearing.

From the Far West.

Condor, Alta., Oct. 6.—The farmers are having fine threshing weather, and threshing machines can be heard on all sides. Crops are very good in this district. Barton Brothers threshed over nine thousand bushels of grain. F. W. Barton threshed three thousand bushels from thirty-two acres.

F. Card has a brand new Overland car. Whooping cough has been very bad in this vicinity, but is disappearing. W. E. Barton is visiting at S. S. Barton's and F. W. Barton's.

A number of returned soldiers have bought land in this part of the country. The chicken season has opened again and guns can be heard in every direction.

Thanksgiving Services.

Thanksgiving services were held both morning and evening at the First Congregational Church on Sunday. The church was very tastefully decorated for the occasion with flowers and the trees of grain. A splendid musical programme was the feature of both services which were largely attended. At the evening service, a duet "A Song of Praise" was sung by Miss Woolgar and Eytan Warburton, and a quartette "Come to Me" by Meses Woolgar, Pearne, Burnes and Mrs. Coward. There was also a violin solo by Miss Helen Taylor.

BIRTH OF A POEM.

"In Flanders Fields" Born of Fire and Blood.

"In Flanders Fields" to quote the words of Maj.-Gen. Morrison, who commanded the brigade to which Lieut.-Col. McCrae was attached, "was literally born of fire and blood during the hottest phase of the second battle of Ypres when the enemy's headquarters were in a trench on the top of the bank of the Ypres Canal; and John had his dressing station in a hole dug in the foot of the bank. During periods of the battle the men who were shot actually rolled down the bank into his dressing station. Along from us a few hundred yards was the headquarters of a regiment, and many times during the sixteen days of the battle, he and I watched them burying their dead whenever there was a lull. Thus the crosses, row on row, grew into a good-sized cemetery."

"Just as he describes, we often heard the larks singing high in the air, between the crash of the shell and the reports of the guns in the battery just beside us. I have a letter from him in which he mentions having written the poem to pass away the time between the arrival of batches of wounded, and partly as an experiment with several varieties of poetic meter."

The unit with which McCrae served was the most advanced of all the Allies' guns by a good deal, except one French battery, which stayed in a position yet more advanced for two days, and then had to be taken out.

Heroic Work of Canadian Doctors.

The faithful labors of the Canadian Army Medical Corps are drawing to a close. At the date of the armistice, 1,000 sick and wounded soldiers lay in France and 38,000 in England. At the end of September there were only 184 Canadian soldiers on the roster, of whom seven were wounded men, twenty-four blind and the rest sick.

The work of the corps is enshrined in 64 boxes of records which are awaiting despatch to Canada. Maj.-Gen. G. L. Foster, C.B., Director-General of Medical Service, claims that a detailed record of the injuries and treatment of every man who passed through his hands may be found in those 64 boxes to prove, if necessary, to every wife and mother in Canada that no man of hers ever failed to receive proper consideration.

He finds no words of praise too high for the medical men who left their practices in Canada and came overseas to work and suffer with the troops, either under fire, where their valour was on a level with the infantry, or in the drudgery of administration.

"I am intensely proud to belong to such a service," said Gen. Foster, "and consider it a splendid privilege to have lived in an age which produced this war, for, as the horrors were very great, the heroism which faced them was infinitely greater. The Canadian and Imperial medical services worked together like brothers, and close association helped us to grow, until the C.A.M.C. became as large as the whole of the British R.A.M.C. at the time of the South African war."

Related to Royalty.

By a recent wedding a former Toronto man, Capt. Walter A. Curran, of the C.E.F., becomes a cousin, by marriage, with a niece of the Queen. Capt. Curran, who is a son of Mr. John Curran, of Orillia, married Mrs. Cyril W. Cunard, of Grosvenor Square, London, widow of the late Cyril Cunard, of the well-known steamship family, in February, 1918. Previous to her first marriage Mrs. Curran was a Miss Gibbs. Her first cousin, Major Evelyn Gibbs, the well-known officer and sportsman, married Lady Helena Cambridge, younger daughter of the Marquis and Marchioness of Cambridge, on September 2. The Marquis of Cambridge is a son of the late Duke of Teck and brother of Queen Mary.

DEWS OF EVE

No More Gentle Than "Cascarets" for the Liver, Bowels

It is just as needless as it is dangerous to take violent or nasty cathartics. Nature provides no shock-absorbers for your liver and bowels against calomel, harsh pills, sickening oil and salts. Cascarets give quick relief without injury from Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Gases and Sick Headache. Cascarets work while you sleep, removing the toxins, poisons and sour, indigestible waste without griping or inconvenience. Cascarets regulate by strengthening the bowel muscles. They cost so little too.

Steacy's Presentation Of The Authoritative Fashions For Autumn

Our position as the fashion centre for ladies' wear in Kingston is more pronounced than ever, by reason of the master exhibit of quality apparel now on review—a gathering of approved fashions without a peer in the town.

There is every evidence of supremacy in the styles and values presented by this store—the result of matchless resourcefulness in assembling the cream of the product of the world's most noted makers.

Coats

Strikingly beautiful in richness of their materials and the softness of the furs that trim them, the Fall and Winter Coats surpass anything we have ever seen. The wide range of materials is particularly interesting in view of the high price of woollens and shortage of labor. Priced $25.00 to $100.00.

Suits

New in many delightful phases are the suit fashions for the fall season. Suit modes have longer coats, slightly more tailored; many of them belted; close fitting at the waist, but flaring slightly at the bottom.

In these suits embroidery of braid or of Silk and unusual pockets are noted, and many of them are trimmed with fur. Priced $35.00 to $85.00.

Dresses

The showing includes many exclusive models. Here are to be seen smart Dresses of Silk, Satin, Taffeta, Georgette, Crepe de Chene, Serge, Tricolette, in various charming styles. These dresses must be seen to be fully appreciated, and the prices will be found to be moderate in each case. Priced $16.50 to $95.00

Skirts

The fine quality of the fabrics, the exceeding care with which the Skirts have been made, and the fact that these styles have just arrived for Fall, make these skirts particularly desirable. Priced $8.75 to $27.50

Fall Hats

All the popular new models are now on display—roll brims, tam effects, mushroom shapes—a very comprehensive collection designed for Autumn wear. Priced $3.00 up to $10.00
