He Chalked Up One. As the last train was about to go out, an old farmer rushed into an already overcrowded compartment. It so happened that an occupant - a distinguished young man - was one of his customers. By way of pleasantry, the dude inquired what he had got in a small box under his arm. "Oh," said the farmer, "a box of chalk!" "I see," the young man replied, with an air of wisdom on his countenance, and looking round at his fellow-passengers - "Chalk for the milk, eh?" "Not exactly," drawled the old chap, slowly, "but I've done so much chalking up for milk at your house that I've had to buy another box!" Dog Mightn't Know. A Chinaman was much worried by a vicious-looking dog which barked at him in an angry manner. "Don't be afraid of him," said a friend. "You know the old proverb: 'A barking dog never bites.'" "Yes," said the Chinaman, "you know proverb, I know proverb, but does dog know proverb?" You may be benefited by doing much more thinking than talking. Some children grow too slow physically and too fast mentally.
